TURKISH TROOPS

Were Surprised and Attacked by a Force of Rebels

HODEIDAH, Arabia, June 17, via Aden, June 23.—Rebels in great force today surprised and cut up a Turkish column commanded by Mahomed Ali Pasha outside Gheesan, a town on the Red sea, about 100 miles north of Hodeidah. A thousand Turkish soldiers were killed. Mahomed Ali Pasha is missing.

The fighting was so desperate and at such close quarters that 500 Turkish fugitives are suffering from severe dagger wounds. The survivors fled in disorder to Gheesan, pursued by the rebels.

The Turkish gunboat Sutebbe, intending to shell the Arabs, shelled Gheesan, killing or wounding several hundred soldiers.

The rebels captured four big guns, two Maxims, two thousand rifles and a quantity of ammunition, and ultimately retired.

RODNEY G. F. MOORE

Writes of Trip to Santo Domingo City

Rodney G. F. Moore, a Lowell boy on the U. S. S. Petrie writes from Santo Domingo City the following interesting account of his travels:

"We left Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, May 2, '11, and arrived here May 1, '11, traveling a distance of 492 miles. Upon arrival we tied up at our original berth using cocoanut trees for bolards, near the mouth of the Ozama river, and everything was made ship-shape, and monthly money was issued to the crew. After drawing money the next question that came up was, how are we going to get rid of it, for it is a hard thing to do in this country as we were getting but very little liberty, so several of the members of the crew got together and formed a baseball league, to be known as the 'Stormy League' composed of members of the Port Starboard watch on deck, and the Engineers' division. A schedule of games was drawn up, to be played on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday afternoons. Everything went well for about eight games when several members of the team lost their 'zeal' which broke up the league, but while it lasted it was most interesting for nearly every one had an opportunity to get ashore and see the games played, especially those who cared to do so.

The standing of the League teams upon breaking up was as follows: Engineers, 500; Starboard Watch, 450; Port Watch, 250.

The chief exports of this port seem to be sugar and tobacco and every day one can see large towers of sugar and tobacco coming down the river.

"One of the most interesting places that I have visited while in this port is about four miles inland and is called in Spanish, 'Tres Ojos Cave' meaning 'Three eyes.' This cave has three distinct lakes of water, natural bridges and grottoes. Several of our party went in bathing while there and the water was found to be most refreshing, especially after the hard walk out there. The water is as clear as crystal and one can see the bottom at any place in the lake, but it is almost impossible to get to the bottom in an ordinary plunge dive. I have two specimens of the formation that were taken from the bottom at a depth of twenty feet. They are of a limestone composition and very hard.

"By next mail I will be able to send a view of the cave to your valuable paper for publication if so desired.

We leave here at 3 a. m. for San Juan, P. R., for coal and supplies. Further destination is not known at this writing.

Hoping soon to be with my Lowell friends once more, for I have found that Lowell is not the worst place in the world after all—I am.

Very truly yours,

Rodney G. F. Moore.

MADE SUICIDE PACT

Two Lowell Girls Admit That They Decided to End Their Lives

Laura Dresser and Nellie Gray, two young women, entered into a suicide pact yesterday afternoon, it is alleged, and the former attempted to end her life by throwing herself into the waters of Lake Massawippi, but was rescued. The Gray girl this morning attempted to jump into the Merrimack river in the vicinity of Broadway and Pawtucket street, but Patrolman Johnson happened to be in the vicinity in the nick of time and prevented the girl from committing the rash act.

The Dresser girl is 22 years of age and resides at 14 Ralph street, while the Gray girl lives with her parents at 13 McFarlin avenue, off Pawtucket street.

The Dresser girl has been employed for a short time by Mrs. August Peis at Tray Rock in Lakeview, and the Gray girl worked as a domestic at George L. Fowler's house in Middlesex Village. The girls were friends and yesterday afternoon they both went to Lakeview and met some friends. It is said that they then decided to end their lives, and sitting on a bench in the park it was agreed between them that they would jump into the water.

The Dresser girl waited until night came on, and then walked down to the boat landing at which the Willow Dale steamer stops and jumped off the wharf. The water was not deep, and she waded out into the deeper water. Two men who had witnessed her actions jumped into the water and saved her. Miss Dresser, after being rescued said she was tired of living and wanted to end her life, but she was turned over to Sgt. John Gody of Lakeview park, who brought her to Lowell, and she was placed in the detention room at the police station.

This morning when she appeared in court she was none the worse for her voluntary ducking.

She would not talk at first, but finally admitted that she was despondent and had agreed with the Gray girl to end her life. When the police learned of the pact Sgt. Welch notified the patrolmen to be on the lookout for the Gray girl and at about 9:15 o'clock she was found on the bank of the Merrimack river near the Boston & Northern power house by Patrolman Joseph Johnson and he sent her to the police station.

Miss Gray admitted that she had entered into a suicide pact with the Dresser girl, but instead of drowning herself last night decided to wait until this morning. She said that she was about to throw herself into the river when a carriage approached and in order that they would not see her enter the water she waited until they passed and was about to end her life when the patrolman came on the scene. She said that she had agreed with the Dresser girl to end her life and thinking that the latter was dead was about to carry out her promise.

When Patrolman Johnson reached the place he found that the girl had divested herself of her coat and hat and was preparing to make a plunge.

Neither of the girls could explain the reason for their attempt to commit the rash act other than that they were sick and tired of working.

The Gray girl, who is well developed and appears to be much older than she is, gave her age as 15 years, while the Dresser girl, who is rather slight, said she was 22 years old.

They will be cared for by Miss Skilton of the Florence Crittenden home.

COMMITTED SUICIDE

Abraham Hussan of Elm Place Ended His Life by Hanging

Abraham Hussan, aged 22 years, residing at 3 Elm Place, committed suicide this morning by hanging himself. His body was found about 8 o'clock by one of the occupants of the house. The police were notified and Inspector Charles Laflamme and Messenger John J. Pindar were sent to the house, the latter cutting down the body.

Hussan had been in this country but three weeks. He worked for a week in the Prescott mills but had been out of employment for several days. The room where he was found was occupied by himself and several others of his fellow countrymen. They left the place this morning about 6 o'clock to go to their work and Hussan was apparently asleep at the time.

One of the occupants, Alla Zool, went in search of the body in one of the local mills, but being unable to secure a position returned to the house and upon entering the room discovered Hussan suspended by a rope from a water pipe on the side of the wall.

Being unable to speak the English language, he hastened to the home of a friend in Market street and informed the latter of the suicide. The friend notified the police.

When the police arrived they found Hussan's body lying on the bed, one end of the rope around his neck and the other attached to the water pipe. He was black in the face and had been dead for several hours. Mr. Pindar cut the rope and netted Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons and they removed the body to their waterclosets in Germain street, where it was viewed by Medical Examiner J. V. Meigs, who signed the death return "suicide by hanging."

RAKISH HATS ARE BECOMING TO YOUNG FACES

This smart hat might prove trying to an older face, but on this young girl it is charming. Burch straw band was used to make the shape which has the extensions over the ears so fashionable now. The trimming is velvet ribbon in the new shade of red, caught down with buttons on the straw.

TRAINING CHILDREN SO THAT THEY WILL NOT BE NUISANCES

"Mercy, what a little!" some fond mother exclaims, as if the little darlings ever had a tendency that way. Ah, but, yes, madam, they have! All children suffer from exaggerated ego. They think they are the center around which the universe revolves, and as most parents are apt to feel the same way the result is often painful to friends and associates. The unruly child is likely to be a social pest.

Try to talk with him in the room obliges you to put all your trinkets under lock and key. Little torment, he keeps your nerves on edge with apprehension until you would give a good sum of money to be insured against him.

This little nuisance, together with the whiny child, the child who giggles and the child who talks at the top of his lungs all the time, should certainly be abolished.

It is consistent with perfect health that a child should be quiet, free from nerves, polite and a respecter of the property of others. If he is otherwise that is the mother's fault.

NATURE'S CURE

FOR WORN OUT BODY LIES IN GROWING THINGS

They say criminals have been reformed by means of a garden. Be this as it may, if nervousness is a cause of crime, as many affirm it is, then the saying is at least in part true, for working in the soil and making things grow is one of the best cures for nervousness known.

In all means, Madame Nervous Wreck, have a garden this summer if you have nothing else. Give up your sewing and give up your ceremonious calls and bridge parties, wear old clothes and enjoy the life giving properties of the earth and plants.

It is not too late to have a fine backless garden while you can plant some seed which will blossom this season, such as nasturtiums and like easy growing plants, yet it is far wiser to buy young plants from the nearest florist.

Select hardy annuals—snapdragons, sun pinks, phloxes, asters, heliotropes and sweet alyssums. The plants may be bought for 25 cents a dozen. Make a bed for these by digging the soil some six inches, turning it over, raking it well and mixing bone dust with it. Then set out your plants some evening and water plentifully. Water every evening, but not during the day-time, as the sun acting through each drop of water like a prism burns the plant.

You can buy tomato plants for a vegetable garden; also eggplants, cabbage, lettuce plants, sweet potato vines and sweet peppers. While it is too late to plant peas, you can have beans still and some radishes, onions and cabbages.

The latter should be put up when it has a certain height to keep it from growing green and coarse.

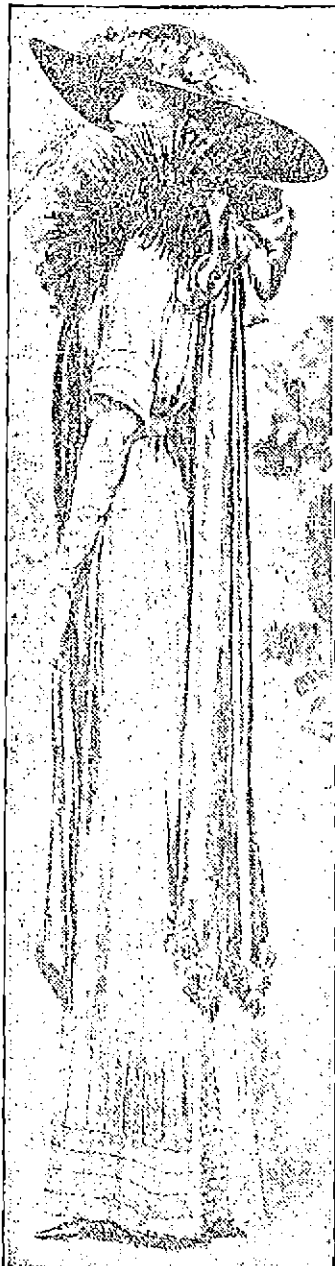

Beans can also be sown as late as this for the sake of the greens.

Let every woman suffering from higher nerves try the garden remedy.

RICH ROCK CAKES

Use half a pound of butter, half a pound of caster sugar, two eggs, half a pound of saltine, two ounces of chocolate, half a pound of flour, three-quarters of a pound of sugar and a teaspoonful of baking powder.

Beat the butter and sugar, add the eggs separately, sprinkle the saltine with flour and the chocolate, add them and then mix in the flour and baking powder. Divide into rocky cakes with two forks and bake in a moderate oven.

NEW SHORT RUCHE STYLE

Painfully out of fashion the short ruche has been for a long time. Here we have it revived, only the present model has two long bows, one in the back, the other in front.

A NEW WAY TO COOK TOMATOES

Take about a pound of even sized tomatoes and a little butter or salad oil. Cut some rounds of foolscap paper large enough to wrap the tomatoes in.

AN ORIENTAL BLOUSE

This smart little blouse was picked up in a Fifth Avenue shop which makes a specialty of little models of this sort for wear with two piece suits of wool or mohair. The blouse illustrated was selected to accompany a mustard brown serge suit, and the pattern, an old oriental design, is embroidered in shades of coral and brown on a pale cream ground. Fancy braid in two shades of brown finishes the top of the blouse, and in the neck opening is set a line of thin gold net.

Brush them over with melted butter or salad oil.

Wash the tomatoes and take off the stalks; then wrap each up in a round of paper.

Put them in a greased baking tin, put them in the oven and bake them from ten to twenty minutes or until they are tender without being broken. The length of time will depend entirely on their firmness. Serve in a hot vegetable dish.

PLYMONT CAKES

Use three ounces of butter, a quarter of a pound of caster sugar, a few drops of vanilla essence, three eggs, five ounces of flour, three ounces of ground rice and one teaspoonful of baking powder.

Cream the butter and sugar and add to it the vanilla essence. Beat the eggs (boiled and whites separately) and add to the sugar and butter. Now add gradually, beating all the time, the flour, ground rice and baking powder. Beat all for seven minutes. Pour into buttered tins and bake in a hot oven for twenty minutes.

THE LATEST SNAPSHOT OF HELEN GOULD

More charming and energetic than ever, Miss Helen Miller Gould was the honored guest of a recent garden fete held at the army post on Governors Island, New York. Miss Gould's good work among the soldiers and sailors is too well known to need comment. The picture shows her walking with Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant. Miss Gould is at the left in the picture.

COUNTRY SCONES.

Use two ounces of butter, three-quarters of a pound of flour, half an ounce of cream of tartar, a quarter of an ounce of carbonate of soda, one ounce and a half of caster sugar and sultanas.

Put the butter into the flour, add the cream of tartar, the soda and the sugar and mix into a stiff dough with nearly half a pint of sour milk or buttermilk. Roll out into a round cake, mark this into eight portions, brush over with egg and bake in a hot oven.

WIFE IS IN ASYLUM

She Knows Nothing of Her Husband's Suicide

BOSTON, June 23.—The discovery that her husband, shortly after their marriage had borrowed $500 from two of her old friends, is believed to be responsible for the mental condition of Della Lovett Neel, playwright and author, who is at a Dorchester sanatorium suffering from a nervous breakdown.

The news that her husband, rather than the chance against him in court, committed suicide in a police cell in Detroit has been kept from her and it is probable she will not see his body. The police claim he was driven to suicide by his crowded financial dealings.

But three months ago Boston society was set agog by the news Miss Neel had wed Oscar F. Spaete. The man had posed as a Western railroad president and won her attention by his wide knowledge of the world.

The marriage was a secret one, but it was not long after the Boston woman discovered her husband was nothing but a common swindler. The blow prostrated her.

Creditors chased him wherever he went and the bride set about to write a book to get money to pay some of her husband's debts.

Matters became too hot for Spaete in Boston and he left the city in haste. Mrs. Spaete accompanied him to the train, but on her way home collapsed under the strain.

Letters from her husband so excited her that finally the doctors refused to allow them to be given to her.

He wrote to her, passionately upbraiding himself for the evil courses into which he had fallen and protesting in extravagant terms his love.

These letters renewed the faith of the young wife in her husband. She confided to a friend: "I believe Oscar is a dual personality. These two fearful spirits in him are constantly fighting for supremacy. I think that when he is with me, I am able to help his good spirit to conquer."

The young woman supported herself for a time by giving private lessons in foreign languages and on the royalties from her books. Finally she broke down completely and was removed to a sanatorium.

FORGERY IS CHARGED THE DIVORCE COURTS

Lawyer Russell of Derry Placed Under Arrest

DERRY, N. H., June 23.—Lawyer Lester W. Russell was arrested last night by Deputy Sheriff James S. Webster upon complaint of Rev. Silas E. Quimby.

Russell was the counsel employed by Mr. Quimby as executor of the large estate of the late Mary A. Leach of Derry village. Mr. Quimby received his checks from the Derry National bank a few days ago and he charges forgery.

The complaint charges Russell with forgery of a check for $2000 upon the Derry National bank, the check being made out to L. W. Russell. Mr. Quimby's name was forged and it was indorsed upon the back by L. W. Russell.

THE DIVORCE COURTS

Disposed of a Number of Cases Yesterday

BOSTON, June 23.—Forty-one divorce cases of Suffolk county were before Judges Dana, Fessenden, Sherman and Raymond of the superior court yesterday.

Nineteen cases were tried, in most of which the decision was reversed, and 22 were temporarily disposed of either by continuance, dismissal without prejudice or otherwise.

This leaves about 36 cases on the list and the court officials do not expect that number will have to be tried before adjournment of the session tomorrow.

Judge Sherman adjourned his court until October. Judges Dana and Raymond will continue hearing cases today and if necessary Judge Fessenden will also hear contested cases.

Judge Sherman, at the afternoon session, heard the testimony in the libel of Maude E. White vs. Nicholas White, who were married in Charlestown in the early 90's. The wife alleged cruel and abusive treatment. She left her husband in May, 1909.

The libellant testified that on her birthday in 1908 her husband got angry because she would not give him a kiss. She said he threatened her in these words: "I will kill you if I have to hang."

She said that in 1909 her husband threw water on her, causing a nervous shock. Because of a refusal to get up and get his breakfast on another occasion, she said, he was cruel and abusive and her screams brought to her assistance her little daughter and a man who lived upstairs.

Rose V. White, the 14-year-old daughter of the parties, corroborated the testimony of her mother and said she was "awfully frightened" of her father.

Judge Sherman reserved decision. Judge Dana heard the case of Mrs. Harriet B. Coyne against Martin J. They were married in December, 1909, the wife being then under 15 years of age and the husband about 23. They lived on Doris street, Dorchester. The libellant said she had been repeatedly assaulted by her husband before they separated, some six months after the marriage. The mother of the libellant corroborated her daughter's testimony.

The libellee denied he assaulted his wife and denied her assertion that he had hung a pipe at her or had allowed her to be hungry.

Judge Dana took the case under advisement.

3 CURED OF ECZEMA IN ONE FAMILY

By Cuticura Remedies. Children Scratched Night and Day. Mother Suffered 8 Years. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Ringworm too.

"When a child, I suffered eight years with eczema. I could not sleep at night, and had sores all over my chest. We had doctors and none could do any good, until my mother saw the advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies in a paper. We used the Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent, and they cured me of eczema. I also used them on my five children. Two of them had eczema very badly. When my children had eczema, I was not worried at all, as I knew the Cuticura Remedies would do their work. They had sores all over their heads, their hair would fall out, and they would scratch all night and day. They had it on their heads, faces, and in back of the ears so that I thought their ears would drop off. I washed the heads and bodies with Cuticura Soap, and they are as clean as the driven snow. Cuticura Soap and Ointment also cured my children of ringworm. I would not be without the Cuticura Remedies. They are wonderful." (Signed) Mrs. Violet Cole, 26 S. Redford St., Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 29, 1910.

SAVED COMPANION
FELTON RESCUED F. H. ALDEN FROM THE SEA

BANGOR, June 23.—F. H. Alden of Montclair, N. J., who with Charles Felton of Bronxville, N. Y., is making a power boat cruise along the Maine coast, had a narrow escape from drowning in the Penobscot river at Bangor, five miles below this city, last night.

They had come up the river and tied up at a buoy off Bangor, when the mooring rope became entangled in the propeller. Alden disrobed and went over the stern with a knife in his teeth to cut the rope clear. When he did not appear for probably two minutes, Felton stripped of his clothes and went after him.

He found Alden with his ankle caught in the rope, struggling desperately to free himself, but being dragged down by the tide.

Alden was in desperate condition, but still held the knife in his teeth. This Felton secured with considerable difficulty and cut Alden loose. Almost every ounce of his strength was exhausted in getting the half-conscious Alden into the boat.

Felton worked over his companion nearly half an hour before he revived him. Meanwhile the boat had drifted nearly a mile and stranded on the beach on the Orrington shore. She was floated without damage.

WIFE GETS FORTUNE

Her Husband Will Leave the Water Wagon

DANBURY, Conn., June 23.—Mrs. Charles S. Sigourney, of this city, who says she has come into an English inheritance of $11,000,000, today declared it to be her chief ambition to provide her husband with a stable of fast horses. He was at one time one of the most noted owners and drivers of race horses in America.

Mrs. Sigourney, who asserts she is now the Rt. Hon. Bessie Walling Hall, by virtue of titles granted by the House of Lords last September, said she intended to do good with her money and would not forget the town of Danbury, although she is to reside in Wales in the future.

In her little farmhouse, amid the poorest surroundings, Mrs. Sigourney is busy packing her belongings, preparatory to sailing for England July 1, to take possession of her vast estate.

"Once more I will leave the fine dresses I was accustomed to when my husband's name was a by-word on the leading race courses," she said. "My health is so poor that I will not be able to enjoy the money as I should have two years ago, but I hope to be able to make a lot of poor persons a little better as a result of my wind-fall."

"My husband cannot yet realize our good fortune after his awful financial reverses. The newspaper accounts of the race racing in England, however, have cheered him up immensely, and his chief ambition is to have him throw aside his position as driver on the spring water wagon and resume his prominence as the owner of winning mounts."

HE ESCAPED INJURY

Man Fell a Distance of 100 Feet

NEW YORK, June 23.—Evan Sherman, 50 years old, of 299 West 121st street, fell from the eighth story of the Scott's Borne building, at 409 Pearl street, yesterday, and half an hour later in St. Gregory's hospital, with no injuries but two slight scratches on his knees, as a result of his 100-foot plunge, was describing his sensations while in the air.

Sherman once before dropped from the fourth floor of a building in which he was working as a painter, getting off with a few bruises.

He was painting yesterday on a window ledge when he slipped and pitched headlong toward the sidewalk. As he passed some telegraph wires he grasped one of them. He lost his hold but the fall was broken. He was stunned, but by the time Dr. Savage arrived from St. Gregory's he was in good shape.

"When I felt myself going," said Sherman, "I thought my time had come. I made up my mind to fall, if I could, feet first. I remembered the other fall I had and felt my good luck would not desert me. I thought of my wife and children, in fact, I thought of everything possible. My brain never worked so fast."

WOMAN GETS $19,500

HER HUSBAND WAS KILLED IN AN ELEVATOR ACCIDENT

NEW YORK, June 23.—The Hudson and Manhattan Railway company has agreed to pay Mrs. Fay Lovejoy, of No. 552 Riverside Drive $19,500 for the loss of her husband, Irving T. Lovejoy, killed in the company's elevator at the Exchange place, Jersey City, tunnel station on Jan. 1, 1910.

The elevator was not in service, Lovejoy and August O. Flocker, of No. 313 Montgomery street, Jersey City, rushed into it when the ropaliers started it, and were caught and crushed fatally. Flocker's father, Rudolph, has a suit for $100,000 pending.

DR. ERWIN SMITH

SAYS THAT CANCER IS A GERMI DISEASE

WASHINGTON, June 21.—That cancer is a germ disease is the conclusion reached by Dr. Erwin P. Smith, chief of the bureau of plant diseases, United States department of agriculture, in his studies of plant tumors.

These tumors, said Dr. Smith today, which that cancer is not a germ disease, simply because they have never been able to find the germ, but I have never positively said that plant tumors, which is nothing more than cancer in the vegetable world—are due to a parasite, despite the fact that I have never seen or found the organism in plant cells with the aid of the microscope.

PRETTY LAWN FETE

In Aid of St. Columba's
Parish Last Evening

A delightful and very successful lawn party in aid of St. Columba's parish was held by the Tabernacle society of the church on the spacious lawns and verandas of the beautiful residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Saunders, 325 Mammoth road. The grounds were decorated with Japanese lanterns and large calcium lights, the lanterns being strung along the veranda and among the trees. Tables were set among the trees at which light refreshments were served. A fortune teller's tent was liberally patronized and dancing on the green was enjoyed. An enjoyable feature of the evening was the auto riding which alone netted a snug sum. The autos were loaned by the Moody bridge garage through the kindness of the Rochette and Mr. Arthur Cumiskey. The calcium lights were loaned by the B. & N. railroad. The proceeds go to defray the expenses of the sanctuary furnishings in the new church. Those who had charge of the pleasant affair were: General manager, Miss Minnie Saunders; assistants, Misses Jennie Dunfee, Katherine McDermott, Macie Dunfee, Agnes Dunfee, Kate Holmes, Mrs. M. Walsh and Tabernacle society girls; Messrs. Daniel Desmond, John McManimon, Matthew Whaley, Pe-

PERMANENT COURT

OF ARBITRATION MAY BE CRE-
ATED SOON

WASHINGTON, June 23.—A measurable advance toward the creation of the permanent court of arbitration, the ideal of all publicists and lovers of peace, will be recorded when the British government finally gives its sanction to the declaration of London providing for the creation of an international prize court. The declaration of the British premier last week, in answer to the adverse petition of the British admirals that the government had decided to adhere to the prize court convention has given great satisfaction in official circles here. In the opinion of Secretary Knox such action would clear the way for the consummation of the more important agreement upon the permanent court project. President Taft, Secretary Knox and Senator Root have not hesitated to indicate their belief that the establishment of the permanent court of arbitration, followed as it would be by the adoption by all great nations of a universal code of international law, would work more for the perpetuation of peace among nations than many separate arbitration treaties.

This project probably will form the most important feature of the next Hague conference, which will assemble in about three years and in preparation for its proper presentation Secretary Knox has been in communication with nearly all of the signatory powers to the Hague convention with most encouraging results.

Small accounts collected and appreciated. The Old Lowell National Bank.

A CRYING SHAME

I hear complaints of dullness; but if there be any apathy in clothing circles it has not evinced itself in my Lowell store this season.

It would indeed be a crying shame, as a friendly ready made dealer said to me Wednesday, if I didn't do a wonderful business. I don't speak about profits, said he, because at the prices you sell these goods, you are not entitled to profits, but as for doing business, it would be a crying shame if the people had become so steeped in extravagance as not to make purchases so manifestly under regular prices. That's from a man who sells you clothing at regular prices—from a man who gives you the best run that it is possible for his method of business to give his customers. But don't take his word blindly, don't take my word blindly, come in and examine my offering and use your own natural born judgment. I didn't hypnotize the surging humanity that thronged my store this last week nor did I resort to other occult methods to compel them to buy. They bought of their own free will. My only influence is the power of values—the only magic spell I have over you is cast by my woollens. Like the others you will buy of your own free will, and they tell me business is dull elsewhere.

CANOBIE LAKE THEATRE

J. W. Gorman of Boston, Mass., will furnish the attractions for the coming season at Canobie Lake park. The season will open on Monday, June 26, with two performances of the musical comedy, "The Girl and the Pirate," by Matthew Ott. The story concerns the doings of a modern pirate who manages to keep as prisoners on his yacht, a merry party who are so delightfully mixed up in domestic tangles, as to be in a critical condition.

A physician was summoned, and he had Mrs. Marks rushed to Washington Heights hospital, where she lies through the window.

The police say Mrs. Marks had written two brief notes before attempting suicide. They were in German, one to the eleven-year-old child, Frieda, the other addressed to the father. Mr. Marks denied that there had ever been any trouble between himself and his wife.

She was the step-mother of the children, and had been married to Mr. Marks for three years. The children were devoted to her and their father said he knew of no reason for her attempt to die.

ERNALD IS MISSING

Foods Were Searched
For Lumberman

BROOKFIELD, N. H., June 23.—Charles H. Fernald, aged 35, a well known lumberman, who for the past six months has been operating a large lumber lot here for William H. Willey, of Sanbornville, mysteriously disappeared from his lumber camp in this town three weeks ago.

The day before he was missed he had a serious trouble with a man employed at a neighboring camp and the next day started to walk to the village, but was the last seen of him. The man drew his gun about noon the same day and left town, being absent from the camp in the forenoon and doing no work.

For a few days after the departure of Mr. Fernald those employed at his camp supposed that he was away on business, but his continued absence alarmed them and they have communicated with his relatives and friends, finding no trace of him.

Yesterday the men of both camps, about 125, searched for him in the woods without success, and have asked the assistance of the selectmen. Mr. Fernald is not a drinking man and the day before he disappeared he had more than $500 in his pocket, he being his custom to carry large sums of money. Mr. Fernald has operated lumber lots in various parts of the state, and when business was dull made his headquarters at Charles Winkley's, South Main street, Rochester. Mrs. Winkley stated yesterday to a reporter, that Mr. Fernald left her house in March, leaving his trunk, clothing and a revolver. Mr. and Mrs. Winkley are much alarmed about him and fear foul play as it was not his custom to go away and neglect his business.

Mr. Fernald has a wife and a son in a Boston suburb, but of late he has not lived with them.

GREAT DEMAND

FOR STATISTICAL ABSTRACT OF
THE UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Seven hundred and fifty pages of solid figures unaccompanied by text discussions other than explanatory notes, form a rather uninteresting looking volume issued by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor, entitled Statistical Abstract of the United States, yet this annual volume, the thirty-third issue of which has just made its appearance, is called for by thousands of people in every part of the world. It tells of the area, natural resources and population of the country from the adoption of the constitution to the present time; agriculture, forestry and fisheries; manufacturing and mining industries; occupations, labor and wages; internal communication and transportation; merchant marine and shipping; foreign commerce; internal commerce; commerce of noncontiguous territories; prices, consumption estimates, money, banking and insurance; wealth and public finance; the civil service, army, navy, pensions, congressional apportionment, the presidential elections; the statistical records of progress of the United States from 1800 to 1910; and closes with a few pages devoted to commercial, financial and monetary statistics of the principal countries of the world. It is compiled by the bureau of statistics, in part from its own data of commerce and transportation, in part from data gathered by other governmental organizations.

This annual publication originating with the bureau of statistics thirty-three years ago, then a small volume of 150 octavo pages, has grown with the growth of the country and the demands of the public for additional information. In 1909, the thirty-third number just issued, purely statistical, and thus appealing only to those desiring definite information in concrete form, it presents many interesting pictures of conditions past and present in the United States.

For instance, the 160 pages devoted to the general subject of area, natural resources and population shows the data of admission of each state and territory, and their respective areas, the land area unappropriated and reserved, amounting in 1910 to 712 million acres, and forming 11 per cent of the total land area of the country; swamps and overflow lands, 75 million acres; developed waterways, 5,125 million horsepower; estimated coal supply by states and territories, estimated from ore supply; the number of farms irrigated, 167,000 in 1907, and number of acres 11 million; the various irrigation projects commenced and the respective area to be reclaimed; population from 1790 by decennial years to the present time, and population of states and principal cities at each census; share which persons of foreign birth form of the population at various dates; marriage and divorce statistics; school population, enrollment and attendance of pupils, enrollment of colleges and universities, schools with students and instructors; and temperature and rainfall for various sections of the country.

The fifty pages devoted to agriculture, forestry and fisheries show the number and acreage of farms by decennial periods extending back to 1850, value of farm property by states and

GOOD ADVICE ABOUT ECZEMA

Eczeema is so common and so many people suffer from it in one form or another that in medical circles the advice is sometimes jokingly given to call every doubtful skin eruption eczeema. This is really not bad advice, for if the eczeema treatment fails, then the disease is plainly something else. A good plan, whenever there is an eruption, is to apply Cadum. If there is itching, Cadum will stop it, and the sore places will heal. In other forms of skin diseases, such as redness, pimples, blotches, rash, roughness, scaly skin, chafings, acne, sores, ulcers, eruptions, hives, tetter, itch, herpes, psoriasis, ringworm, itching piles, etc., Cadum will also be found highly beneficial. By all means try this remarkable remedy, and satisfy yourself as to whether your trouble is eczeema or something else. Trial box 10c.

After declaring it had fallen to his lot to appoint five supreme court justices, a larger number than any of his predecessors had named, Mr. Taft stated that the anti-trust decisions provided a standard which all business men could follow. "The court has said," the president further stated, "that that statute applies to conspiracies and attempts to restrain trade which are undue or unreasonable because their intent and effect are partly or wholly to monopolize, to exclude or suppress competition and to control prices, and not to combinations or associations in the normal development of business where there may be some incidental restraint that was not the object of the combination or the association. Therefore, it becomes largely a question of their future action." The accompanying photo shows President Taft walking to Woolsey hall, where the degrees were conferred on a total of almost a thousand students and distinguished men. On either side of Mr. Taft are ex-President Dwight of Yale and President Hadley of Yale.

THE LAWRENCE CASES CHARGES DISMISSED

Judge Bell Made His Charge That Were Made Against Several to the Jury Today Packing Firms of Boston

SALEM, June 23.—The charge of Judge Bell in the trial in the superior court of the so-called Lawrence graft cases was made this forenoon and the jury retired after the charge. Judge Bell told the jury that the charge against the four defendants, Patrick Lyons, Phillip Holland, Michael Flynn and Fred Snow, was conspiracy to defraud the city of Lawrence in connection with paying block contracts and that it was not necessary for the evidence to show that the object of the alleged conspiracy was actually achieved. A conspiracy, he said, must be entered into by more than one person and if the jury returned a verdict of guilty it must be against at least two of the defendants.

Regarding the defendant Snow, the Westford contractor, who turned state's evidence, Judge Bell said:

"It is for you to determine how far his story is fictitious, if it is fictitious at all. If you do not believe Snow the other facts are hardly sufficient to convict."

At another point in his charge the court said:

"You are not to attempt to reform the city of Lawrence but to determine the guilt or innocence of these defendants."

The charge occupied a little more than an hour.

FRENCH CABINET RESIGNS

PARIS, June 23.—The government was defeated in the chamber of deputies today on a question relating to the supreme command of the army in case of war. The ministry of Premier Monis decided to resign.

EX-SENATOR HOPKINS

Principal Witness at the Lorimer Investigation Today

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Former Senator Hopkins of Illinois, who was defeated for re-election when Senator Lorimer was elected in 1905, was the first witness today when the senate committee convened. At the outset of his examination by Attorney Healy of the committee Mr. Hopkins was asked who his opponents were at the election of 1905. Mr. Hopkins said they were W. E. Mason, G. E. Foss and W. C. Webster. After his victory at the senatorial primaries Mr. Hopkins said he was considered the republican candidate and Gov. Deneen was regarded as the candidate for governor. The election of Mr. Lorimer by the legislature of 1905 was then inquired into. The witness told of the election of a speaker by a combination of "democrats and recalcitrant republicans" and of a republican senatorial caucus in which he was selected as the party's candidate.

Elbridge Hanney, counsel for Senator Lorimer, suggested to the witness that the meeting was a "conference" rather than a "caucus." Mr. Hopkins, however, insisted that it was a "caucus."

Mr. Hopkins said he hired a hall at Springfield in which conferences were held every night or so in which his followers conferred. That he was the party candidate was the main argument.

Coming down to reports that he had heard about the use of money to defeat him, Mr. Hopkins repeated the testimony he gave the Illinois legislature investigating committee that on the day Lorimer was elected his private secretary told him Senator McCormick had informed him that $2500 had been offered him (McCormick) to vote for Lorimer.

"Did he vote for Lorimer?" the witness was asked.

"Not until after Lorimer had enough votes to elect him," the former senator said. "He did not go to see Mr. McCormick because his secretary reported that Mr. McCormick was going to remain loyal to him."

Mr. Hopkins then told of efforts to keep his forces in line on the day Mr. Lorimer was elected. One of the men he went to see on the floor of the house that day was Representative Johnson Lawrence. "He had always voted for me and when he told me he was going to vote for Lorimer," said Mr. Hopkins, "I told him if he did he would not be able to convince his people he had not been purchased. He said he would vote for Lorimer but did not admit he had not been purchased."

Mr. Hopkins said he heard that two other members he was going to lose were Logan and Duffee. Both of them had been at his hall at 11 o'clock the night before the election, the witness explained, "and ate my apples and smoked my cigars."

"Where did they go after they left your rooms?"

"My friends told me they went to Senator Lorimer's rooms."

The witness said that when he asked Senator Logan why he was going to change, the senator responded that he (Hopkins) could not be elected and that Lorimer would be elected and that he was going to vote for him.

"Was there anything in the apples or cigars that might have made him change over night?" inquired Senator Kenyon.

"I think not. They were the same."

DIRECT SENTENCES

Several Were Imposed in the Police Court Today

This morning's session of the police court was a rather lengthy one, owing to the number of offenders who appeared before Judge Hadley.

Beerfest Party
The five men and two women who were gathered in at the beerfest in Davidson street yesterday afternoon were charged with drunkenness. Two of the men pleaded not guilty. Joseph P. Mayo who was well known to the police admitted his guilt and he will spend the next three months at the bastille in Thorndike street. Edward Paquette who later gave his name as Paulus Paquette will be located there for four months. Peter F. Cheueveat pleaded guilty and the nominal fine of $2 was imposed.

Christos Melanos and Peter Katsam denied that they were under the influence of liquor, but after Patrolmen Lennon and O'Connell testified as to their condition and what they saw in the house both were found guilty and fined $3 each. The arresting officers said that their attention was attracted to the house by men "rushing the car" and later by the noise that emanated from the house. When they visited the house they found the defendants in different rooms and there were two gallons of beer on the premises. They allowed the beer to remain there, but gathered in the members of the party. Josephine Hurd, one of the members of the party, was sent to the state farm. Mary Riley, who gave the name of Connell in court this morning, was a new offender and she was fined $2.

Without a Home
George M. Wilson was charged with being a vagrant. He walked into the police station last night stating that he was tired and footsore and had no place to sleep. When arraigned in court this morning Judge Hadley asked him if he had a home and he replied in the negative.

"Where is your country?" asked the court.

"United States of America," was the quick answer.

"I will give you a temporary home," said the judge. "You can go to Bridge-water."

Stole a Bicycle
John Kusowick pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with larceny of a bicycle owned by Shadwick & Normandin company on June 19th. The testimony offered tended to show that Louis Mercier, an employee of the company, was given the use of the bicycle and on last Monday night upon returning to the store left the wheel outside the door. A few minutes later when he went to look for the bicycle he found that it was missing. He reported the matter to the police and as a result of their efforts Inspector Ladd and the criminal bureau located the man and the bicycle in Manchester yesterday and arrested the defendant.

Among those sworn for the government were Ellen Moran, Lillian Wilson, more, her husband, Jas. J. Farley and a Mrs. Moore. The gist of their testimony was to the effect that the defendant was in the habit of annoying them.

Judge Hadley advised the woman not to bother her neighbors.

PRINCIPALS NAMED

By the School Board of Lawrence

LAWRENCE, June 23.—At the meeting of the school committee Thursday evening, a considerable change was made among the masters of the city, but the change went off like clock work and before the meeting, Cornelius P. Sullivan, formerly of the High school, was assigned to the Wetherbee school, John F. Higgins, formerly principal of the Wetherbee school, was transferred to the new John Green school. John J. Mahoney, formerly principal of the Packard school, was transferred to the Oliver school. Lawrence J. O'Leary, formerly principal of the Oliver school, was given charge of the Hood school. Miss Jennie McManis, teacher at the Packard school, was given charge of the Packard school till such time as some one passes the master's examination and is assigned to that principalship. In order to keep Edward Gregg and Ernest A. Jewell as teachers in the high school, rather than have them accept principalships and thus weaken the teaching corps of the high school, their salaries were raised to a maximum of $2000 a year, as was also that of Charles W. Seibauer, instructor of drawing in the schools.

Miss Lella Lamprey was unanimously elected as director of practice and supervisor of primary grades. The position was to be $1000 a year. The position was made permanent.

William Danahy, 129 Boxford street, was elected janitor of the new John Green school. Albert Alexander, 30 Franklin street, was appointed janitor of the Packard school.

The report of the expert auditors dealing with the condition of the city, came in for criticism by Member Hendry of the committee, who said the report intimated that the school committee was open to criticism for dishonesty.

A FRENCH JUSTICE

Defines Judicial View of Marriage Contract

LONDON, June 23.—Judgment has been given in Paris in a case of breach of promise, which defines the present judicial view of the marriage contract. The lady petitioner complained that after the nuptials had been published and the trousseau ordered, she had suddenly been jilted. The defendant declared that the lady had said she possessed no great desire for children, and that as he wished to marry in order to become a father, his conscience had compelled him to break off the match.

The judge at once said that he did not wish to hear any more, but would deliver his judgment, which ran as follows:

"Considering that in old times marriage was founded solely on love and considering that since then morality has brought about various evolutions, and that it is now considered as a financial contract to hold both parties in wholesome awe if possible of each other's rascalties, since the real motive of marriage is money, the man looking out for a dowry and the woman for a protector, as well as for a steward supposed to be more capable than herself of administering her fortune, when the new character of marriage is weighed, that the young people should not adopt the habit, as soon as they become engaged, of drawing up an agreement with a clause for damages, as for example among the Armenians, and considering, etc., that the lady has suffered evident damage, I condemn the defendant to pay 25 cents for moral damages and $77.32 for material damages."

The novel idea of a civil contract of betrothal with specific damages is rather approved by the press, and would relieve the judge from the responsibility of fixing them at sums like the above, to arrive at which it is difficult to see what process was used.

GOVERNOR DIX

GRANTED A RESPITE TO MAN CONVICTED OF MURDER

ALBANY, June 23.—Governor Dix granted a respite until July 31 to Charles L. Green, a farmer who is under sentence of death at Dannemora and who was to be put to death Monday. The respite was granted in order to give Supreme Court Justice Howard longer time to consider newly discovered evidence presented by Attorney John H. Dugan in support of his application for a new trial.

Green's wife killed his daughter, Dorothy Lyke, and seriously injured his wife, Julia. The new evidence includes an affidavit from the condemned man's wife in which she declares that she testified falsely at the trial of her husband and that as a matter of fact she was to blame for the trouble which led up to the crime. Green insisted, according to his wife, that she should not admit that it was because she was too friendly with male companions that Green became insanely jealous, but took all the responsibility for the crime on his own shoulders, and said he would sooner die than have his wife's fidelity exposed.

LOWELL MEN RETURN

Master Plumbers Had Very Enjoyable Trip to Galveston

Messrs. John Gaffney, Richard J. Welch and Thomas E. O'Day have returned from Galveston, Texas, where they attended the United States convention of Master Plumbers. The Lowell men were delighted with their trip and the convention was a very interesting and enjoyable one. There were over 500 delegates present and Lowell was better represented than was any city in Massachusetts.

The Lowell men returned home yesterday after 15 days' absence. The convention was held June 13, 14 and 15 inclusive. They left Galveston Friday night and arrived in New York last night and that was almost a record trip. They sailed by the Mallory line.

In conversation with a reporter for The Sun, Mr. Gaffney said that he enjoyed the trip immensely. "I enjoyed the convention very much," he said. "It was profitable as well as interesting. The convention next year will be held in Salt Lake City. Galveston is a bustling city. They have a commission form of government there and they are right up to the minute. It would seem that harmony reigns supreme and there is no pulling against the tide. The city's business is conducted on a business basis and it is forcing itself ahead. The things that the people of Galveston have accomplished within the last few years are simply wonderful.

"You know they had a flood there a few years ago. I think it was in 1905. Well, sir, since then they have raised the whole island for Galveston is on an island 13 inches, and they have circumnavigated the city with a concrete wall to prevent a repetition of the flood of 1900. Before the flood there was a natural wall of sand that kept the water back, but the Galvestonians didn't understand that nature had built the wall for a purpose. It looked like an eyerose to them and finally they decided to remove it. The sand was given away free and the railroad pushed in spur tracks and cleaned it away in a week or two. Then came the tidal wave. The story is a very simple one. The natural wall had been removed and Galveston was flooded. The tidal wall, however, is more slightly than was the sand bank and Galveston does not dread another tidal wave."

"The wall is of horseshoe shape and cost nearly $2,000,000. It is a wonderful piece of work but is as nothing compared with the raising of the island. They have a $12 tax rate in Galveston and their bonded debt is less than before the flood. That's what a commission form of government has done for Galveston."

A BACHELOR PARTY

Thos. J. Fitzgerald Entertains Friends

Thomas J. Fitzgerald, the well known tobacco dealer, is about to join the Benedictines, and in order to impress his good example on his bachelor friends he gave them a delightful bachelor party at Pleasant-View camp, Bellerica Centre, on the banks of the Concord river yesterday afternoon and evening, about 50 well known young men attending. Some of the party went out during the day but the entire crowd was not present until evening when, as the sun was setting, a delightful repast was served in the open. At the conclusion of the repast Mr. Warren H. Rordan, private secretary to Mayor McLean, was voted the most overcome, thanked the ladies for their gifts. Mrs. French wished to thank the ladies for their support and good feeling during her three years in office as president. The limit of time a member can hold any office.

The new president upon being escorted to the chair read one of Sam Walter Foss poems suitable to the occasion. Mrs. C. E. Doty was chosen auditor. Mrs. Ezra Pratt and Mrs. H. S. Smith flower committee. Mrs. Chas. B. Rushworth, Mrs. G. F. Adams and Mrs. E. K. Marshall program committee. It was voted to have a picnic each month during the summer for those who do not go out of town. Two resignations were received and three new names were proposed for the waiting list. Mrs. Wheeler had charge of the literary program, which consisted of "Chapters of the Club, 1910-11," an original paper read and composed by Mrs. Wheeler; songs, Miss Winifred Phil, Mrs. Frank Hadley, accompanist; and readings by a well known elocutionist. The ladies formed a grand march to the dining-room to the music of the pipe-organ. Mrs. Wheeler called the roll, not by name but by description, each one responding as she recognized her chief characteristic. Mrs. E. K. Marshall and Mrs. E. B. Chaso presided at the table. Misses Eva and Mildred French and Margaret Elliot were the waiters. The next meeting will be announced later.

A PERILOUS RIDE

Lawrence Child in a Bad Runaway Accident

LAWRENCE, June 23.—About 7:50 o'clock Thursday evening a horse attached to a covered wagon, the property of Hugh Mulvey of the City Steam Laundry ran away. The wagon collided with a post and one rear wheel was smashed, allowing the axle to trail as the vehicle sped along. A boy was in the wagon and it was miraculous that he was not hurt in the runaway.

The horse was seen to dash up Lawrence street near Fitz street and pursue a mad pace toward Park street. The Lawrence street car was passing along at the time and the runaway horse nearly collided with the front end. As the animal neared the corner of Park and Lawrence streets, it attempted to get onto the sidewalk. In doing so the wagon collided with another passing wagon and the horse was brought to a standstill.

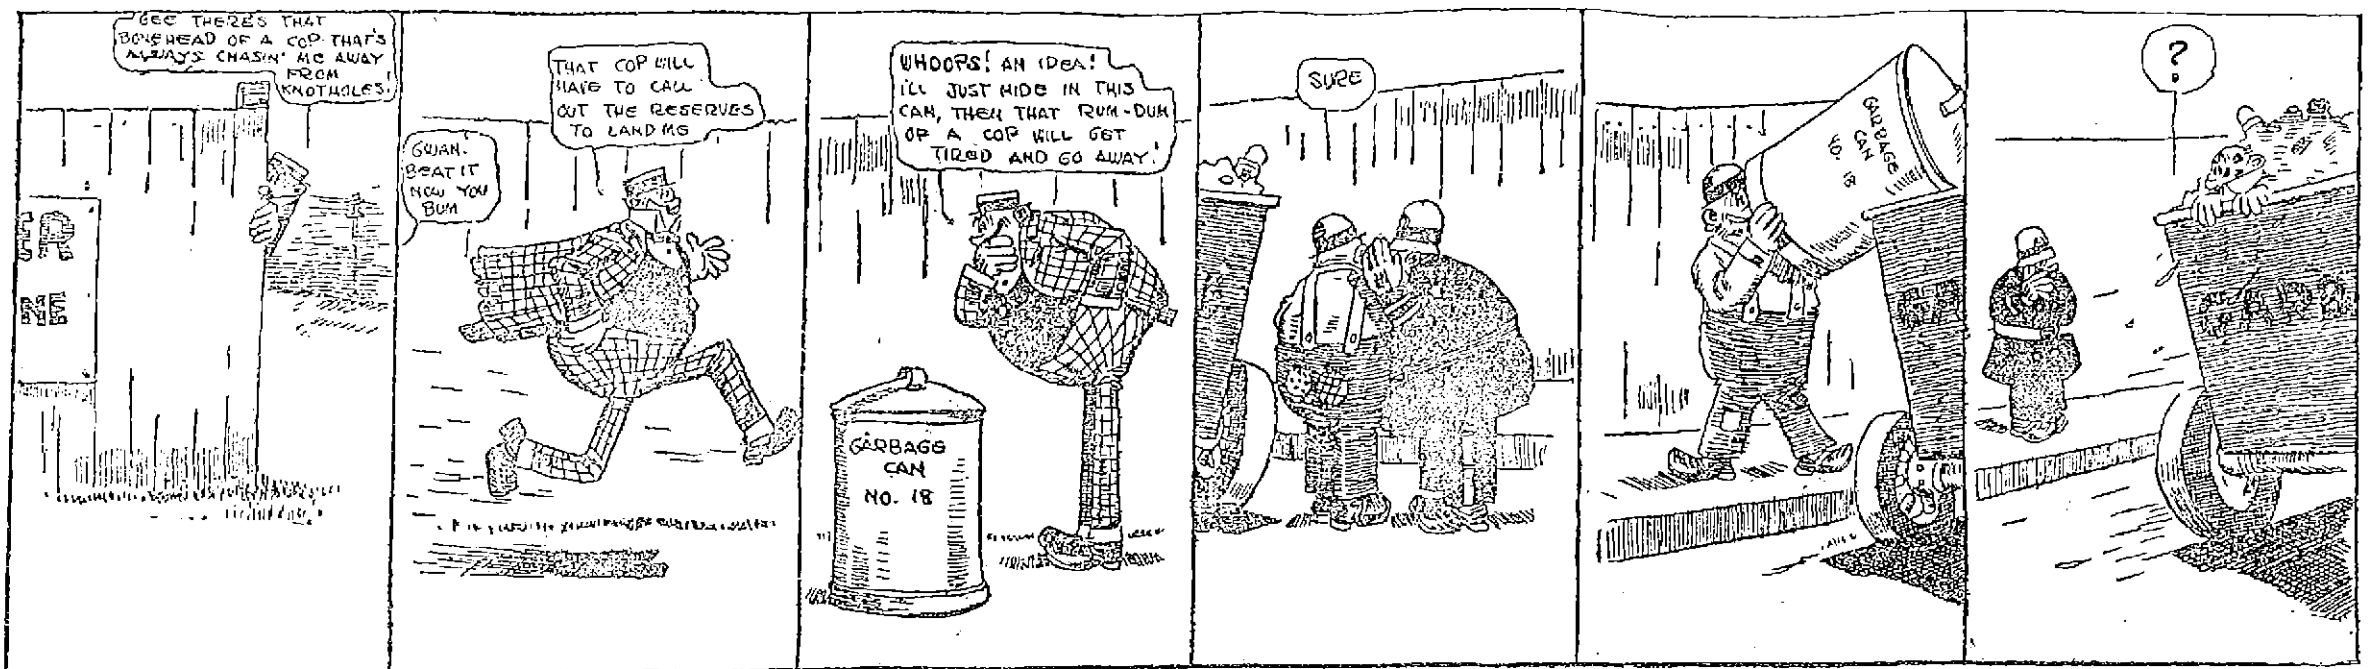

The child in the team held tightly to the reins all the while and when the horse was stopped the boy was found to be none the worse for his perilous ride.

Summer Hints

A Delicious, Refreshing Drink
Just slowly into a raw egg two tablespoons of Dr. J. C. Ayer's Whiskey until it is smooth and thickened a little. Add four teaspoons of sugar and the juice of one lemon or lime shaken well together with a broken ice, pour into a glass and fill with water.

This makes a very invigorating drink and is most valuable when you feel completely fatigued and in need of refreshing nourishment is required. Dr. Wm. Burckhardt of Philadelphia, who has prescribed it to many of his patients, says it is unequalled.

WUXTRY! HERE'S WHERE BENJAMIN GETS "CANNED" FOR SURE, FELLERS!

A LUCKY HOME RUN

Saved Day for Lowell
at New Bedford

Sensational fielding on the part of New Bedford prevented Lowell winning yesterday's game at New Bedford. On account of the circus in town the game was not called until 1 o'clock and was called on account of darkness in the 10th inning by Umpire Walsh, with the score 2 to 2. Lowell made 11 hits but scored only two runs. Jimmie Magee saved the day by a home run that ordinarily would have been a three bagger. Jimmie knocked the ball to deep left field and it rolled under a horse's hoofs. The fielder was afraid to take chances with the animal and by the time that the ball had been recovered Jimmie was at home. The score:

DIAMOND NOTES

At Brockton today.

It would finally appear that we lost that game on Memorial day morning. Jimmie Magee got a home run in New Bedford yesterday by knocking the ball under a horse's hoofs in left field. The fielder being afraid to go under after it while Jimmie circled the bases. It reminds us of the home run that little Jean Baptiste Girard once knocked in a game at Nashua. Little J. B. was playing short stop for Nashua against Manchester, their hated rivals. Among the spectators was Philorum Trudeau, a great admirer of Jean Baptiste, who drove to the grounds in his job wagon and took up a position in deep right field where he rooted lustily for the home team. In the ninth inning with the score 2 to 2 little Jean Baptiste came to bat and swinging the willow hard on the sphere hit it a resounding thump that sent it high into the air in the direction of right field. It dropped squarely into the bottom of Philorum's job wagon and Phil not waiting to get the reins gave the horse a full strength kick in the hindquarters and the animal made a bee line for the gate with Philorum yelling, "Wheee! Sacree!" and several other things more or less expressive and inelegant followed by two fielders, the ground-keeper and a couple of police officers. By the time that Philorum had stepped the animal Jean Baptiste had long since touched home—base and won the game. Of course it was all an accident, but after the game when Jean Baptiste and Philorum got together down town Phil said: "Dat home run, she's a good one, Batisse." "Oah, Philorum, real dat home run rot, she's pretty fast, I guess. Batisse, Philorum."

"Bonne Sainte, Batisse."

Fred Tyler, catcher of the St. Anselm's college baseball team this season, has signed with the Lynn team of the New England league and will report for duty tomorrow. Tyler is a brother of the Boston National pitcher who formerly played with Lowell.

There's many a man who knows an umpire who can't knock a base hit.

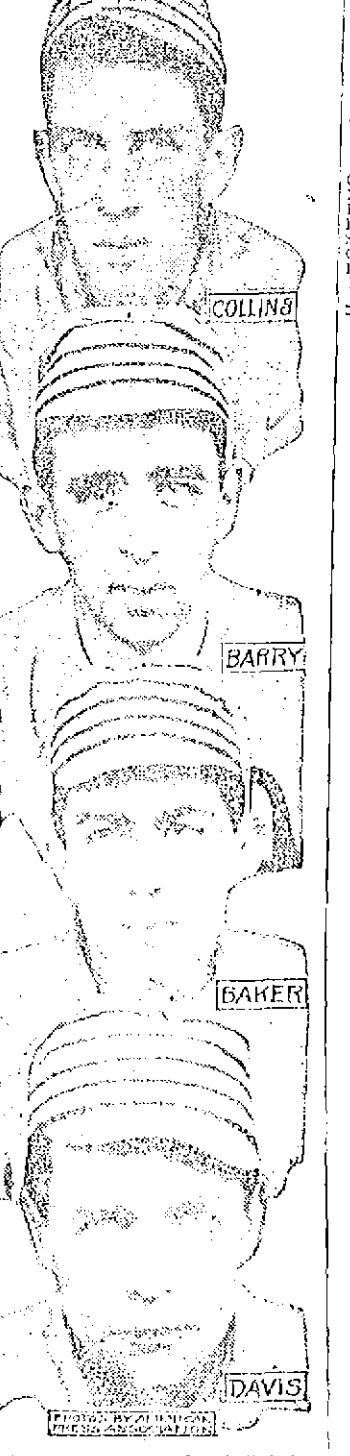

About the only time that the New Bedforders have looked like champions this year was on Wednesday when they beat Lowell 3 to 2.

All one can hear these nights at the South Common is a discussion of the

THE ATHLETIC INFIELD

Is Considered the Best in the Game Today

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—Now that the old Cub infield has been broken up the Athletics can boast of the man for right the Athletics excel in the other positions. Where and how does the Athletic infield surpass all others of the American and National leagues? The answer: There are no three infielders on any other team who combine natural ability with baseball intelligence as do Collins, Barry and Baker. These three players go through game after game without playing a single ball on the wrong bound, and they are fast and have good arms. There never was an infield trio that played a ball that bounds or "hops" and grass eaters better than Collins, Barry and Baker, and it is doubtful if any three players on one team ever played these balls as well.

LYNN GETS THE GAME

League Reverses Murnane's Decision

BOSTON, June 23.—The decision of President Murnane of the New England baseball league throwing out the game played at Lowell on Memorial day morning was reversed last night at a meeting of the league in Boston, and the game was awarded to Lynn. Evidence which had not been submitted to the president led the league to change the decision, according to the following statement given out by Secretary Jacob C. Morse: "The board of directors finds that an agreement was entered into by the Lowell and Lynn clubs to cease playing at 12 o'clock. However, the board is of the opinion that both clubs were negligent in not seeing that the umpire announced this agreement to the spectators. In justice to the president it appears that on the evidence submitted to him he was justified in making the decision which was promulgated. In view of the evidence submitted to the board, which was not brought to the attention of the president, the board decides that the game be awarded to Lynn."

It was announced that Umpire Rorty who served last year will rejoin the staff of umpires on Monday next.

The game scheduled to be played between Haverhill and Lawrence at Haverhill on Saturday, June 24, will be played at Lawrence and the game scheduled to be played at Lawrence on July 29 will be played at Haverhill.

IS AFTER THOMPSON

Frank Klaus is Anxious to Meet the "Cyclone"

PITTSBURG, June 23.—Frank Klaus, the hard hitting middleweight of this city and claimant of the title held by the late Stanley Ketchel, is now hot-foot after a match with little "Cyclone" Johnny Thompson or Billy Papke. Klaus believes that victories over these two would entitle him to the world's championship. Frank says he has beaten every other middleweight in the country, and thinks he would experience little difficulty in disposing of Thompson and Papke.

McDONOUGH'S BOUT

But Glover Should Have Had a Draw

The bouts at the Lowell Social and Athletic club last evening were the best ever seen here and equalled anything ever given at the Armory club.

The only disappointment was the referee's decision in the final bout which was in favor of McDonough, though a prettier draw was never boxed. The contestants were Johnnie Glover of South Boston and Young McDonough of Manchester, a clever and evenly matched pair who kept busy from bell to bell from the first to the final round. The first half of the affairs was considerably in favor of Glover, who was bristling all over with confidence and whose fine work led many to believe that he would put McDonough away. But they reckoned without Mac, who after the sixth round began to come fast, and the two last rounds found him showing an advantage over Glover. It was no case of one man doing the leading or forcing, both went into each other at all times and with coolness and cleverness throughout. Not once did either get wild and no two topmen ever used more skill. As one would say of a good baseball pitcher, they had everything and used it.

In the semi-final Charles Anastas, the Greek boxer, put it over Joe Moriarty for eight rounds and earned the decision. For some unknown reason, Moriarty attempted to get by with the use of only one hand, keeping his right in repose throughout. Anyone who desires to get by with Anastas needs two hands all the time and three if such a thing were possible.

The curtain-raiser was as good as the others and introduced Young Cross the sailor and Fred Stone. This was Cross' third appearance in the ring, and he behaved like a veteran and gave a fine account of himself. Stone was somewhat cleverer and more experienced than Cross, but the latter was stronger and willing throughout. They would make a card for a semi-final as the crowd would like to see them go a longer distance. A fair sized attendance was present and all agreed that the bouts were the best yet, and that's saying a good deal, as some exceedingly fine programs have been offered by the club.

THOUGHT CHILD DEAD

Little One Was Under Stone for Nine Hours

BOSTON, June 23.—After lying the girl's leg, she escaped without nearly nine hours, pinned down by a serious injury. The little girl was last seen shortly before noon, and although a search was made all afternoon the parents of the brick building at 193 East Camden street, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Long, were unable to locate her. As the Long found by her father, who had been home but a short distance from the searching for her all afternoon, and Albany street wharves the father feared as a last resort went up on the roof of that the child had wandered down to see if she might possibly be up on a wharf and had fallen overboard. There, although the stone fell upon her, he reported the loss of the girl to

A Suggestion for Outings

When you pack your bags and baskets remember it may not be all fun. Sunburn, brown tail, poison, mosquito bites, poison, and other things that you don't protect yourself against them. A small bottle of Fels-Naptha will save you lots of discomfort from these things. Get it at your druggists and always take it along when you are going on any kind of a trip. It clothes and keeps your skin cool, soft, and smooth. It is entirely harmless and can be used freely and safely at all times.

the police of the East Boston street station last evening, and a description of the child was sent throughout the city. Other families in the same house with the Long, which is one of many apartments, told Mrs. Long that they had seen the child shortly before noon in the hallway running to her mother.

The girl's house was searched from the cellar to the attic. The entire neighborhood was aroused and all joined in the hunt, but nothing could be learned of the baby girl.

The child's mother and father were frantic. About 7:30 last evening, Mr. Long said he would again look all over the building. This time after he had searched through every tenement, under beds, in closets and every other conceivable place where the child might be secreted, he climbed the ladder to the roof where there is a small clothes dryer. Near the edge of the roof the father discovered the child cuddled up. A large piece of stone held the baby's left leg. Mr. Long thought she was dead.

Before the father could stoop to lift up the heavy stone the child opened her eyes and smilingly threw her arms out to greet him.

The stone was lifted and the baby was carried downstairs to the fourth floor. She was unharmed save for a bad bruise on the leg where the stone had fallen.

The child said that she had come upstairs for her dinner about noon and, finding the door locked, had started a search for her mother. She went up on the roof, thinking she might find her there, and while up there she stumbled against a stone, which had been up there many years, and it fell upon her leg. She could not move and after a time had fallen asleep. She was asleep when her father found her.

WOMAN LOST $9000

Her Traveling Bag Given Out By Mistake

NEW YORK, June 23.—Aided by many officials of the Pennsylvania railroad, Mrs. Mary E. White of 936 Fletcher street, Chicago, was busy yesterday trying to find a traveling bag containing the ashes of her husband and a bankbook calling for $9000.

The bag is said to have been given out by mistake from the parcel room in the Pittsburgh station the preceding evening. It was brought to this city by a machinist, returned to the Pennsylvania station, located by telegraph and shipped back to Pittsburgh during the day.

Frank Cheske, a special agent for the National Metal Trades association, who has an office at 120 Liberty street, was visited early in the morning by a man who said he had been working in the Pennsylvania railroad shops at Pittsburgh and had come to get work in York.

"I would like to go to work at once," he said, "but I have no tools. The wrong handbag was handed to me at Pittsburgh. It looks like mine, but I certainly never saw the contents before."

At the suggestion of Mr. Cheske he opened the bag. Inside were found the bankbook, a tin box with the seal of the Graceland Crematory of Chicago, and a coffin plate inscribed "George Shiner White." There were pension papers, showing Mr. White to have been a veteran, a bundle of letters to Mrs. Mary E. White, their marriage certificate, dated 1872, a quantity of feminine wearing apparel and two lanterns.

Mr. Cheske decided to hold the bag, and to notify the Pennsylvania railroad. When the machinist saw that Mr. Cheske took the matter seriously he left hurriedly, without giving his name.

A representative of the railroad came to Mr. Cheske's office in response to his telephone call. He took an inventory of the contents of the bag, which was later taken to the station. At the Pennsylvania station it was stated that an inquiry for the bag had been received by telegraph from Pittsburgh, and that it had been shipped back there. No one knew what had become of the machinist's tools.

THE SUPREME COURT THE TEACHERS' BILL

Hands Down Decision in the Friebe Case Was Put Through the House Once More

BOSTON, June 23.—Under a decision of the full bench of the supreme court yesterday, a gift of $100,000 registered Massachusetts bonds, made by Mrs. Annie Preston Lincoln of this city with the State street trust company in trust for the benefit of Edward Friebe and his wife, Abby E. Friebe, and on her death to become the absolute property of the Friebees, was held liable to a collateral inheritance tax of 5 per cent.

The gift was made by Mrs. Lincoln in consideration of Mr. Friebe giving up a lucrative position with an insurance company in this city in order to enter her service with his wife, reside and care for her until her death. She died four months after making the gift.

Judge Grant in the probate court erroneously decided that the transfer of the bonds was a purchase in good faith for a full consideration in money or money's worth and were exempted from taxation by the inheritance tax statute of 1909, chapter 490, says the full bench.

The court declares that an attempt to evade the inheritance tax statute which may be manifested in the trust instrument itself or from the circumstances disclosed attending it, would not make the transfer of property bona fide.

CHILD WAS ALIVE

LITTLE ONE MOVED AFTER BEING PLACED IN CASKET

MANCHESTER, June 23.—After being dead, as doctor, nurse and undertaker supposed, Phyllis Leona Gleason, the three-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Philip R. Gleason of 245 Lowell street showed signs of life in her casket, and after lingering for a few hours died at 4 p. m. yesterday.

The body was prepared for burial and placed in a small white casket. Late the mother came into the room and cried over the casket. A faint movement of the right arm frightened her. She screamed and Mr. Gleason rushed from another room. The mother explained that the infant had stirred. A physician was called and hot cloths were applied to restore active life. Life flickered in the little body for a few hours before the child died.

YOUTH-TIME

'TIS the summer time:
The children are out
Roaming the fields
And the woods about.

The hunt for blossoms
On hill and in dale:
They enjoy the breeze
And the stronger gale.

If a shower comes
They laugh and run
To some shelter near—
Enjoying the fun.

'Tis all the same,
Be it cloudy or clear,
Be it windy or still,
To the children dear.

For they love Nature's moods,
Her tear and her smile,
With which the old earth
She does ever beguile.

FOUND NOT GUILTY

Di Maio Was Tried on Charge of Murder

BOSTON, June 23.—Giuseppe Di Maio of Newton was found not guilty of the murder of Antonio DePhillippo of Newton Nov. 27 by a jury last night in the superior court of East Cambridge before Judge Hardy and was discharged. The jury took the case at 10:48 a. m. and an agreement was reached until 5:53 o'clock last night, more than 19 hours being taken up in consideration of the evidence.

Di Maio was overcome by the verdict and cried like a child. When his effects were handed to him he searched over the articles, picked up a tiny photograph of his baby boy, who is in Italy and kissed it repeatedly. When the verdict was announced by the foreman, Di Maio waved his hand to the jury and thanked them in broken English. He went to the home of friends in Boston.

DePhillippo, for whose death Di Maio was tried was the victim of a cutting attack. Di Maio admitted cutting him with a razor but claimed he did so in self-defense, having no intention of killing him.

CITY OF LAWRENCE

SAID TO HAVE BEEN PAID $50,000 IN ADVANCE

LAWRENCE, June 23.—Alderman Scanlon went to the city treasury yesterday and demanded permission to inspect the books. As a result he said that the American Woollen company had advanced the city $50,000 on its tax levy for the current year. It is supposed that Mayor Cahill and City Treasurer Kelleher received this Wednesday when they went to Boston. This will enable the payment of the payroll for this week. Alderman Scanlon declared that this was only temporary relief and thereby postponing the inevitable.

"That $50,000 has already been borrowed and spent," he said. "It should not be paid until October and then to meet the notes which fall due at that time for the money which has been borrowed since the first of the year in anticipation of taxes. In October we will have to raise money somewhere to meet these notes and the legislature will not be in session."

STRONG ARGUMENT FOR THE CHARTER

The news which the Lowell delegates to the Plumbers' national convention at Galveston, Texas, bring to Lowell constitutes a strong argument for the commission form of government. Galveston has risen phoenix-like from its ruins and now has a cement wall to guard it from destruction in the future, while the public buildings and streets have been rebuilt all at a higher elevation than before, the whole forming an achievement that reflects credit upon their form of government. The tax rate in face of all is but $12 per $1000 and the bonded debt of the city is less than before the flood.

REPUBLICANS LOSE CONTROL OF U. S. SENATE

The United States senate has broken away from its old time moorings. The insurgents have lined up with the democrats and have voted for the wool bill that reduces the heavy tax on imported wools. The old line republicans want to link this bill with the reciprocity measure in order to defeat the latter if possible, but it is not expected that they will be able to carry their point. The democratic senators claim they have enough votes to carry reciprocity in spite of all opposition. This break in the senate will probably open the way to a general revision of the tariff.

BRISTOW AMENDMENT REJECTED

As might be expected the national house has rejected the Bristow amendment which the senate attached to its vote for the popular election of senators. The effect of this amendment would be to give the senate control of the election of senators in the various states. In the first place this amendment would seem to be an unwarranted interference with the rights of the states. It remains now to be seen whether the senate will concur with the house in dropping this proviso, and still retaining its position in regard to having the constitution amended so as to allow the election of senators by the people.

THE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM

The proposition to amend the constitution of Massachusetts in order to provide for the initiative and referendum is one that should receive the most serious attention of every citizen.

Heretofore there has been no legal method by which the voters could hold up any constitutional law once it had been enacted by the legislature. Through the referendum the citizens can exercise a veto power upon any law passed by the legislature provided they can secure the necessary number of signatures to the petition and a majority of the voters on the final test. For the first time a committee of the legislature has reported in favor of a resolve for the initiative and referendum in this state. Governor Foss in his inaugural address strongly favored the initiative and referendum, and this resolve for an amendment to the constitution to permit of the application of these principles, is in line with his suggestions. This change if adopted, would place Massachusetts among the states in which the most radical methods of legislation are placed in the hands of the people.

DIVISION LINES ON NEW CHARTER

It is rather amusing to find that the line of demarcation on the new charter lies between the politicians and the mass of the voters. There is always a class, including the office holders, that is firmly opposed to any change in the organic law of the city. They have a fixed dread of any disturbance of the status quo. They are afraid that it would be more difficult for them to secure office under the new order of things, but it has always been the fact that the politicians who triumph under one charter usually do so under another. The new charter would give us fewer officials, and it would center responsibility, so that if anything went wrong the people would know exactly whom to blame. Where there is a large number of members in the city council and where responsibility is scattered, among those members and among the different departments, it is very difficult to remedy any abuse or any evil that comes up, because nobody in particular is responsible and it is very difficult to call the entire body to account.

The new charter is designed to simplify matters in this respect, and that is why it will be supported by the citizens who want to see better government. It is all non-sense to assume that the charter is favored only by those who expect to get elected to office under its provisions. Nobody can tell just who may be elected under the new charter. It all depends upon the voters who will have that matter entirely in charge. It not only gives them the power to nominate and elect the governing body, but it gives them the power also to recall any member of that body who proves recreant to his trust. It also gives them the power to initiate and veto legislation. It would be impossible to make the charter any more democratic than it really is. In this respect it gives the people absolute power to choose their officials and equal power to remove them after election if they fail to do their duty. The opponents of the charter are placing themselves in the position of trying to prevent these sweeping political powers being placed in the hands of the people.

SEEN AND HEARD

"John, did you take the note to Mr. Jones?"
"Yes, but I don't think he can read it."
"Why so, John?"
"Because he is blind, sir. While I was in the room he asked me twice where my hat was, and it was on my head all the time."

The "Prodigal Son" was the subject of the Sunday school lesson, and the teacher was dwelling on the character of the eldest son.
"That eldest son," said the teacher, "there was one to whom the preparation of the feast brought no joy, to whom the prodigal's return gave no happiness, only bitterness; one who did not approve of the feast and had no wish to attend it. Now, who can tell me who this was?"
Silence for several moments; then a hand raised and a small, sympathetic voice:
"That man, it was the fatted calf."

Veering trotted blithely to business. He had arisen before daylight and worked two hours at clearing up the yard around his house. The thought of the pleasant surprise awaiting his wife brought forth a chuckle.

At luncheon Mrs. Veering remarked: "That man did his work remarkably well."

"What man?" gasped Veering.
"The man you engaged to clear away the rubbish in the yard. He was just finishing when I came down this morning and I gave him a dollar."—Metropolitan Magazine.

"No," says the eminent actress earnestly, "I cannot approve of the fashion that so many members of my profession have of being photographed continually."

The reporter makes some feverish notes and she continues:

"It seems to me that because one is on the stage is no reason why he or she should consider his or her face of absorbing interest to the public."

She continues for half a column and as the reporter is stowing away his notebook she smiles sweetly and says:

"Here is one of my latest photographs for you to use with the interview. I sat for it only yesterday, so you may be sure it has never before been produced."—Judge.

THE PLANS OF MICE AND MAIDS

In telling this story I naturally pause for fear I'll go wide of my aim—It's of a young maiden, a Doctor of Laws.

Who held a diploma for same. She had all the arts of the calling down line.

Especially the art of appeal; (She eke had a shape that was simply divine.

And eyes that would make a man strait.)

She had "Corporations" right down to their tips.

"Proceedings," "Inheritance," too—She had "Jurisprudence" and "WRs" on her hip.

And "Statutes" she had, not a few; She had "Constitutions" at work like a slave.

While "Equity" ate from her hand, (She also had features that Venus might crave.

And charms no male client could stand!)

She had firm convictions on woman, and how.

The world has amended its plan—She had some idea the time is here now.

To shake off the shackles of man; She had a fond hope to be able and free.

Of all of the magazine tribe, (She also had grace such as seldom we see.

And hair that no words can describe!)

Alas! for the plans of this Doctor of Laws.

And all of her knowledge, et cetera. For Cupid stepped in as he usually does.

And Cupid is old-fashioned yet! He "thumped" and he "hewed" and looked over his specs.

And overlooked knowledge and plan.

He saw not the grace and the charms of her sex.

And married her off to a man! —Buffalo News.

THE OLD BRIDGE

On the old, old bridge, with its crumbling stones.

All covered with lichens red and gray. Two lovers were talking in sweet low tones.

And were they?

As he leaned to breathe in her willing ear.

The face that he vowed would never die.

He called for his darling, his dove most dear.

And he was it!

She covered her face from the pale moonlight.

With her trembling hands, but her eyes looked through.

And listened and listened with long delight.

And she was you!

On the old, old bridge, where the lichens rust.

Two lovers are learning the same old lore.

He tells his love, and she looks her trust.

BOSTON, June 22.—As a result of the action of an alleged agent of an insurance company William J. Barry is wondering if he will have to stand a loss of $500. He applied to the company May 1 for the loan under the terms of the policy for nine months at 5 per cent payable in advance. To secure the loan he gave up his policy as collateral to the company. Later a man representing himself to be an agent of the company is said to have handed him an

A GRAND PAGEANT

King and Queen Escorted Through Streets of London

LONDON, June 23.—King George and Queen Mary today showed themselves to the masses as distinct from the more favored classes who were able to obtain access to the circumscribed area of yesterday's pageant.

Today's procession was on an even grander scale than that of the coronation. The route was more extended, including a circuit of some of the most populous districts of the capital and the crowds that looked on were correspondingly greater. Then, too, their majesties were accompanied by larger escorts. The scenes along the route were to a great extent a repetition of those of yesterday with much greater crowds of spectators. The procession began to form in the yard of Buckingham palace and the adjacent streets at 1 o'clock and two hours later it was under way. Between lines of cheering thousands the royal party made stately progress from Buckingham palace by way of Constitution hill, Piccadilly, Trafalgar square, through the city, over London bridge by Borough road and Westminster bridge, thus making a complete circuit.

The pageant included four full squadrons of cavalry, representing all branches of that arm of the service, life guards, dragoons, hussars and lancers, each accompanied by its own band and a section of horse artillery. These were followed by all the naval and military aides de camp on duty on the war office staff, deputations of foreign officers, the royal suite, the members of the royal family and the foreign princes and the colonial and Indian escorts who immediately preceded the state carriages.

In the royal equipage with the king and queen rode Field Marshal Kitchener and the bearer of the royal standard.

A Grand Welcome

The royal escort brought up the rear. Scouts for many thousands had been erected along the route and the progress of the king and queen was indicated a royal one. Everywhere they received an uproarious welcome from the visitors in the hotels, from the stands of Piccadilly, Trafalgar square and the Strand the business men of London proper who had brought their families to the city for the day, and again from their majesties' humble subjects south of the river. The decorations of yesterday remained in Piccadilly and those in the other streets traversed were not less spectacular. In the Strand there were rows of masts each bearing a red lion and underneath a red velvet drape with a lion rampant in the center. Colored festoons ran from mast to mast. Down Fleet street to Ludgate circus there were alternately Venetian masts and cross bars and pillar masts, the Venetian masts surmounted by an angel or a figure of Fame with her trumpet, while the pillar masts supported the British lion and unicorn. The masts were connected by festoons of greenery.

Somewhat similar decorations had been made in the other streets of the city, while at the entrance to the London bridge a triumphal arch had been erected. South of the river every house had a piece of bunting flying.

Brilliant Cavalcade

Except for the absence of the 20th coach the cavalcade was more brilliant than that of yesterday and the stands along the route certainly made a brighter appearance. Those of Constitution hill overlooking the palace garden were filled with uniformed officers from every part of the world who had come to London to honor Britain's king with their dignity dressed ladies.

On one stand were royal and other representatives of foreign states. In another were military officers attached to the suites of these representatives and in the front row of still another stand were naval officers from the international ships at Spithead, including Captain Gove of the American battleship Delaware and his officers. These naval visitors were attended by officers of the British navy and the naval attaches of the foreign missions and embassies.

St. George's hospital, opposite Constitution hill, and the residences around Hyde Park corner and Piccadilly, were hidden by stands occupied by a levy of uniformed nurses side by side with men and women who had paid enormous prices for their seats.

The windows of Stratton house and seats on the roof were occupied by guests of Special American Ambassadors Hammond. These included the Duchess of Argyll, the special ambassador's staff in full uniform, members of the American embassy and many American women.

The early morning was none too pleasant so far as the weather was concerned. The sky was overcast and drizzling showers kept the spectators in doubt whether it would be necessary to raise their umbrellas.

However, there were no heavy showers as in the early hours yesterday and those taking part in the procession drove in open carriages, thus adding interest to the pageant. Almost exactly at the appointed hour the colonial and Indian contingents which were to lead the way from the seven mile route formed on Victoria road, Buckingham palace to Constitution hill and Hyde Park corner. It was a wonderful display of soldiery that preceded the carriages, exhibiting all the cavalry uniforms of the empire.

Escorted By Canadians

A contingent of Canadians escorted the first carriage, occupied by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, premier of Canada, and Premier Fisher of Australia. This was followed by other carriages carrying Premier Morris of New Zealand, Premier Botha of the Union of South Africa, Premier Ward of New Zealand, and the governors and commissioners of smaller colonies, each escorted by troops from their respective countries.

They were followed by the over-popular "troopers" — the Northwest mounted police and an African force organized on similar lines.

The colonials, in royal carriages and wearing uniforms and decorations, came next and were cheered all along the line and with especial vigor when they passed the stands occupied by fellow colonials.

For picturesqueness the Indian section, next in line, could not be excelled anywhere in the world. In their uniforms and turbans, wearing medals won on the field of battle, preceded the carriages in which were the ruling Indian princes and potentates. The latter were fairly weighed down with jewels of enormous value. Their costumes, including turbans and tunics, were of every imaginable hue. They received a hearty reception.

Although enjoying the spectacle as Londoners always do, the people went out today to see their majesties and what a salute was fired by a battery in Hyde park announced that the king and queen had left the palace. The king and queen had left the palace. The king and queen had left the palace.

TALKED TO BANKERS

President Taft Commanded the Monetary Commission

NEW YORK, June 23.—Speaking last night at the banquet of the New York state bankers' association at Manhattan beach, President Taft discussed currency problems with special attention to the national monetary commission reform plans. He said in part:

"After our last money panic in 1907, legislation was adopted, known as the Aldrich-Vreeland bill, which offers an instrument of temporary relief against actual cash stringency due to hoarding and to panic, but of a very clumsy and unsatisfactory character.

"It was adopted as the best thing that could be devised under the circumstances, which would have a chance of passing the house and the senate, but no one who was responsible for it considered it a brand or satisfactory solution of the difficulties presented by our present system.

"A monetary commission was appointed, of which the then Senator Aldrich was made chairman. It was a non-partisan commission. I dwell with great emphasis on the fact that it was non-partisan, because if we are to work out this problem scientifically, business community of the whole country must be a student of finance of the country.

"In order to evolve an agency free from the control of either the money kings of Wall street or the political influence of the government at Washington he proposed what has seemed to have been received with favor, a national reserve association. It may roughly describe what this association is to say that it is the establishment of a government of the 30,000 national banks of this country on a representative republican basis.

"I am not a banker, and I don't claim to be a student of finance of the country, but I have been appointed, of which the then Senator Aldrich was made chairman. It was a non-partisan commission. I dwell with great emphasis on the fact that it was non-partisan, because if we are to work out this problem scientifically, business community of the whole country must be a student of finance of the country.

"It will immer greatly to the benefit of the people of this country if the recommendations of the national monetary commission, a non-partisan body, can be put into effect. I am very hopeful that it may be.

"Senator Aldrich, the chairman of the commission, has correctly stated that a central bank in this country would be impossible for political and economic reasons. The people of the country would be unwilling to trust to a central monetary commission plan."

USED A BLACKJACK

Robber Attacked Aged Man at Saco, Maine

SACO, Me., June 23.—While Bennett S. Lougee, aged about 72, proprietor of a boot and shoe store and "tobbling" shop at 123 Main street, was working at his bench in the rear of his shop late yesterday afternoon a man came into the place and struck Mr. Lougee two blows over the back of his head, probably with a blackjack.

The blows brought Mr. Lougee to his knees, but he recovered himself and started toward his assailant, who turned and fled. As he jumped from the door and started in the direction of Glidford he slipped, and his weapon struck the big plate glass window in the front of the store, shattering it.

The man ran around the corner and disappeared down York hill before Mr. Lougee could give the alarm, though the store is in the busiest part of the city and many shoppers were passing at the time. Though they saw the man running, they made no attempt to stop him.

The police of both cities were notified and a posse of officers started in pursuit. Marshal Conklin and several armed men went down the river late this afternoon in a power boat, it having been reported that shortly after the attempted robbery two men were seen pulling down the river in a dory. One of the men answered the description given by Mr. Lougee, who says his assailant was tall and slim. Mr. Lougee said that he never saw him before.

Mr. Lougee's head was cut open by the blows and he was dazed for some minutes after the attack. It is supposed the man intended to knock Mr. Lougee down and then go through his pockets and rifle the cash drawer.

The assault on one of the oldest business men in the city in broad daylight in the heart of the business section caused considerable excitement and a number of citizens joined the officers in the search for the culprit.

The two masked men who held up Mr. Lougee a week ago have not been captured and some think that Mr. Lougee's assailant was one of these.

THE ROYAL PROCESSION

The royal procession was made up much as on yesterday, though somewhat longer, as it included many who before were in attendance at Westminster abbey.

In advance was a long line of troops and officers, Indian, Colonial and British, all in uniform. A drizzling rain fell as the royal carriages, drawn by eight cream colored steeds, slowly came up Constitution hill, but it did not dampen the enthusiasm of the crowds who were there to give the sovereigns their first welcome since coronation day.

The king wore a field marshal's uniform with a sash of the Order of the Garter.

The Queen's Gown

The queen was dressed in white and wore a long train of the Order of the Garter. Her hat was trimmed with ostrich feathers in two shades of blue. From end to end of the route their majesties received a notably spontaneous and loyal welcome.

Following the sovereigns was a carriage containing the Duke of Connaught and his Duchess, princess, general and officers of the British army, the Earl of Granard, the Duke of Norfolk and military attaches, among them Major Sturges of the American embassy.

The procession stopped at Waterloo place to receive an address from the council of Westminster city and at other points to accept addresses from local civic bodies.

Winston Spencer Churchill, as secretary, attended these ceremonies, accepting the address for the king and delivering to the people the reply which was to make.

At Temple Bar the lord mayor of London, Alfred, and the sheriffs, or officers of the city, met the king and queen and upon their arrival, mounted in the king the city's pearl sword. His majesty simply touched the hilt as a sign of his acceptance, the lord mayor then receiving back the sword as lord mayors have done for many years. The lord mayor then remounted and with the sheriffs joined the procession, continuing with it until it reached the city boundary at London bridge.

As the sovereigns passed through the center of the city millions of lights arranged for illuminations simultaneously were turned on and the great crowd about the royal exchange rejoiced their cheers.

On the other side of London bridge the king was in one of his many home districts, as rather his former home, for here, as the Duke of Cornwall, he was the largest ground landlord.

In their address the southern boroughs referred to the improvements which the king had made in the buildings of the estate, which is occupied by the poorer classes.

Replying, his majesty paid a tribute to the work done by the borough council to improve the conditions of the

THE RECIPROCITY BILL

Democrats and Insurgents Think That Measure Will Pass

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Chairmen of the party in control and a number of members of the senate committee on reciprocity said today that the Canadian reciprocity bill would not fail by reason of the coalition between insurgent republicans and Democrats which placed the regular republicans in the minority. Speaking of the bill, a Democratic senator said: "It is a case of a man and a woman. The performance of the measure will be effective for the time but the difference between the two elements is so radical that the combination will not continue and if the purpose of it was to defeat Canadian reciprocity it will fail."

"With the tariff question dropped into the senate in connection with reciprocity delay is to be expected but in the end reciprocity will go through and it then will remain to be seen what shall be done with the tariff bills now before the senate and those yet to be presented."

The outlook in the senate is for a somewhat dry period of discussion. Under present conditions, with the tariff question dropped into the senate in connection with reciprocity delay is to be expected but in the end reciprocity will go through and it then will remain to be seen what shall be done with the tariff bills now before the senate and those yet to be presented."

COMPANY WILL NOT REORGANIZE

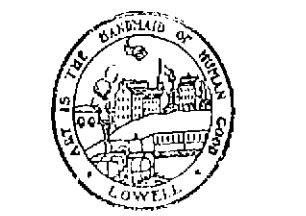

BOSTON, June 23.—The Standard Cordage Co., a combination of rope plants in Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey and elsewhere, which has been in the hands of receivers for some time, will not be reorganized. This announcement was made today in the supreme court by counsel for the Equitable Trust Co. of New York, which as trustee under a mortgage given by the Standard company, applied for authority to reduce the insurance on the Sewell Day mills to $300,000 and on the Pearson mills to $150,000. Both plants are closed. The court will give its decision later.

TO PURCHASE LIBRARY

Big Lawn Fete Held by Union St. Jean Baptiste

The lawn party held last night under the auspices of J. N. Jacques, council, U. S. B. P. A., on the grounds adjoining the residence of Mr. Pierre A. Brousseau in Essex street, proved to be a real success in every way. The affair was given to raise funds for the purchase of the Mallet library at Woonsocket, R. I. This library was purchased some time ago by the Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amérique, but as the money was taken from the funds of the union, the insurance commissioners advised the officers of the society to sell the said library and return the money in the funds. The different councils of the union have decided to hold socials and with the proceeds, buy the said library and then return the latter to the union.

J. N. Jacques council took the initiative and held its first social last night. A large and select crowd was in attendance and a pleasant evening was spent despite the fact that the atmosphere was rather damp. Mr. Pierre A. Brousseau, president of District Council No. 5 presided over the festivities, and the following speakers were heard with great interest: Mr. J. Ad-

HAULING RAILROAD TIES FOR BIG BONFIRE ON STACKPOLE ST.

WE'LL HAVE THE BIGGEST ONE IN THE CITY

YOUNG AMERICA GATHERING MATERIAL FOR BIG BONFIRE ON STACKPOLE STREET ON THE NIGHT BEFORE

The big bonfire in Belvidere the night before the Fourth promises to be the greatest in the city. For a week past present and former members of the O. M. L. Cadets have been busy collecting material for the great blaze. The bonfire will be built on the bank of the Merrimack river in Stackpole street where thousands of people will be able to see it. Barrels, boxes, timbers and all kinds of fuel have been gathered up and carted to the scene by the boys, and the great blaze will be visible from any of the elevated sections of the city. It will be touched off at midnight and will be a feature in connection with the great out-door fete and midway to be held in Columbus park on that night. A feature will be the band concert to be given by the two bands that will be attractions at the fete and there will be singing by the boys who compose the sanctuary choir of the Immaculate Conception church, and also by the O. M. L. Cadets quartet. The idea of having a bonfire in Belvidere was originated by Rev. D. A. Sullivan several years ago and each night before the Fourth people from all sections crowd to the scene of the celebration.

MURDER CHARGED

Two Men Accused of Crime Committed Four Years Ago

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 22.—An important development which promised to clear up the mystery of the disappearance of Charles Weymouth, the Saco butcher who was last seen alive nearly four years ago, was the arrest of Joel Buzzell and Guy Merrill of Guilford and their arraignment here today on the charge of murder.

Mrs. Maude Snow, wife of Dr. Fred R. Snow, who at the May term of court pleaded guilty to committing a large number of burglaries in houses for several miles around Dayton, a large amount of house furnishings and other plunder being recovered from their home in Dayton, also was arrested on the charge of being an accessory to the alleged murder.

The arrests were made on the strength of very important information obtained from two persons whose names at first were withheld and who it was claimed were in the Snow home when Weymouth was beaten to death on Sept. 1, 1907, but were powerless to interfere.

Merrill was arrested at Pittsburgh near Harding, on a telephone request to the sheriff of Kennebec county from Sheriff Emory. Buzzell and Mrs. Snow were arrested by Sheriff Emory and Deputy Sheriff McKenney and Watson. The victim was last seen at the Snow home about September of 1908, but while there were rumors of foul play the officers never have been able to obtain any definite clue until they secured the story from the two witnesses.

According to these witnesses, Weymouth was knocked over a desk with such force that the desk was broken and he was beaten so badly that he died before his assailants realized the extent of their assault. Then his body was placed in a box and when it was found to be too short his feet were doubled over and the body was jumped on until it had been crowded into the box. Then the box was carried down toward a brook, the location of which was described and buried. "Doctor" Snow was not present at any time, it was understood.

The wife said, according to the officers, that Weymouth was "sweet" on Mrs. Snow. He was calling at the house on the morning of his disappearance and Mrs. Snow was washing dishes when Weymouth saw Buzzell and Merrill approaching the house and exclaimed: "For God's sake, don't tell those men I am here. Where can I hide?" He found a hiding place in a room, but the men who had entered the house, suspected he was there and searched him out, dragging him into the kitchen.

It was then that he was given an unmerciful beating, it is alleged.

The officers were so confident of recovering the body, which is necessary before a conviction can be secured, that they at once swore warrants for the arrests. The three were to be arraigned at Alfred this afternoon before Trial Justice Kibbitt of Waterville. Merrill was employed as a driver of a taxicab at Gardiner. Buzzell is a farmer.

THE DRUGGISTS MEET

A Lowell Man Was Elected to Office

The 26th annual convention of the Maine Pharmaceutical association was held at the Hotel Pemberton at Portland June 20, 21, 22, and the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, Wm. A. Brier-of Melrose; first vice president, Wm. Curtin of Boston; second vice president, Frank J. Campbell of Lowell; third vice president, Wm. Harper of Grand Barrington; secretary, James F. Gosselin of Weymouth; treasurer, Thos. D. Nichols of Salem; endorsed for board of pharmacy, Charles F. Ripley of Taunton, Wm. Martin of Springfield, and J. Daxon of Cambridge.

THE TRAIN SERVICE

Between Lowell and New York Excellent

The new train which starts in next week will be a great convenience for Lowell people who wish to go to New York, as it brings this city much nearer the metropolis, and the service is scheduled in a most convenient way. It will be possible to take a train at the Middlesex street station at 25 minutes past 11 in the forenoon, and go through without change to New York, reaching the Grand Central station at 8.35 in the evening. This train will be equipped with parlor cars and a dining car, which is taken on at South Lawrence, being in full operation when it reaches Lowell. The train arrives at Ayer at 11.54, at Worcester at 12.50, at Springfield at 2.10 and at New York, as before mentioned, at 5.35.

The schedule for returning to Lowell is also very convenient. One can leave the Grand Central station at 3 minutes past 9 in the forenoon, and reach Lowell without change at 3.29 in the afternoon. A dining car is taken on at Springfield at 12.25, and runs through to South Lawrence, so that Lowell people, during the summer season at least, will have an excellent train service with first class equipment between this city and New York.

Lowell travellers taking this train will avoid the bother of going to Boston, crossing the city and waiting for an express train from the south station, and what is more, it is not possible by any combination of trains to leave this city and get to New York by way of the south station in Boston as quickly as it can be done by using the new through train from Lowell to New York direct. The actual time between the two cities will be less than six and one-half hours, as it is believed when summer tourists and business men get well acquainted with the train it will be largely patronized. Indeed it may make a showing that will warrant the company maintaining it throughout the year. This train will also be a great accommodation for Lowell people who wish to go to Old Orchard, Portland or at of the other Maine resorts, as it will be possible to leave Lowell at 3.29 in the afternoon and arrive at Old Orchard 12 miles past 5 in the evening or any of the intervening stations in Wells, Kennebunkport, or Old Orchard, at a much earlier hour. It will also be possible to leave Portland 8.35 in the morning and reach Lowell at 11.26 the same forenoon, though at all the summer resorts at seasonal hours along the entire route. The service between this city and the seaside resorts of Maine and New Hampshire has heretofore been very meagre, but this train should serve to stimulate travel to these popular resorts during the vacation season.

GRAFT IS CHARGED

The Cry is Raised by the Mexican People

MEXICO CITY, June 23.—Port-renting army scandals involving former Minister of War Manuel Gonzalez Cosío and the purchasing agents of the Diaz government in Europe, together with practically every military official in the federal army, were unearthed here yesterday by a petition signed by thousands of names asking immediate investigation of the condition of artillery and ammunition supply of the nation.

The charges claim that powder in rapid-fire cartridges and in cannon at Juarez, Torreon, Casas Grandes and Ojinaga was sawdust, colored black; that boxes supposed to contain cartridges contained sand, and that guns or one calibre with ammunition of another were sent to the field.

It is alleged that officials of the army from Cosío down knew all about the fraud and that gigantic fraud was behind all of it.

It also is charged that defective munitions came from Europe, particularly from Denmark, and that purchasing agents there participated in the graft.

Cosío, alleged mainly responsible, and close to Diaz, trusted minister of war, now is in Europe, but most other officers are here. Gen. Juan J. Navarro, who commanded at Juarez, substantiates the statements above given and has asked repeatedly to be allowed to testify at the court martial of himself in the investigation into the artillery fraud, but the Mexican government has ignored the requests of the people here.

NEW YORK, June 23.—A man with bullet wounds in the chest and head regained consciousness yesterday afternoon as he lay on a cot in Fordham hospital.

"How am I?" he murmured. "Do I die?"

"It's pretty bad; you may," said the doctor.

"How is Agnes?" asked the patient. "Agnes is going to get well."

"I am sorry," said the man. "A few minutes later he relapsed into unconsciousness. In an hour he was dead."

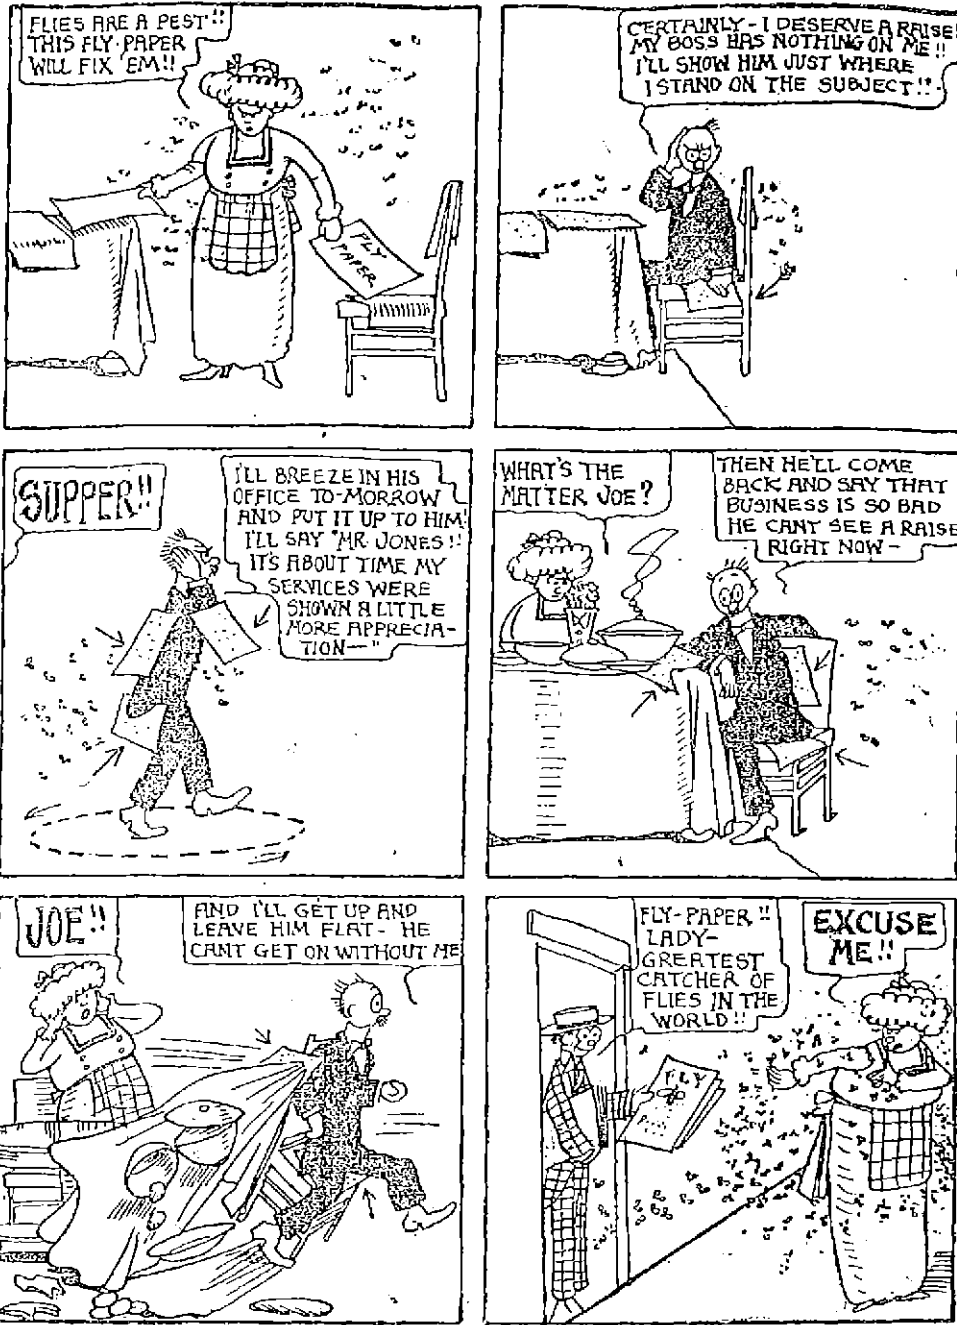

The man was Giovanni Lombardi, 32 years old, of 217 East 121st street. At 6:30 o'clock in the morning he had shot down Agnes Miceli in front of her father's grocery at Prospect avenue and Jennings street, the Bronx. Then he had shot himself.

He formerly worked in the grocery and was in love with Miss Miceli, who, however, did not return his affection. When he persisted in his attentions her father discharged him. Since then, according to Mr. Miceli, he had received several threatening letters from Lombardi. Agnes and a youthful clerk were in the store yesterday, when Lombardi rushed in, seized her and begged her to marry him. She tried to free herself, but he dragged her to the sidewalk and shot her in the shoulder and at the base of the skull. He then fired a bullet into his chest. Being no longer able to place the pistol to his temple and fire again.

AT LAKEVIEW PARK
The Marine Twine Co. will open the season of big, free acts at Lakeview park with performances every afternoon and evening. The act which is presented by this troupe is one of the latest novelties on the stage. It is original and utterly unlike anything else.

The troupe is made up of one woman and four men, including Dick Ford, Robinson & Bailey's greatest clown, who is probably the best known of any of the brilliant clowns of the sawdust ring. At Lakeview and other big show houses the act has made a tremendous hit. It has been presented in this country but a short time, having come from Europe recently that is irresistible is happily combined with tricks that cause a sensational thrill. Autos, bicycles, carriages and all sorts of wheeled vehicles are introduced and made use of in acrobatic and balancing work in a way that shows wonderful originality of conception as well as infinite skill.—Adv.

EXCUSE ME!

TESTED BY JURORS

They Sampled Bottle Seized at a Hotel

NEWBURGH, June 23.—Andrew Houston of Warwick, who runs a hotel, was on trial before a jury here yesterday. One of the witnesses claimed to have bought beer on Sunday and had taken the bottle to his room and later delivered it to the Rev. Mr. Knox, a reform minister, who had employed him. The minister sealed the bottle and marked its statement on a label.

When the case came to trial counsel for the prisoner raised the point that there was no proof it was beer. Assistant District Attorney Wilson consented to the suggestion of the attorney for the prisoner that the seal be broken, the bottle opened and the jury permitted to decide as to its contents. The bottle was seized in April and had not been on ice since.

The jury tested thoroughly, one taking a second pull at the bottle, for he was not certain whether it was plain lager or beer. The contents were pretty well gone when the twelve men were through the sampling. They

YOUNG MAN IS HELD

Police Say He is Head of Forgers

NEW YORK, June 23.—A young Italian high school graduate who, according to his father, was an engineering student for a while at Columbia university, was held in the Yorkville court yesterday for the grand jury accused of forging checks and losing a group of Italians who used the checks to get about $2,000 from New York banks in the last year.

The student is George Porazzo, son of an ex-brothel who had risen in the world until he now possesses a wine store at 140 East Eleventh street.

The son was arrested in September, 1910, charged with swindling the Astor place branch of the Corn Exchange bank, was bailed and has not yet been tried. It is charged that he resumed check forging.

In February last one of his alleged hand was arrested while presenting a forged check in the Fourteenth Street bank and was sent to Elmira. A few days later Annie Goldman, alias Jeannette Brown, was captured in the Twenty-ninth street branch of the Corn Exchange bank while presenting a check that Porazzo is supposed to have forged. She said she was not the real culprit and the grand jury did not indict her.

Porazzo was followed by Pinkerton detectives. Usually, they say, he handed the checks to a go-between, but at last they saw him give a forged check to Chas. Muhler and Stephen Maggi, two of his alleged agents, and on Saturday last Muhler and Maggi were arrested just after they had robbed private letter boxes near Greene and Bleeker streets and taken checks from some of the letters they had pocketed. They were held for the grand jury.

On Wednesday Porazzo was arrested in an Italian club at 402 East Twelfth street. The police and the Pinkertons say they have found his handwriting on many forged checks. So far as they know he never took a check to a bank himself, but through a go-between hired his comrades to do it by the job.

With Porazzo were held for the grand jury yesterday Nicholas Fillinger, alias Flying Jerry or Philip Stanley; Frank Williams, alias Billy O'Neil, and Antonio Carnivale, all charged with swindling banks with Porazzo's checks.

EXTRA

CONDITION IS FILTHY

Merrimack Packed With Sewage Between the Bridges

City Engineer Kearney is holding his nose high in the air and it is not because of any false pride but because he made an investigation of the sewer outlets into the Merrimack river and he hasn't recovered from it yet. Mr. Kearney found a most dangerous and nauseating condition of affairs in the river between Pawtucket Falls and Hunt's Falls and decries the board of health to take immediate action to protect public health by forbidding bathing and fishing in the Merrimack river between Pawtucket Falls and Hunt's Falls. The engineer found among other conditions that the Centralville bridge is one continuous mass of filth and offal accumulated in some places six feet on the river bottom. On the outlet pipe of one of these sewers at a particularly filthy place he found a number of children fishing while at another place equally bad he saw children bathing.

As a result of his investigations he will take the committee on sewers over the territory and they will petition to have the outlets extended into the channel of the river. The outlets of the Coburn and Fulton street sewers in Front street, enter the river only three feet from the shore and do not reach the channel of the river. At this point the river bottom is packed with old bed springs and bed clothing and offal six feet deep. The outlet does not reach the channel, but is ponded there and remains practically all the time. The sewer that serves westerly Pawtucketville enters the river at the foot of Sparks avenue on a shoal, while the sewers of Campaw and Denver streets enter into stagnant water. There is considerable bathing and fishing done in this locality, and the city engineer believes that if the public health would be protected both should be stopped and the outlets extended into the stream.

AT EDSON SCHOOL

Savings Bank Scheme Proves Big Success

There are some wise and thrifty boys and girls at the Edson school, according to the reports from the savings bank scheme at that school. Up to 14 weeks ago all the grammar schools in Lowell had their savings banks except the Edson school and this was not wondered at, because the children who attend the Edson for the most part are the children of working people and would not be expected to have as much spending money as others whose parents are well-to-do. The scheme is to encourage children to save their money and it is being worked with great success in this city. Eighteen weeks ago the Edson school took up the scheme and now leads all the schools of the city in the amount deposited, showing a total deposit of $389, an average of about $50 per week for the 18 weeks and the books show 150 depositors.

The Pandora, 36 ft. in length, started from Dunbar, West Australia, on May 10, 1910, and visited Melbourne, Sydney, Auckland, N. Z., Easter Island, West Falkland Islands and Ascension Island, whence they made a long run to this port. The Pandora will go to England and return to Australia by way of the Suez canal. The Pandora is slightly smaller than the Spray, in which Capt. Slocum circumnavigated the globe.

MADE SUICIDE PACT

Two Lowell Girls Admit That They Decided to End Their Lives

Laura Dresser and Nellie Gray, two young women, entered into a suicide pact yesterday afternoon. It is alleged, and the former attempted to end her life by throwing herself into the waters of Lake Massawippi, but was rescued. The Gray girl this morning attempted to jump into the Merrimack river in the vicinity of Broadway and Pawtucket street, but Patrolman Joseph Johnson happened to be in the vicinity in the nick of time and prevented the girl from committing the rash act.

The Dresser girl is 22 years of age and resides at 14 Ralph street, while the Gray girl lives with her parents at 15 McFarlin avenue, off Pawtucket street.

The Dresser girl has been employed for a short time by Mrs. August Fels at Tray Rock in Lakeview, and the Gray girl worked as a domestic at George L. Fowler's house in Middlesex Village. The girls were friends and yesterday afternoon they both went to Lakeview and met some friends. It is said that they then decided to end their lives, and sitting on a bench in the park it was agreed between them that they would jump into the water.

The Dresser girl waited until night came on, and then walked down to the boat landing at which the Willow Dale steamer stops and jumped off the wharf. The water was not deep, and she waded out into the deeper water. Two men who had witnessed her actions jumped into the water and saved her. Miss Dresser, after being rescued, said she was tired of living and wanted to end her life, but she was turned over to Supt. John Kelly of Lakeview park, who brought her to Lowell, and she was placed in the detention room at the police station.

This morning when she appeared in court she was none the worse for her voluntary ducking.

She would not talk at first, but finally admitted that she was despondent and had agreed with the Gray girl to end her life. When the police learned of the pact Supt. Welch notified the patrolmen to be on the lookout for the Gray girl and at about 9:15 o'clock she was found on the bank of the Merrimack river near the Boston & Northern power house by Patrolman Joseph Johnson and he sent her to the police station.

Miss Gray admitted that she had entered into a suicide pact with the Dresser girl, but instead of drowning herself last night decided to wait until this morning. She said that she was about to throw herself into the river when a carriage approached and in order that they would not see her enter the water she waited until they passed and was about to end her life when the patrolman came on the scene. She said that she had agreed with the Dresser girl to end her life and thinking that the latter was dead was about to carry out her promise.

When Patrolman Johnson reached the place he found that the girl had divested herself of her coat and hat and was preparing to make a plunge.

Neither of the girls could explain the reason for their attempt to commit the rash act other than that they were sick and tired of working.

The Gray girl, who is well developed and appears to be much older than she is, gave her age as 15 years, while the Dresser girl, who is rather slight, said she was 22 years old.

They will be cared for by Miss Skilton of the Florence Crittendon home.

DAMAGE OF $50,000

Caused by Fire in in Lumber Yards in Lynn

It was with great difficulty that the police helped them remove their belongings to the street. At 2:30 the fire in the lumber yards was under control but grave fears were felt for the tenement house.

REWARD OFFERED

FOR ARREST OF PERSON WHO ABANDONED KITTENS

Four kittens, enclosed in a basket, were abandoned on the stairs leading to the office of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. in Central street yesterday afternoon, by some unknown person. The cries of the kittens attracted the attention of some of the operators, who opened the cover of the basket and found them.

The matter was reported to Agent Richardson of the Lowell Humane society and he was about to take charge of them, but two of the lady operators adopted two of the kittens and two of the male employees took the other two and the quartet is assured of good homes in the future.

The Humane society offers a reward of $1 for the arrest of the person who abandoned the kittens.

The police were notified and Inspector Charles L. Manning and Messenger John J. Pindar were sent to the house, the latter cutting down the body.

Hussian had been in this country but three weeks. He worked for a week in the Prescott mills but had been out of employment for several days.

The room where he was found was occupied by himself and several others of his fellow countrymen. They left the place this morning about 5 o'clock to go to their work and Hussian was apparently asleep at the time.

One of the occupants, Alla Zoot, went in search of work in one of the local mills, but being unable to secure a position returned to the house and upon entering the room discovered Hussian suspended by a rope from a water pipe on the side of the wall.

Being unable to speak the English language, he hastened to the home of a friend in Market street and informed the latter of the suicide. The friend notified the police.

When the police arrived they found Hussian's body lying on the bed, one end of the rope around his neck and the other attached to the water pipe. He was black in the face and had been dead for several hours. Mr. Pindar cut the rope and notified Undertakers M. H. McBrighn and Sons and they removed the body to their workroom in Gorham street, where it was viewed by Medical Examiner J. V. Meigs, who signed the death return "suicide by hanging."

Writes of Trip to Santo Domingo City

Rodney G. F. Moore, a Lowell boy on the U. S. S. Petrie writes from Santo Domingo City the following interesting account of his travels:

"We left Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, May 2, 11, and arrived here May 4, 11, traveling a distance of 402 miles. Upon arrival we took up at our original berth using coconut trees for bollards, near the mouth of the Ozama river, and everything was made ship-shape, and monthly money was issued to the crew. After drawing money the next question that came up was, how are we going to get rid of it, for it is a hard thing to do in this country as we were getting but very little liberty, so several of the members of the crew got together and formed a 'baseball league' composed of members of the Port Starboard division, on deck and the Engineers' division. A schedule of games was drawn up, to be played on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday afternoons. Everything went well for about eight games when several members of the teams lost their 'guts' which broke up the league, but while it lasted it was most interesting for nearly every one had an opportunity to get ashore and see the games played, especially those who cared to do so.

The standing of the League teams upon breaking up was as follows: Engineers, 800; Starboard Watch, 550; Port Watch, 550.

The chief experts of this port seem to be stout and burly and every day one can see large towers of sugar and tobacco coming down the river.

"One of the most interesting places that I have visited while in this port is about four miles inland and is called in Spanish, 'Tras Ojos Cavo' meaning 'Three eyes.' This cave has three distinct lakes of water, natural bridges and grottoes. Several of our party went in bathing while there and the water was found to be most refreshing, especially after the hard walk out there. The water is as clear as crystal and one can see the bottom at any place in the lake, but it is almost impossible to get to the bottom in an ordinary plunge dive. I have two specimens of the formation that were taken from the bottom at a depth of twenty feet. They are of a limestone composition and very hard.

By next mail I will be able to send a view of the cave to your valuable paper for publication if so desired. We have here at 8 a. m. for San Juan, P. R., for coal and supplies. Further destination is not known at this writing.

Hoping soon to be with my Lowell friends once more—for I have found that Lowell is not the worst place in the world after all—I am,

Very truly yours,
Rodney G. F. Moore.

EX-SENATOR HOPKINS DRACUT SCHOOLS CLOSE

Principal Witness at the Lorimer Investigation Today

The Centre School Held Graduating Exercises This Forenoon

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Former Senator Hopkins of Illinois, who was defeated for re-election when Senator Lorimer was elected in 1902, was the principal witness today when the senate committee convened. At the outset of his examination by Attorney Healy of the committee Mr. Hopkins was asked who his opponents were at the republican primaries for United States senator in 1908. Mr. Hopkins said they were W. E. Mason, G. E. Foss and W. G. Webster. After his victory at the senatorial primaries Mr. Hopkins said he was considered the republican candidate and Gov. Deneen was regarded as the candidate for governor. The election of Mr. Lorimer by the legislature of 1909 was then inquired into. The witness told of the election of a speaker by a combination of "democrats and resolute republicans" and of a republican senatorial caucus in which he was selected as the party's candidate.

Elbridge Hancey, counsel for Senator Lorimer, suggested to the witness that the meeting was a "conference" rather than a "caucus." Mr. Hopkins, however, insisted that it was a "caucus."

Mr. Hopkins said he hired a hall at Springfield in which conferences were held every night or so in which his followers conferred. That he was the party candidate was the main argument.

Coming down to reports that he had heard about the use of money to defeat him, Mr. Hopkins repeated the testimony he gave the Illinois legislature investigating committee that on the day Lorimer was elected his private secretary told him Senator McCormick had informed him that $2500 had been offered him (McCormick) to vote for Lorimer.

"Did he vote for Lorimer?" the witness was asked.

"Not until after Lorimer had enough votes to elect him." The former senator said that he did not go to see Mr. McCormick because his secretary reported that Mr. McCormick was going to remain loyal to him.

Mr. Hopkins then told of efforts to keep his forces in line on the day Mr. Lorimer was elected. One of the men he went to see on the floor of the house that day was Representative Johnson Lawrence. "He had always voted for me and told me he was going to vote for Lorimer," said Mr. Hopkins. "I told him if he did he would not be able to convince his people he had not been purchased. He said he would vote for Lorimer but did not admit he had not been purchased."

Mr. Hopkins said he heard that two other members he was going to lose were Logan and Duffee. Both of them had been at his hall at 11 o'clock the night before the election. The witness explained, "and ate my apples and smoked my cigars."

"Where did they go after they left your rooms?"

"My friends told me they went to Senator Lorimer's rooms."

The witness said that when he asked Senator Logan why he was going to change, the senator responded that he (Hopkins) could not be elected and

The four Dracut public schools closed at noon today for the regular summer vacation, and hard it would be to describe the joy of the children when they laid aside the strenuous work of studies to enjoy the outdoor amusements.

At the Parker avenue, Collinsville and Kenwood schools there was no special program, the children laid away their books and after receiving the best wishes of the teachers, left for their respective homes.

The graduation exercises at the Dracut Centre school were held on an elaborate scale this afternoon. At 1:30 o'clock the pupils and the invited guests, who were very numerous, assembled in the upper hall and participated with great interest in the following program:

Opening march, piano, Miss Edna Kierstead; singing of "America," by the pupils; address of welcome, Miss Laura Bentley; singing Italian hymns, the pupils; reading, "William Shakespeare," Miss Marjorie Lake; violin solos, Miss Irene White; reading, "Merchant of Venice," Miss Dorothy Lake; vocal trio, "Summer," the pupils; recitation, "The Chambered Nautilus," Raymond Gendreau; vocal selection, "Blue," Miss Mildred Malton; address, Rev. E. C. Bartlett of the Dracut Centre church; song, "Over Hill, Over Dale," the pupils.

After the rendition of this elaborate program, diplomas were given the following by Mr. Nelson Hunter, chairman of the Dracut school board: Dorothy Lake, Marjorie Lake, Laura Bentley, Edna Bentley, Charles Hayes, Raymond Gendreau, Daisy Scott and Leo Roth.

This was followed by the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," by all the pupils of the school.

Miss A. A. Wright, the principal of the school, as well as the other teachers, deserve to be complimented for the fine training and devotion shown in preparing for the Dracut Centre school.

A FRENCH JUSTICE

Defines Judicial View of Marriage Contract

LONDON, June 23.—Judgment has been given in Paris in a case of breach of promise, which defines the present judicial view of the marriage contract.

The lady petitioner complained that after the banns had been published and the marriage solemnized she had suddenly been jilted. The defendant declared that the lady had said she possessed no great desire for children, and that as he wished to marry in order to become a father, his conscience had compelled him to break off the match.

The judge at once said that he did not wish to hear any more, but would deliver his judgment, which ran as follows:

"Considering that in old times marriage was founded solely on love and considering that since then morality has brought about various evolutions, and that it is now considered as a financial contract to hold both parties in wholesome awe if possible of each other's casualities, since the real motive of marriage is money, the man looking out for a dowry and the woman for a protection, as well as for a standard of morality, it is more capable than herself of administering her fortune, when the new character of marriage is weighed, that the young people should not adopt the habit, as soon as they become engaged, of drawing up an agreement with a clause for damages if broken, as is done elsewhere, as for example among the Armenians, and considering, etc., that the lady has suffered evident damage, I condemn the defendant to pay 25 cents for moral damages and $77.32 for material damages."

The novel idea of a civil contract of betrothal with specific damages is rather approved by the press, and would relieve the judge from the responsibility of fixing them at sums like the above, to arrive at which it is difficult to see what process was used.

THE LAWRENCE CASES

Judge Bell Made His Charge to the Jury Today

SALEM, June 23.—The charge of Judge Bell in the trial in the superior court of the so-called Lawrence graft cases was made this forenoon and the jury retired after the charge. Judge Bell told the jury that the charge against the four defendants, Patrick Lyons, Philip Holland, Michael Flynn and Fred Snow, was conspiracy to defraud the city of Lawrence in connection with paving block contracts and that it was not necessary for the evidence to show that the object of the alleged conspiracy was actually achieved. A conspiracy, he said, must be entered into by more than one person and if the jury returned a verdict of guilty it must be against at least two of the defendants.

Regarding the defendant Snow, the Westford contractor, who turned state's evidence, Judge Bell said:

"It is for you to determine how far his story is fictitious, if it is fictitious at all. If you do not believe Snow the other facts are hardly sufficient to convict."

At another point in his charge the court said:

"You are not to attempt to reform the city of Lawrence but to determine the guilt or innocence of these defendants."

The charge occupied a little more than an hour.

CHARGES DISMISSED

That Were Made Against Several Packing Firms of Boston

BOSTON, June 23.—The indictments returned by the federal grand jury against a number of packing firms and individuals connected with the meat industry in Boston and vicinity, charging unlawful combination in restraint of trade, were dismissed by Judge Putnam in the circuit court today on the ground that the government had not shown that any illegal combination in restraint of trade existed.

The defendants were John Reardon Sons Co., Cambridge, Consolidated Refrigerating Co., Portland, Me., Ferdinand Sulzberger, New York, who had done business with the Reardon company, and Horatio W. Heath, Boston, who had done business with the Consolidated company.

Another indictment charging Horatio W. Heath and Cyrus Hingood of Boston with illegally conspiring to regulate the prices to be paid to wholesale and retail dealers for the purpose of restraining the trade of the Eastern fish and rendering Co. of Portsmouth, N. H., was also dismissed.

SUSPENDS BUSINESS
CHICAGO, June 23.—The board of trade firm of F. H. Lake Co., suspended business today, owing, it was announced, to embarrassments in the southwest. It is expected that the trade in Chicago owes the Lake Co. money which may balance losses in other quarters.

EX-JUDGE H. S. DEWEY

Will Have to Pay $1000 to Carry Up Case

BOSTON, June 23.—To continue his fight against Laurence Minot and other members of the executive committee of the Good Government Association, Inc. his $75,000,000 suit, Ex-Judge Henry S. Dewey will have to put up $1000 with Francis A. Campbell, clerk of the superior court.

Judge Sherman yesterday sent the case to the supreme court. His honor did not find that the bill of exceptions conformed to the truth, but in the exercise of his discretion, reserved the case on the entire record.

There are 500 typewritten sheets of testimony and it will be necessary to print that with all the pleadings to take the case to the highest tribunal. The cost of printing will be about $1000 and Clerk Campbell will have that paid in advance before an order will be given for printing the record.

WIFE IS IN ASYLUM

She Knows Nothing of Her Husband's Suicide

BOSTON, June 23.—The discovery that her husband, shortly after their marriage, had borrowed $500 from two of her best friends, is believed to be responsible for the mental condition of Nell Lewin Neel, playwright and author, who is at a Dorchester sanatorium suffering from a nervous breakdown. The news that her husband, rather than face the charges against him in court, committed suicide in a police station in Detroit has been known from her and it is probable she will not see his body. The police claim he was driven to suicide by his crooked financial dealings.

But three months ago Boston society was set astir by the news Miss Neel had wed Oscar F. Sparte. The man had posed as a Western railroad president and won her affections by his wide knowledge of the world.

The marriage was a secret one, but it was not long after the husband was discovered her husband was nothing but a common swindler. The blow prostrated her.

Creditors chased him wherever he went and the bride set about to write a book to get money to pay some of her husband's debts.

Matters became too hot for Sparte in Boston and he left the city in haste. Mrs. Sparte accompanied him to the train, but on her way home collapsed under the strain.

Letters from her husband so excited her that finally the doctors refused to allow them to be given to her.

He wrote to her, passionately upbraiding himself for the evil courses into which he had fallen and protesting in extravagant terms his love.

These letters renewed the faith of the young wife in her husband. She confided to a friend, "I believe Oscar is a dual personality. These two foreign spirits in him are constantly fighting for supremacy. I think that when he is with me, I am able to help his good spirit to conquer."

The young woman supported herself for a time by giving private lessons in foreign languages and on the royalties from her books. Finally she broke down completely and was removed to a sanatorium.

WOMAN DIED ON TRAIN

NEW ORLEANS, June 22.—While en route from Los Angeles to her daughter's home in Kinsey, N. C., Mrs. D. H. Phillips, mother of the late David Graham Phillips, the author, died suddenly yesterday on a Southern Pacific passenger train a few miles west of Jennings, La. Her body was shipped to Madison, Ind., for burial.

Mrs. Phillips was 52 years old and had been in failing health since the tragic death of her son in New York.

3 CURED OF ECZEMA IN ONE FAMILY

By Cuticura Remedies. Children Scratched Night and Day. Mother Suffered 8 Years. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Ringworm too.

"When a child, I suffered eight years with eczema. I could not sleep at night, and had sores all over my chest. We had doctors and none could do any good, until my mother saw the advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies in the paper. We used the Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent, and they cured me of eczema. I also used them on my five children. Two of them had eczema very badly. When my children had eczema, I was not worried at all, as I know the Cuticura Remedies would do their work. They had sores all over their heads, their hair would fall out, and they would scratch all night and day. They had it on their heads, face, and in back of the ears so that I thought their ears would drop off. I treated the heads and bodies with Cuticura Soap and they are as clean as the driven snow. Cuticura Soap and Ointment also cured my children of ringworm. I would not be without the Cuticura Remedies. They are wonderful." WIFE GETS FORTUNE

Her Husband Will Leave the Water Wagon

DANBURY, Conn., June 23.—Mrs. Charles S. Sigourney, of this city, who says she has come into an English inheritance of $11,000,000, today declared it to be her chief ambition to provide her husband with a stable of fast horses. He was at one time one of the most noted owners and drivers of race horses in America.

Mrs. Sigourney, who asserts she is now the Rt. Hon. Berle Wadling Hall, by virtue of titles granted by the House of Lords last September, said she intended to do good with her money and would not forget the town of Danbury, although she is to reside in Wales in the future.

In her little farmhouse, amid the poorest surroundings, Mrs. Sigourney is busy packing her belongings, preparatory to sailing for England July 1, to take possession of her vast estate.

"Once more I will have the fine dresses I was accustomed to when my husband's name was a by-word on the leading race courses," she said. "My health is so poor that I will not be able to enjoy the money as I should have two years ago, but I hope to be able to make a lot of poor persons little better as a result of my wind-fall."

"My husband cannot yet realize our good fortune after his awful financial reverses. The newspaper accounts of the fine racing in England, however, have cheered him up immensely, and my chief ambition is to have him throw aside his position as driver on the spring water wagon and resume his prominence as the owner of winning mounts."

HE ESCAPED INJURY

Man Fell a Distance of 100 Feet

NEW YORK, June 23.—Evan Sherman, 50 years old, of 203 West 131st street, fell from the eighth story of the Scott & Bowring building, at 403 Pearl street, yesterday, and half an hour later in St. Gregory's hospital, with no injuries but two slight scratches on his knees, as a result of his 100-foot plunge, was describing his sensations while in the air.

Sherman once, before dropped from the fourth floor of a building in which he was working as a painter, getting off with a few bruises.

He was painting yesterday on a window ledge when he slipped and pitched headlong toward the sidewalk. As he passed some telegraph wires he grasped one of them. He lost his hold but the fall was broken. He was stunned, but by the time Dr. Savage arrived from St. Gregory's he was in good shape.

"When I felt myself going," said Sherman, "I thought my time had come. I made up my mind to fall, if I could, feet first. I remembered the other fall I had and felt my good luck would not desert me. I thought of my wife and children, in fact, I thought of everything possible. My brain never worked so fast."

NEW YORK, June 23.—The arrival here of the steamship Olympic on her maiden trans-Atlantic trip gives the American public its first opportunity to inspect the largest and greatest steamship in the world. It took the Olympic 5 days 15 hours 32 minutes to cross the Atlantic. The average speed of the new liner over the long course of 2,894 miles was 21.17 knots an hour.

Besides the Turkish bath, swimming pool, gymnasium, deck golf course, squash racket court and sun parlor, there has been provided a large ballroom that will accommodate her dancers.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The Hudson and Manhattan Railway company has agreed to pay Mrs. Fay Lovejoy, of No. 532 Riverside Drive $19,500 for the loss of her husband, Irving T. Lovejoy, killed in the company's elevator at the Exchange place, Jersey City, tunnel station on Jan. 1, 1910.

The elevator was not in service. Lovejoy and August O. Flocker, of No. 343 Montross street, Jersey City, rushed into it when the repairers started it, and were caught and crushed fatally. Flocker's father, Rudolph, has a suit for $100,000 pending.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—That cancer is a germ disease is the conclusion reached by Dr. Erwin F. Smith, chief pathologist of the bureau of plant industry, from his studies of plant tumors. "Physicians," said Dr. Smith today, "believe that cancer is not a germ disease, simply because they have never been able to find the germ, but I have proved conclusively that plant tumors—which are nothing more than cancers in the vegetable world—are due to a parasite despite the fact that I have never seen or found the organism in plant cells with the aid of the microscope."

Miss Perrin's Billerica Pupils Held Reception

One of the prettiest and most successful social affairs that has taken place in North Billerica in a long time was the annual reception of the Billerica pupils of Miss L. B. Perrin, held at Talbot Memorial hall last evening.

The Billerica pupils were assisted by a few of Miss Perrin's Lowell pupils and an exquisitely beautiful program was carried out, all of the little performers displaying captivating grace and showing the good results of careful and artistic training.

MISS L. BLANCHE PERRIN,
Who Conducted the Dances.

The evening's entertainment opened with a program of fancy dances in costume by the pupils as follows:

Japanese dance: Solo, Miss Isabel Kearney; chorus, Misses Florence Mahoney, Mary Garner, Isabel Mahoney, Lillian Barton, Agnes Hennessey, Evelyn Carey, Marcelle Hales, Bessie Allen, Alice Kelly, Katie Condon, Mildred Garner, Anna Cassidy, Lena Cassidy, Anna Higgins.

Spanish dance: Marion Sheridan, Highland fling: Flora McLean, Mary Connor, Charlotte Price, Raymond Morley, Alison Dole.

Skirt dance: Elizabeth Conway.

Sword dance: Flora McLean, Raymond Morley.

Irish reel: Madeline Driscoll, Raymond Sheppard.

All the youthful dancers were liberally applauded, and the two big hits of the evening were made by little Misses Elizabeth Conway and Marion Sheridan.

Little Miss Conway is the charming and talented daughter of Chief of Police Conway and it was her first appearance in public. In the captivating dances of the skirt dance she was equally as graceful and far more beautiful to behold than some of the fair headlins of the theatrical world.

Miss Sheridan's Spanish dance was also particularly pleasing. The other numbers were all faultlessly done.

At the conclusion of the program, general dancing was taken up, ending with a grand march participated in by about 50 of the young ladies.

The march consisted of a series of most attractive evolutions and was personally directed by Miss Perrin. After the march, general dancing was enjoyed with an order of 16 numbers to the music of Hubert's orchestra.

The floor manager was Mr. Newell Ritchie and the aids: Messrs E. Rutledge, A. Mahoney, J. White and L. Mahoney; ushers, Masters H. Tacey, E. Mahoney, F. McNulty, M. Hayes, H. Conway and E. Barton; matrons, Mrs. T. F. Sheridan, Mrs. A. Allen, Mrs. J. Kelly and Mrs. T. J. Callahan.

HE FIRED TWO SHOTS THREE MEN INJURED

Unknown Farm Hand Committed Suicide

An unknown man, evidently a former member of the U. S. Marine Corps, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head with a 32-calibre revolver at the Pike farm in Tewksbury yesterday afternoon.

He fired two shots, both of which took effect in the head, and died before surgical aid could be summoned. The revolver was found beside the body.

Medical Examiner Meigs viewed the remains at Saunders' undertaking establishment and gave out the following description of the deceased:

About 5 feet, 11 inches in height, between 25 and 30 years in age; weight, 110 pounds, smooth shaven, dark brown hair, fair brown eyes and natural teeth, perfect. He was dressed in a blue denim jumper, gray and black striped overalls, tan colored army shirt marked "T. J. Henry." Inside the collar was another mark that was indelible. Blue serge trousers, black leather shoes which were stamped on the inside of the sole, "U. S. Inspected U. S. M. C." On the congress lining of the shoe was marked A. B. Wilder-moth. His stockings were gray mixed wool and he wore white undershorts.

On his person was found a gold filled watch, gold chain on which was a woman's sunset ring with the initials "A. M." also a pawn ticket on the Reliable Loan Co., 1090 Washington street, Boston, numbered 17,394, and dated June 6, 1911. The residence given on the pawn ticket was 1250 Washington street and the name Charles H. Haven. The article pawned was a suit and the amount raised was 50 cents.

The unknown applied at the Pike market in Middlesex street for work and was sent to the Pike farm. On his arrival at the farm he was put to work in the field and seemed to be a good workman. About 4 o'clock he was sent to the barn to find a hoe. When he did not appear within half an hour Mr. Pike went toward the barn to ascertain what had become of him. He was horrified to find the man lying in a pool of blood between the barn and a shed. He was still alive when found but passed away in a short time.

Automobile Was Struck by Train at Tilton

TILTON, N. H., June 23.—The three men injured in last night's accident near here when their automobile was struck by a train were reported as doing well today and there was every prospect that all would recover.

Careful examination by physicians developed the fact that Scott Spaulding, who at first was thought to be critically injured, was not badly hurt. George Gage had a leg amputated and, in addition, he suffered serious internal injuries but his recovery is expected. Thomas Sawyer, the third member of the party, sustained a dislocation of the hip and injuries about the back. All of the injured men live in Franklin.

JAIL SENTENCE

FOR PUGILIST ACCUSED OF BEATING HIS WIFE

BOSTON, June 23.—"Sammy" Ferguson, heavyweight pugilist, or plain John Ferguson, as he figures on the police records, was sentenced to six months in the house of correction for the East Boston court yesterday for trying to demonstrate to his wife, Alice, that he is a real fist champion. The trouble occurred last Tuesday night at the Ferguson home, 127 Paris street, East Boston. That it was a warm time was demonstrated by Mrs. Ferguson when she showed the marks of the conflict.

"He hit me with the frying pan," declared Mrs. Ferguson.

"Hit you with what?" inquired Judge Dimick, giving the prize fighter a peculiar look.

"The frying pan," replied Mrs. Ferguson. "He grabbed it off the back of the stove and let me have it. It might have hit my head, but I threw up my arm and it struck me there."

Mrs. Ferguson showed the bruised arm as evidence. It was covered with black and blue marks. So likewise was the other one.

"Six months," said Judge Dimick laconically.

Sandy appealed and was held in $300 for the superior court.

Housework Drudgery

Housework is drudgery for the weak woman. She brushes, dusts and scrubs, or is on her feet all day attending to the many details of the household, her back aching, her temples throbbing, nerves quivering under the stress of pain, possibly dizzy feelings. Sometimes rest in bed is not refreshing, because the poor tired nerves do not permit of refreshing sleep. The real need of weak, nervous women is satisfied by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

It Makes Weak Women Strong and Sick Women Well.

This "Prescription" removes the cause of women's weaknesses, heats inflammation and ulceration, and cures those weaknesses so peculiar to women. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite and induces restful sleep.

Dr. Pierce is perfectly willing to let every one know what his "Favorite Prescription" contains, a complete list of ingredients on the bottle-wrapper. Do not let any unscrupulous druggist persuade you that his substitute of unknown composition is "just as good" in order that he may make a bigger profit. Just smile and shake your head! A CRYING SHAME

I hear complaints of dullness; but if there be any apathy in clothing circles it has not evinced itself in my Lowell store this season.

It would indeed be a crying shame, as a friendly ready made dealer said to me Wednesday, if I didn't do a wonderful business. I don't speak about profits, said he, because at the prices you sell these goods, you are not entitled to profits, but as for doing business, it would be a crying shame if the people had become so steeped in extravagance as not to make purchases so manifestly under regular prices. That's from a man who sells you clothing at regular prices—from a man who gives you the best run that it is possible for his method of business to give his customers. But don't take his word blindly, don't take my word blindly, come in and examine my offering and use your own natural born judgment. I didn't hypnotize the surging humanity that thronged my store this last week nor did I resort to other occult methods to compel them to buy. They bought of their own free will. My only influence is the power of values—the only magic spell I have over you is cast by my woollens. Like the others you will buy of your own free will, and they tell me business is dull elsewhere.

MAN MAKES CHARGE AGAINST ACTRESS WIFE

NEW YORK, June 23.—Helen Wall Stevenson, who was formerly a member of the "Three Twins" company, appeared yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Dugan to defend an action for divorce. Her husband, Charles A. Stevenson, charges her with misconduct in Philadelphia in October last with Kenneth Blair. Mrs. Stevenson has a counter claim for separation on the ground of abandonment.

Mrs. Stevenson has procured the testimony of witnesses by deposition. These witnesses were present last October in Philadelphia when Mrs. Stevenson was arraigned before a magistrate. The Stevensons have a three-year-old daughter.

Matthews left Bath 30 years ago and this was the first time he has been back. For a time he was employed as a fireman on the ill-fated Portland, but left her just before she made her last voyage. His name was given, however, as among the crew.

PRETTY LAWN FETE

In Aid of St. Columba's
Parish Last Evening

A delightful and very successful lawn party in aid of St. Columba's parish was held by the Tabernacle society of the church on the spacious lawns and verandas of the beautiful residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Saunders, 325 Mammoth road.

The grounds were decorated with Japanese lanterns and large calcium lights, the lanterns being strung along the veranda and among the trees. Tables were set among the trees at which food and light refreshments were served. A fortune teller's tent was liberally patronized and dancing on the green was enjoyed. An enjoyable feature of the evening was the auto riding which alone netted a snug sum. The autos were loaned by the Moody Bridge garage through the kindness of Mr. Knudette and Mr. Arthur Cumiskey. The calcium lights were loaned by the B. & N. railroad. The proceeds go to defray the expenses of the sanctuary furnishings in the new church. Those who had charge of the pleasant affair were: General manager, Miss Minnie Saunders; assistants, Misses Jenckes and Mrs. Arthur Cumiskey, Mrs. Danden, Agnes Porter, Kate Holmes, Mrs. M. Walsh and Tabernacle society girls; Messrs. David Desmond, John McNaughton, Matthew Wholey, Peter McManimon, James Gorman and Joseph Whiteley.

PERMANENT COURT
OF ARBITRATION MAY BE CRE-
ATED SOON

WASHINGTON, June 23.—A measurable advance toward the creation of the permanent court of arbitration, the ideal of all publicists and lovers of peace, will be recorded when the British government finally gives its sanction to the declaration of London providing for the erection of an international prize court. The declaration of the British premier last week, in answer to the address of the British admirals that the government had decided to adhere to the prize court convention has given great satisfaction in official circles here. In the opinion of Secretary Knox such action would clear the way for the consummation of the more important agreement upon the permanent court protocol. President Taft, Secretary Knox and Senator Root have not hesitated to indicate their belief that the establishment of the permanent court of arbitration, followed as it would be by the adoption by all great nations of a universal code of international law, would work more for the perpetuation of peace among nations than many separate arbitration treaties.

This project probably will form the most important feature of the next Hague conference, which will assemble in about three years and in preparation for its proper presentation Secretary Knox has been in communication with nearly all of the signatory powers to the Hague convention with most encouraging results.

SHE SHOT HERSELF

Woman Found Unconscious in a Chair

NEW YORK, June 23.—A pistol shot and a crash of glass falling among a group of children on the sidewalk in front of the Evelyn court apartments, No. 5 Pinchurst avenue, early last evening, was not even noticed by little Frieda Marks and her brother, Arthur, who were absorbed in a game. Another child pointed to a third floor front window and cried: "Oh, Frieda, look, there's a big hole in the window of where you live."

But even then the children did not think anything was the matter. When their father, Albert Marks, a wealthy importer, came home, they romped upstairs with him.

As he entered the parlor Mr. Marks thrust the children behind him and stood staring at the unconscious form of his wife, Frieda, who was sitting in a rocking chair beside the window, in which there was a large hole. A revolver lay on the floor. A bullet had passed through her temples and then through the window.

A physician was summoned and he had Mrs. Marks rushed to Washington Heights hospital, where she lies in a critical condition.

The police say Mrs. Marks had written two brief notes before attempting suicide. They were in German, one to the eleven-year-old child, Frieda, the other addressed to the police. Mr. Marks denied that there had ever been any trouble between himself and his wife.

She was the step-mother of the children, and had been married to Mr. Marks for three years. The children were devoted to her and their father said he knew of no reason for her attempt to die.

On the YES or NO of Gov. Bass of New Hampshire, depends whether we are going through the wall. The Nesmith estate is desirous of closing the entire alleyway in the rear of this building. Contractor Burton Wiggin already has new part built to street level but awaits the consent of the governor, which probably will be given before building on the entire piece of ground including the alleyway. This will enable us to go through the wall on Paige street, and therefore means that we must dispose of as much as possible of our present stock so as to make way for the contractors.

With this end in view, we wish to inform the public, beginning tomorrow until further notice, that we will place at your disposal, our enormous stock of Clothing, Furnishings and Shoes at greatly reduced prices. To the buying public that is in need of Clothing, Furnishings and Shoes, we desire to say, that if from 25 to 33 per cent. reduction is any inducement to come to this store, it is your opportunity. We will not take up your time mentioning many prices, but we simply inform you to come and partake of the many big values we will have for you.

To the man who needs a suit and desires to save $5.00, we say, come and look at the suits we place on sale that formerly were

Ten Dollar Suits, Now - $5.00

Twelve Dollar Suits, Now - $6.95

Fifteen Dollar Suits, Now - $9.95

Eighteen and Twenty Dollar Suits, 11.95

You will be amply repaid for your time if you look into these great values, and even if you do not need clothing, our prices on Furnishings and Shoes will be well worth coming for.

Every article in the store will be reduced, excepting ARROW COLLARS, which we are compelled to hold at former prices owing to agreement.

Are you going to take advantage of this opportunity we offer you to save money? Bear it in mind and come tomorrow or next week and get your share.

TAFT IN FALL RIVER

This is President's Day at the Great Textile Celebration

FALL RIVER, June 23.—The biggest day of the week's festivities in celebrating the 100th anniversary of the building in this city of the first cotton mill in America came today with the arrival of President Taft. The city, already elaborately decorated, put on an extra trimming for today's events and there was scarcely a structure along the route which was mapped out for the president that did not have at least one American flag out to greet the nation's chief executive.

The president was due to arrive here at one o'clock in the afternoon on the presidential yacht Mayflower which left New York at 7 o'clock this morning. As an escort up Mount Hope bay there was the big government built battleship Connecticut, the flagship of the Atlantic fleet which led the battleships on the memorable world cruise together with a fleet of torpedo boats and revenue cutters. At the Mayflower came up the bay the revenue cutters Gresham and Aqueduct, which have been here for the week's festivities, roared out the presidential salute. This was the signal for every whistle in the harbor and every bell in the city to let loose and for two minutes there was a mighty roar of welcome for the president's first visit to this city.

When the president landed he walked upon a velvet carpeted wharf and met a military escort of 1200 men. From the battleship Connecticut were landed 250 marines and the naval training station at Newport furnished 2500 more men, while four regular companies were in line from Fort Adams and other forts in Narragansett bay. Supplementing this escort was the Twelfth corps of coast artillery from this city and other companies of the same organization from New Bedford, Taunton and nearby cities with the local companies of the naval brigade.

Under the escort of these troops the president rode in an automobile to the manufacturers' exposition at the state armory after which the procession was re-formed and proceeded to South park, where the president held a reception and delivered an address.

Among those to greet the president here besides Mayor Thomas Higgins, who extended the official welcome of the city there were Governor Bass, Lieutenant Governor Frothingham and the mayors of Boston, New Bedford, Providence, Taunton, Brockton, Newbury, Cambridge and Lynn.

Following the address the committee planned to take Mr. Taft on an auto tour about the city, to gain a view not only of the residential sections but to obtain an idea of the cotton industry in this, the largest manufacturing center in the country with its 101 mills in which $50,000,000 capital is invested and its 4,000,000 spindles, one-seventh of the whole number in the United States, employing, when running on full time, 37,000 operatives with a weekly payroll of $275,000.

As the president had an engagement to speak in Providence tonight, the return to the Mayflower was arranged for five o'clock.

WON $2500 PRIZE

MAN WALKED FROM DENVER TO BOSTON

BOSTON, June 23.—Arriving from Denver one month ahead of time on his long walk to this city, William Henry Chapman, a 62-year-old cow puncher, won a prize of $2500 offered by the Western Stock association of Denver, when he walked into Boston City Hall yesterday morning, covered with dust and weighing twenty-three pounds more than when he started.

Leaving Denver April 15, Chapman reached New York June 6, beating Western time by five and a half days, having made the trip of 3601 miles in fifty-five days. Walking at the rate of fifty miles a day, he came to Boston by the way of Rochester, New Haven, Conn., and Worcester.

Chapman was received at City Hall by Assistant Secretary Edward Moore. Almost the first thing he said was, "Never again. It was a case of eat, chew and drink dust kicked up by the buzz wagons all the way from Denver."

Chapman was born in South Glastonbury, Conn., and has been a cow puncher since 1876. He weighed 150 pounds when he started on his long journey and 175½ pounds when he came through Marlboro.

HARVARD AND YALE HIS GOLDEN WEDDING

Second Big Ball Game Observed by Former Lowell Pastor

CAMBRIDGE, June 23.—Harvard and Yale met on Soldiers field today in the second game of their annual baseball series. The Harvard players, confident that they did not outdo themselves Tuesday in winning from the Yells at New Haven 3 to 2, expected today to win the second game of the series for the first time in eight years.

It was the hope of Yale's men to "come back" and make a third game necessary.

The interest which always attaches to dual competitions between the Crimson and Blue had been accentuated among Harvard men by the team's unexpected strength as developed Tuesday and a large crowd was expected to watch the game. Captain McLaughlin of Harvard was slated to start in the box, but "50x" Sexton, who had Yale at his mercy Tuesday, was in reserve. Hartwell, who was knocked out of the box by Harvard Tuesday, was still first choice today, with Freeman a possibility.

BOSTON, June 23.—The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. George Whitaker celebrated their golden wedding yesterday afternoon and evening at the home of their son, George E. Whitaker, publisher of Zion's Herald, and member of the Somerville school board, at 15 Walnut street, Somerville.

They were congratulated by many

MRS. P. SUTTLES.

ATLANTA, Ga. (Special).—"It is with great pleasure that I acknowledge the marriage of Dr. George E. Whitaker. I have taken it at many different times in my life as a tonic and stimulant, and have been greatly benefited by its use each time. Regulating my strength in a very short while, I am 41 years of age and the mother of nine fine children. I hope all who wish health and strength will take Dr. George's Pure Malt Whiskey. I know it will do them good." Mrs. P. Suttles, 90 Ira street.

Dr. George's Pure Malt Whiskey is an absolutely pure, gentle and invigorating stimulant of Dr. George's. When taken at meal times it stimulates the muscular surfaces and little glands of the stomach to a healthy action, thereby improving the digestion and assimilation of the food and giving to the system its full proportion of nourishment. This action upon the digestive process is of great importance, as it brings to all the tissues and organs of the body the nutriment necessary to their sustenance and indirectly to the whole system strength and vigor. It is prescribed by doctors and recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

Thousands of letters of gratitude are received from men and women in all walks of life, both old and young, who have been cured and benefited by the use of this great medicine and who continue to enjoy good health.

Sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY by druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct, $1.00 a large bottle.

Watts, to leave this city next Thursday for Europe, where they will claim the regiment, under arrest in Austria and Russia, who are wanted in this city for participating in the robbery of the jewelry store of Samuel E. Early last winter the men, according to information received by Deputy Watts, were in Europe and he sent Inspector Thomas K. Lynch across the water to locate them.

Joseph and Jacob Goldberg, two of the men, were located in a prison in Austria. Lynch, after fixing his case for the return of the Goldbergs, was scouting for Harris Rothstein, the third man in the robbery and succeeded in locating him in a small hamlet near St. Petersburg, Russia, where he was born and where his friends make their home.

Grouin and Lee will go as far as Germany, Morrissey going to St. Petersburg for the purpose of assisting Lynch in identifying Rothstein if he fleighs the extradition.

DROPPED DEAD
MAN PASSED AWAY SUDDENLY AT FLAG RAISING IN LYNN

LYNN, June 23.—The raising of a flag on the new factory of the J. P. Renton Shoe company here yesterday brought to a close the exercises with which the structure was opened, and ended the life of Albert Z. Potter, master carpenter of the concern that built it.

Potter was one of those who attended the exercises. As the flag went to the peak, he took off his hat and, waving it, shouted:

"Three cheers for Charles E. Harwood, president of the J. P. Renton Shoe company."

He then collapsed and when the others reached him, he was dead.

The flag was brought down to half-mast and remained there the remainder of the day.

Small accounts solicited and appreciated. The Old Lowell National Bank.

FERNALD IS MISSINGWoods Were Searched
For Lumberman

BROOKFIELD, N. H., June 23.—Charles H. Fernald, aged 38, a well known lumberman, who for the past six months has been operating a large lumber lot here for William H. Wiley, Jr., of Sanbornville, mysteriously disappeared from his lumber camp in this town three weeks ago.

The day before he was missed he had serious trouble with a man employed in a neighboring camp and the next day started to walk to the village. That was the last seen of him. The other men drew his pay about noon the same day and left town, being absent from the camp in the forenoon and doing no work.

For a few days after the departure of Mr. Fernald those employed at his camp supposed that he was away on business, but his continued absence alarmed them and they have commenced a search with his relatives and friends, finding no trace of him.

Yesterday the men of both camps, about 125, searched for him in the woods without success, and have asked the assistance of the selectmen. Mr. Fernald is not a drinking man and the day before he disappeared had more than $500 in his pocket. It being his custom to carry large sums of money, Mr. Fernald has operated a large lumber lot in various parts of the state, and when business was dull made his headquarters at Charles Winkley's, South Main street, Rochester. Mrs. Winkley stated yesterday to a reporter, that Mr. Fernald left her house in March, leaving his trunk, clothing and a revolver there. Mr. and Mrs. Winkley have much alarm about him and fear foul play as it was not his custom to go away and neglect his business.

Mr. Fernald has a wife and a son in a Boston suburb, but of late he has not lived with them.

GREAT DEMANDFOR STATISTICAL ABSTRACT OF THE UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Seven hundred and fifty pages of solid figures unaccompanied by text discussions other than explanatory notes, form a rather uninteresting looking volume issued by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor, entitled Statistical Abstract of the United States, yet this annual volume, the thirty-third issue of which has just made its appearance, is called for by thousands of people in every part of the United States and in fact in every part of the world. It tells of the area, natural resources, and population of the country from the adoption of the constitution to the present time; agriculture, forestry and fisheries; manufacturing and mining industries; occupations, labor and wages; internal communication and transportation; merchant marine and shipping; foreign commerce, internal commerce, commerce of possessions and territories; prices, consumption estimates, money, banking and insurance; wealth and public finance; the civil service, army, navy, pensions, congressional apportionment, the presidential elections; the statistical records of progress of the United States from 1800 to 1910, and closes with a few pages devoted to commercial, financial and monetary statistics of the principal countries of the world. It is compiled by the bureau of statistics, in part from its own data of commerce and transportation, in part from data gathered by other governmental organizations.

This annual publication originating with the bureau of statistics thirty-three years ago, then a small volume of 150 octavo pages, has grown with the growth of the country and the demands of the public for additional information, to 750 pages in this thirty-third number just issued. Purely statistical, and thus appealing only to those desiring definite information in concrete form, it presents many interesting pictures of conditions past and present in the United States.

For instance, the 100 pages devoted to the general subject of area, natural resources and population shows the data of admission of each state and territory, and their respective areas, land area, water area, and population, amounting in 1910 to 712 million acres, and forming 41 per cent of the total land area of the country; swamps and overflow lands, 75 million acres; developed waterpowers 5 1-3 million horsepower; estimated coal supply by states and territories, estimated from one supply, the number of farms irrigated, 167,000 in 1907, and number of acres 11 million; the various irrigation projects commenced and the respective area to be reclaimed; population from 1790 by decennial years to the present time, and population of states and principal cities, and each census; share which persons of foreign birth form of the population at various dates; marriage and divorce statistics; school population, enrollment and attendance of pupils, universities, colleges and technical schools, with students and instructors; and temperature and rainfall for various sections of the country.

The fifty pages devoted to agriculture, forestry and fisheries show the number and acreage of farms by decennial periods extending back to 1850, value of farm property by states and territories amounting to over 20 billion dollars in 1900, the latest year for which complete statistics are available; the production of principal crops, and of other farm products, including oats, butter, wool and chickens, the wealth produced on farms for a term of years, showing a growth from 5 billion dollars in 1870 to practically 9 billion in 1910; the numerous other facts relating to the wonderful development of the agriculture of the country for a long term of years.

The 50 pages devoted to manufacturing and mining industries show the summary of manufactures by principal industries in census years from 1850 to 1905, the gross value of manufactures having grown from 1-3 billion in 1850 to 15 billion in 1905; the production of iron ore, pig iron, steel, tin plates, coal, gold and silver; building operations in principal cities; and numerous other facts regarding the development of the manufacturing industry of the United States.

The 25 pages devoted to occupations, labor and wages show the share of the population engaged in gainful occupations, including separate tables specifying number of each sex employed, and of males and females, lockouts, wages and hours of labor.

The 40 pages devoted to internal communication and transportation include data on the postal service, telegraph statistics, miles of railways operated, length of track, number of persons and tons of freight carried, showing a growth in the United States from 26,400 miles in 1860 to 53,000 in 1907, 93,000 in 1909, and 250,000 in 1910. Data regarding express companies; transportation upon the lakes and principal rivers of the country; freight rates from principal interior points to the coast, and to European ports are also shown.

The 170 pages devoted to foreign commerce show values of imports and exports for a long term of years, the imports having grown from 658 million dollars in 1850 to 759 million in 1890, 550 million in 1900, and 1557 million in 1910, while the exports show a growth from 335 million dollars in 1850 to 558 million in 1900, 1,394 million in 1900, and to 1745 million in 1910. The share which crude materials for use in manufacturing formed in the total imports in 1890 was 21.6 per cent, in 1900, 32.5 per cent, and in 1910, 36.4 per cent. Manufactures ready for consumption formed 23.2 per cent of total imports in 1890, 23.2 per cent in 1900, and 23.8 per cent in 1910. Manufactures exported in condition ready for consumption formed in 1890, 15.7 per cent of the total domestic exports; in 1900, 24.2 per cent, and in 1910, 29.2 per cent. While manufactures for further use in manufacturing formed in 1900, 5.5 per cent; in 1909, 11.2 per cent; and in 1910, 15.7 per cent; foodstuffs in the meantime showing a material decline.

YOUNG BURGLARSKEPT DIARY OF THEIR ADVENTURES SINCE JUNE 17

BOSTON, June 23.—Two youthful marauders from Lowell, N. H., who kept a diary of their adventures from June 17 to the time of their arraignment in the Newton court yesterday, were arrested by Patrolman Joseph H. Beaver yesterday morning in the rear of Taylor's block, Auburndale. They admitted that they were about to enter a store and give the name of Dr. Williams and Murray A. Dicks, and their ages as 16 years. They had a glass cutter, six millage books containing coupons for 1000 miles and a lot of 32-cal. three revolver cartridges and shotgun shells.

When locked up they admitted that they had stolen the millage books from the railroad station at Glendale, N. Y., April 22. They said they had destroyed several millage books and pawned others.

Yesterday's diary entry reads: "Two of us pinched last night. I told them everything. Here's where we got ours."

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 22.—The first public statement of President Taft relating to the Standard Oil and tobacco trust decisions was made at the Yale alumni annual luncheon here during the commencement exercises.

GOOD ADVICE ABOUT ECZEMA

Eczema is so common and so many people suffer from it in one form or another that in medical circles the advice is sometimes jokingly given, to call every doubtful skin eruption eczema. This is really not bad advice, for if the eczema treatment fails, then the disease is plainly something else. A good plan, whenever there is an eruption, is to apply Cadum. If there is itching, Cadum will stop it, and the sore places will heal. In other forms of skin diseases, such as redness, pimples, blotches, rash, roughness, scaly skin, chafings, acne, sores, ulcers, eruptions, hives, tetter, itch, herpes, psoriasis, ringworm, itching piles, etc., Cadum will also be found highly beneficial. By all means try this remarkable remedy, and satisfy yourself as to whether your trouble is eczema or something else. Trial box 10c.

After declaring it had fallen to his lot to appoint five supreme court justices, a larger number than any of his predecessors had named, Mr. Taft stated that the anti-trust decisions provided a standard which all business men could follow. "The court has said," the president further stated, "that that statute applies to conspiracies and attempts to restrain trade which are undue or unreasonable because their intent and effect are partly or wholly to monopolize, to exclude or suppress competition and to control prices, and not to combinations or associations in the normal development of business where there may be some incidental restraint that was not the object of the combination or the association. Therefore, it becomes largely a question of their future action." The accompanying photo shows President Taft walking to Woolsey hall, where the degrees were conferred on a total of almost a thousand students and distinguished men. On either side of Mr. Taft are ex-President Dwight of Yale and President Hadley of Yale.

DIRECT SENTENCES TODAY'S STOCK MARKET LOWELL MEN RETURN

Several Were Imposed in the Police Court Today

This morning's session of the police court was a rather lengthy one, owing to the number of offenders who appeared before Judge Hadley.

Beerfest Party

The five men and two women who were gathered in at the beerfest in Davidson street yesterday afternoon were charged with drunkenness. Two of the men pleaded not guilty. Joseph E. Mayo, who was well known to the police, admitted his guilt and he will spend the next three months at the bastille in Thordike street. Edward Paquette who later gave his name as Exillious Paquette will be located there for four months. Peter P. Chevenet pleaded guilty and the nominal fine of $2 was imposed.

Christos Melanos and Peter Katsam denied that they were under the influence of liquor, but after Patrolmen Lennon and O'Connell testified as to their condition and what they saw in the house both were found guilty and fined $3 each. The arresting officers said that their attention was attracted to the house by men "rushing the car" and later by the noise that emanated from the house. When they visited the house they found the defendants in different rooms and there were two gallons of beer on the premises. They allowed the beer to remain there, but gathered in the members of the party. Josephine Hurd, one of the members of the party, was sent to the state farm. Mary Riley, who gave the name of Connell in court this morning, was a new offender and she was fined $2.

Case Continued

George C. Baron was charged with being a common drunkard. He entered a plea of not guilty and his case was continued until tomorrow morning.

Unusual Charge

Mary Fitzpatrick was charged with being a common raider and brawler. She denied that she was guilty of the offense. The case was a long drawn out affair and apparently was a neighborhood row. According to the testimony offered the Fitzpatrick woman lives at 3 Irving street and the complaint was made by people who habitually frequent the front steps of a tenement at 51 Chambers street.

Among those sworn for the government were Ellen Moran, Lillian Williams, her husband, Jas. J. Farrell, and Mrs. Moran. The gist of their testimony was to the effect that the defendant was in the habit of annoying them.

Judge Hadley advised the woman not to bother her neighbors.

Assaulting an Officer

Philip Letourneau, charged with drunkenness and assaulting a police officer, appeared in court this morning but by agreement the case was continued until July 2d.

Milk Below Standard

Geremie Champagne, charged with having in his possession milk below the standard, was given a hearing, after which he was found guilty and a fine of $15 was imposed. According to the testimony of Milk Inspector Master the law requires 12.15 per cent. solids and 3.35 per cent. butter fat, while an analysis of the milk found on Mr. Champagne's wagon contained but 11.44 per cent. solids and 3.20 per cent. butter fat. He was fined $15.

Drunken Offenders

Joseph H. McBride pleaded guilty to being drunk and was sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory. He entered an appeal. Joseph Lamontagne will spend the next four months in jail. William J. Kelly, Thomas Lindsay and Edward Parsons were in for the second time and just for that each was ordered to pay a fine of $5.

Without a Home

George M. Wilson was charged with being a vagrant. He walked into the police station last night stating that he was tired and footsore and had no place to sleep. When arraigned in court this morning Judge Hadley asked him if he had a home and he replied in the negative.

"Where is your country?" asked the court.

"United States of America," was the quick answer.

"I will give you a temporary home," said the judge. "You can go to Bridge-water."

Stole a Bicycle

John Kusowick pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with larceny of a bicycle owned by Shaduck & Normandin company on June 19th. The testimony offered tended to show that Louis Mercher, an employee of the company, was given the use of the bicycle and on last Monday night upon returning to the store left the wheel outside the door. A few minutes later when he went to look for the bicycle he found that it was missing. He reported the matter to the police and as a result of their efforts Inspector Lafamme of the criminal bureau located the man and the bicycle in Manchester, N. H., yesterday afternoon. It appears that the defendant tried to dispose of the machine in Manchester yesterday and aroused the suspicions of the police of the Queen City, who subsequently notified the local police.

No defense was offered and Kusowick was found guilty and sentenced to five months in the house of correction in Cambridge.

WUXTRY! HERE'S WHERE BENJAMIN GETS "CANNED" FOR SURE, FELLERS!

A LUCKY HOME RUN

Saved Day for Lowell
at New Bedford

Sensational fielding on the part of New Bedford prevented Lowell winning yesterday's game at New Bedford. On account of the chaos in town the game was not called until 4 o'clock and was called on account of darkness in the 10th inning by Umpire Walsh, with the score 2 to 2. Lowell made 11 hits but scored only two runs. Jimmie Magee saved the day by a home run that ordinarily would have been a three bagger. Jimmie knocked the ball to deep left field and it rolled under a horse's hoofs. The fielder was afraid to take chances with the animal and by the time that the ball had been recovered Jimmie was at home. The score:

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—Now that the old Cub infield has been broken up the Athletics can boast of the best in the game today.

DIAMOND NOTES

At Brockton today.

It would finally appear that we lost that game on Memorial day morning.

Jimmie Magee got a home run in New Bedford yesterday by knocking the ball under a horse's hoofs in left field, the fielder being afraid to go under after it while Jimmie circled the bases. It reminds us of the home run that Little Jean Baptiste Girard once knocked in a game at Nashua. Little J. B. was playing short stop for Nashua against Manchester, their hated rivals. Among the spectators was Philorum Trudeau, a great admirer of Jean Baptiste, who drove to the grounds in his job wagon and took up position in deep right field where he rooted lustily for the home team. In the ninth inning with the score 2 to 2 Little Jean Baptiste came to bat and swinging the yellow hard on the sphere hit it a resounding thump that sent it high into the air in the direction of right field. It dropped squarely into the bottom of Philorum's job wagon and Phil not waiting to get the reins gave the horse a full strength kick in the hindquarters and the animal made a line for the gate with Philorum yelling, "Whoa! Sacre!" and several other things more or less expressive and inelegant followed by two fielders, the ground-keeper and a couple of police officers. By the time that Philorum had stepped the animal Jean Baptiste had long since touched home base and won the game. Of course it was all an accident, but after the game when Jean Baptiste and Philorum got together down town Phil said: "Dat home run, she's a good wan, Baptiste." "Oul, Philorum, and dat boss you got, she's pretty fast, I guess. Salut, Philorum."

"Bonne Sante, Baptiste."

Fred Tyler, catcher of the St. Anselm's college baseball team this season, has signed with the Lynn team of the New England league and will report for duty tomorrow. Tyler is a brother of the Boston National pitcher who formerly played with Lowell.

There's many a man who knocks an umpire who can't knock a base hit.

About the only time that the New Bedforders have looked like champions this year was on Wednesday when they beat Lowell 3 to 2.

All one can hear these nights at the South Common is a discussion of the blood game between the Palmers and the South Ends, the rival semi-professional teams of that playground. For the championship which will be pulled off at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. A side bet of $50 has been put up and there is much individual betting on the result. No admission is charged and the game is free to all.

With the leading position in the list, the leading batter of the league and the two leading run getters, Lowell is strong on leads.

One of the severe penalties of fame is to have verses written in your honor but who fails to come up to the 33 mark as a verifier. A correspondent has sent us an 11 stanza edition entitled the "Lowell Base Ball Team" with the earnest request that we publish it. Here are a few verses:

We have a baseball club
Of which we should be proud.
So let your praises ring
Triumphantly and loud.
There's Wright, our first baseman,
Who works every minute,
His heart's in the game,
And he helps us to win it.

The next nine verses as just as good as the first, and the 11th or final stanza, or rather stanza is as follows:

Come and see them for yourselves,
I'm sure you will agree
We'd like to have them stay
Till Nineteen Twenty-three.
Now, where are all the girls?
Why don't they come, too?
The grandstand looks so lonely
When there are just a few.

Watson, Watson, hasten with the need!

THE ATHLETIC INFILDE

Is Considered the Best in the Game Today

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—Now that the old Cub infield has been broken up the Athletics can boast of the best in the game today.

greatest quartet in baseball today. Although Chance was and still is a better first sacker than Harry Davis, man for man the Athletics excel in the other positions. Where and how does the Athletic infield surpass all others of the American and National leagues? The answer: There are no three infielders or any other team who combine natural ability with baseball intelligence as do Collins, Barry and Baker. These three players go through game after game without playing a single ball on the wrong bound, and they are fast and have good arms. There never was an infield trio that played a ball that bounds or "hops" and grass cutters better than Collins, Barry and Baker, and it is doubtful if any three players on one team ever played these balls as well.

LYNN GETS THE GAME

League Reverses Murman's Decision

BOSTON, June 23.—The decision of President Murman of the New England baseball league throwing out the game played at Lowell on Memorial day morning was reversed last night at a meeting of the league in Boston, and the game was awarded to Lynn.

Evidence which had not been submitted to the president led the league to change the decision, according to the following statement given out by Secretary Jacob L. Morse:

"The board of directors finds that an agreement was entered into by the Lowell and Lynn clubs to cease playing at 12 o'clock. However, the board is of the opinion that both clubs were negligent in not seeing that the umpire announced this agreement to the spectators. In justice to the president it appears that on the evidence submitted to him he was justified in making the decision which was promulgated. In view of the evidence submitted to the board, which was not brought to the attention of the president, the board decides that the game be awarded to Lynn."

It was announced that Umpire Rorty who served last year will rejoin the staff of umpires on Monday next.

The game scheduled to be played between Haverhill and Lawrence at Haverhill on Saturday, June 24, will be played at Lawrence and the game scheduled to be played at Lawrence on July 29 will be played at Haverhill.

Frank Klaus is Anxious to Meet the "Cyclone"

PITTSBURG, June 23.—Frank Klaus, the hard hitting middleweight of this city and claimant of the title held by the late Stanley Ketchel, is now hot-

foot after a match with little "Cyclone" Johnny Thompson or Billy Papke. Klaus believes that victories over these two would entitle him to the world's championship. Frank says he has beaten every other middleweight in the country, and thinks he would experience little difficulty in disposing of Thompson and Papke.

MCDONOUGH'S BOUT

But Glover Should Have Had a Draw

The bouts at the Lowell Social and Athletic club last evening were the best ever seen here and equaled anything ever given at the Armory club. The only disappointment was the referee's decision in the final bout which was in favor of McDonough, though a prettier draw was never boxed. The contestants were Johnnie Glover of South Boston and Young McDonough of Manchester, a clever and evenly matched pair, who kept busy from bell to bell from the first to the final round. The first half of the affair was considerably in favor of Glover, who was bristling all over with confidence and whose fine work led many to believe that he would put McDonough away. But they reckoned without Mac, who after the sixth round began to come fast, and the two last rounds found him showing an advantage over Glover. It was no case of one man doing the leading or forcing, both went into each other at all times and with coolness and cleverness throughout. Not once did either get wild and no two topnotchers ever used more skill. As one would say of a good baseball pitcher, they had everything and used it.

In the semi-final Charles Anagnostos, the Greek boxer, put it over Joe Moriarty for eight rounds and earned the decision. For some unknown reason, Moriarty attempted to get by with the use of only one hand, keeping his right in repose throughout. Anyone who desires to get by with Anagnostos needs

BOSTON, June 23.—After lying nearly nine hours, pinioned down by a heavy piece of stone, weighing nearly 50 pounds and within a few feet from the edge of the roof of the five-story brick building at 109 East Camden street, Mary Long, 3½ years, was found by her father, who had been searching for her all afternoon, and as a last resort went up on the roof to see if she might possibly be up there. Although the stone fell upon the police of the East Dedham street station about 7 last evening, and a description of the child was sent throughout the city. Other families in the same house with the Longs, which is one of many apartments, told Mrs. Long that they had seen the child shortly before noon in the hallway hunting for her mother.

The big house was searched from the cellar to the attic. The entire neighborhood became aroused and all joined in the hunt, but nothing could be learned of the baby girl.

The child's mother and father were frantic. About 7:20 last evening, Mr. Long said he would again look all over the building. This time after he had searched through every tenement, under beds, in closets and every other conceivable place where the child might be secreted, he climbed the ladder to the roof where there is a small clothes dryer. Near the edge of the roof the father discovered the child cuddled up. A large piece of stone held the baby's left leg. Mr. Long thought she was dead.

Before the father could stoop to lift up the heavy stone the child opened her eyes and smilingly threw her arms out to greet him.

The stone was lifted and the baby was carried downstairs to the fourth floor. She was uninjured save for a bad bruise on the leg where the stone had fallen.

The child said that she had come upstairs for her dinner about noon and, finding the door locked, had started a search for her mother. She went up on the roof, thinking she might find her there, and while up there she stumbled against a stone, which had been up there many years, and it fell upon her leg. She could not move and after a time had fallen asleep. She was asleep when her father found her.

WOMAN LOST $9000

Her Traveling Bag Given Out By Mistake

NEW YORK, June 23.—Aided by many officials of the Pennsylvania railroad, Mrs. Mary E. White of 235 Fletcher street, Chicago, was busy yesterday trying to find a traveling bag containing the ashes of her husband and a bankbook calling for $9000.

The bag is said to have been given out by mistake from the parcel room in the Pittsburg station the preceding evening. It was brought to this city by a machinist, returned to the Pennsylvania station, located by telephone and shipped back to Pittsburg during the day.

Frank Cheske, a special agent for the National Metal Trades association, who has an office at 120 Liberty street, was visited early in the morning by a man who said he had been working in the Pennsylvania railroad shops at Pittsburg and had come to get work in New York.

"I would like to go to work at once," he said, "but I have no tools. The wrong handbag was handed to me at Pittsburg. It looks like mine, but I certainly never saw the contents before."

At the suggestion of Mr. Cheske he opened the bag. Inside were found the bankbook, a tin box with the seal of the Graceland Crematory of Chicago, and a coffin plate inscribed "George S. White." There were paystub papers, showing Mr. White to have been a veteran, a bundle of letters to Mrs. Mary E. White, their marriage certificate, dated 1872, a quantity of feminine wearing apparel and two lemons.

Mr. Cheske decided to hold the bag, and to notify the Pennsylvania railroad. When the machinist saw that Mr. Cheske took the matter seriously he left hurriedly, without giving his name.

A representative of the railroad came to Mr. Cheske's office in response to his telephone call. He took an inventory of the contents of the bag, which was later taken to the station.

At the Pennsylvania station it was stated that an inquiry for the bag had been received by telegram from Pittsburg, and that it had been shipped back there. No one knew what had become of the machinist's tools.

Mrs. Youngwife—"Oh, Lovey, he's spilled that coffee on himself. That's the twenty-eighth little frock he's just ruined. Those stains don't come out."

Anty Drudge—"Oh, yes, they will, Mrs. Youngwife. Just you use Fels-Naptha in cool or lukewarm water, and you'll have no trouble in keeping little Napoleon's frocks clean and white."

A friend that will save you three-fourths the work and all the drudgery of washing is a friend indeed.

Fels-Naptha is that friend.

Bring it into your laundry and kitchen, give it a chance to do the work you've been pounding out by main strength, and Fels-Naptha will be your close friend—not for a month or a year, but for life.

Fels-Naptha saves you not only work and time, both summer and winter, but makes your clothes sweeter and cleaner, preserves them, makes them wear longer.

It saves you the coal or gas necessary to heat water and boil the clothes, as Fels-Naptha does its cleansing in cool or lukewarm water.

All that's necessary on your part is to follow the easy directions printed on the red and green wrapper.

THE SUPREME COURT THE TEACHERS' BILL

Hands Down Decision in the Friebe Case Was Put Through the House Once More

BOSTON, June 23.—Under a decision of the full bench of the supreme court yesterday, a gift of $100,000 registered Massachusetts bonds, made by Mrs. Annie Preston Lincoln of this city with the State street trust company in trust for the benefit of Edward Friebe and his wife, Abby E. Friebe, and on her death to become the absolute property of the Friebe family, was held liable to a collateral inheritance tax of 5 per cent.

The gift was made by Mrs. Lincoln in consideration of Mr. Friebe giving up a lucrative position with an importing company in this city in order to enter her service with his wife, reside with her and care for her until her death. She died four months after making the gift.

Judge Grant in the probate court erroneously decided that the transfer of the bonds was a purchase in good faith for a full consideration in money or money's worth and were exempted from taxation by the inheritance tax statute of 1902, chapter 490, says the full bench.

The court declares that an attempt to evade the inheritance tax statute which may be manifested on the trust instrument itself or from the circumstances disclosed attending it would not make the transfer of property bona fide.

CHILD WAS ALIVE

LITTLE ONE MOVED AFTER BEING PLACED IN CASKET

MANCHESTER, June 23.—After being dead, as doctor, nurse and undertaker supposed, Phyllis Ledora Gleason, the three-month-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Philip R. Gleason of 445 Lowell street showed signs of life in her casket, and after lingering for a few hours died at 4 p. m. yesterday.

The body was prepared for burial and placed in a small white casket. Late the mother came into the room and cried over the casket. A faint movement of the right arm frightened her. She screamed and Mr. Gleason rushed from another room. The mother explained that the infant had suffered. A physician was called and hot cloths were applied to restore active life. Life flickered in the little body for a few hours before the child died.

YOUTH-TIME

'Tis the summer time;
The children are out
Roaming the fields
And the woods about.

The hunt for blossoms
On hill and in dale;
They enjoy the breeze
And the stronger gale.

If a shower comes
They laugh and run
To some shelter near—
Enjoying the fun.

'Tis all the same,
Be it cloudy or clear,
Be it windy or still,
To the children dear.

For they love Nature's moods,
For tear and her smile,
With which the old earth
She does over beguile.

FOUND NOT GUILTY

Di Maio Was Tried on Charge of Murder

BOSTON, June 23.—Giuseppe Di Maio of Newton was found not guilty of the murder of Antonio DePhillippo of Newton Nov. 27 by a jury last night in the superior court of East Cambridge before Judge Hardy and was discharged. The jury took the case at 10.08 a. m. and an agreement was not reached until 5.53 o'clock last night, more than 19 hours being taken up in consideration of the evidence.

Di Maio was overcome by the verdict and cried like a child. When his effects were handed to him he searched over the articles, picked up a tintype photograph of his baby boy, who is in Italy and kissed it repeatedly. When the verdict was announced by the foreman Di Maio waved his hand to the jury and thanked them in broken English. He went to the home of friends in Boston.

DePhillippo, for whose death Di Maio was tried was the victim of a cutting affray. Di Maio admitted cutting him with a razor but claimed he did so in self-defense, having no intention of killing him.

The fight over the bill, strenuous and sensational as it was, was only a single feature in the house session yesterday. But it was fought out while Tomassney was smoldering under defeat of his resolution regarding the treatment of Americans in Russia.

CITY OF LAWRENCE

SAID TO HAVE BEEN PAID $50,000 IN ADVANCE

LAWRENCE, June 23.—Alderman Scanlon went to the city treasury yesterday and demanded permission to inspect the books. As a result he said that the American Woolen company had advanced the city $50,000 on its tax levy for the current year. It is supposed that Mayor Cahill and City Treasurer Kelleher received this Wednesday when they went to Boston. This will enable the payment of the tax-roll for this week. Alderman Scanlon declared that this was only temporary relief and thereby postponing the inevitable.

"That $50,000 has already been borrowed and spent," he said. "It should not be paid until October and then to meet the notes which fall due at that time for the money which has been borrowed since the first of the year in anticipation of taxes. In October we will have to raise money somewhere to meet these notes and the legislature will not be in session."

STRONG ARGUMENT FOR THE CHARTER

The news which the Lowell delegates to the Plumbers' national convention at Galveston, Texas, bring to Lowell constitutes a strong argument for the commission form of government. Galveston has risen phoenix-like from its ruins and now has a cement wall to guard it from destruction in the future, while the public buildings and streets have been rebuilt all at a higher elevation than before, the whole forming an achievement that reflects credit upon their form of government. The tax rate in face of all is but $12 per $1000 and the bonded debt of the city is less than before the flood.

REPUBLICANS LOSE CONTROL OF U. S. SENATE

The United States senate has broken away from its old time moorings. The insurgents have lined up with the democrats and have voted for the wool bill that reduces the heavy tax on imported wools. The old line republicans want to link this bill with the reciprocity measure in order to defeat the latter if possible, but it is not expected that they will be able to carry their point. The democratic senators claim they have enough votes to carry reciprocity in spite of all opposition. This break in the senate will probably open the way to a general revision of the tariff.

BRISTOW AMENDMENT REJECTED

As might be expected the national house has rejected the Bristow amendment which the senate attached to its vote for the popular election of senators. The effect of this amendment would be to give the senate control of the election of senators in the various states. In the first place this amendment would seem to be an unwarranted interference with the rights of the states. It remains now to be seen whether the senate will concur with the house in dropping this proviso, and still retaining its position in regard to having the constitution amended so as to allow the election of senators by the people.

THE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM

The proposition to amend the constitution of Massachusetts in order to provide for the initiative and referendum is one that should receive the most serious attention of every citizen.

Heretofore there has been no legal method by which the voters could hold up any constitutional law once it had been enacted by the legislature. Through the referendum the citizens can exercise a veto power upon any law passed by the legislature provided they can secure the necessary number of signatures to the petition and a majority of the voters on the final test. For the first time a committee of the legislature has reported in favor of a resolve for the initiative and referendum in this state. Governor Foss in his inaugural address strongly favored the initiative and referendum, and this resolve for an amendment to the constitution to permit of the application of these principles, is in line with his suggestions. This change if adopted, would place Massachusetts among the states in which the most radical methods of legislation are placed in the hands of the people.

DIVISION LINES ON NEW CHARTER

It is rather amusing to find that the line of demarcation on the new charter lies between the politicians and the mass of the voters. There is always a class, including the office holders, that is firmly opposed to any change in the organic law of the city. They have a fixed dread of any disturbance of the statu quo. They are afraid that it would be more difficult for them to secure office under the new order of things, but it has always been the fact that the politicians who triumph under one charter usually do so under another. The new charter will give us fewer officials, and it would center responsibility, so that if anything went wrong the people would know exactly whom to blame. Where there is a large number of members in the city council and where responsibility is scattered among these members and among the different departments, it is very difficult to remedy any abuse or any evil that comes up, because nobody in particular is responsible and it is very difficult to call the entire body to account.

The new charter is designed to simplify matters in this respect, and that is why it will be supported by the citizens who want to see better government. It is all nonsense to assume that the charter is favored only by those who expect to get elected to office under its provisions. Nobody can tell just who may be elected under the new charter. It all depends upon the voters who will have that matter entirely in charge. It not only gives them the power to nominate and elect the governing body, but it gives them the power also to recall any member of that body who proves recreant to his trust. It also gives them the power to initiate and veto legislation. It would be impossible to make the charter any more democratic than it really is. In this respect it gives the people absolute power to choose their officials and equal power to remove them after election if they fail to do their duty. The opponents of the charter are placing themselves in the position of trying to prevent these sweeping political powers being placed in the hands of the people.

SEEN AND HEARD

"John, did you take the note to Mr. Jones?"
"Yes, but I don't think he can read it."
"What's John?"
"Because he is blind, sir. While I was in the room he asked me twice where my hat was, and it was on my head all the time."

The "Prodigal Son" was the subject of the Sunday school lesson, and the teacher was dwelling on the character of the eldest brother.
"But amidst all the rejoicing," said the teacher, "there was one to whom the preparation of the feast brought no joy, to whom the prodigal's return gave no happiness, only bitterness; one who did not approve of the feast and had no wish to attend it. Now, who can tell me who this was?"
Silence for several moments; then a hand raised and a small, sympathetic voice:
"Please, ma'am, it was the fatted calf."

Veering trotted blithely to business. He had arisen at daylight and worked two hours at cleaning up the yard around his house. The thought of the pleasant surprise awaiting his wife brought forth a chuckle.
At luncheon Mrs. Veering remarked: "That man did his work remarkably well."
"What man?" gasped Veering.
"The man you engaged to clear away the rubbish in the yard. He was just finishing when I came down this morning and I gave him a dollar."—Metropolitan Magazine.

"No," says the eminent actress earnestly. "I cannot approve of the fashion that so many members of my profession have of being photographed continually."

The reporter makes some feverish notes and she continues:
"It seems to me that because one is on the stage is no reason why he or she should consider his or her face of absorbing interest to the public."
She continues for half a column and as the reporter is slowing away his notebook she smiles sweetly and says: "There is one of my latest photographs for you to use with the interview. I sat for it only yesterday, so you may be sure it has never before been produced." Judge.

"THE PLANS OF MICE AND MAIDS"
In telling this story I naturally pause for fear I'll go wide of my aim—It's of a young maiden, a Doctor of Laws.

Who held a diploma for same. She had all the arts of the calling down line. Especially the art of appeal; (She also had a shape that was simply divine. And eyes that would make a man steal.)

She had "Corporations" right down to their tips. "Proceedings," "Inheritance," too—She had "Jurisprudence" and "Wills" on her tips. And "Statutes" she had, not a few; She had "Constitutions" at work like a slave. While "Equity" ate from her hand. (She also had features that Venus might crave. And charms no male client could stand!)

She had firm convictions on woman, and how

The world has amended its plan—She had some idea the time is here now

To shake off the shackles of man; She had a fond hope to be able and free Of all of the masculine tribe. (She also had grace such as seldom we see. And hair that no words can describe.)

Alas! for the plans of this Doctor of Laws.

And all of her knowledge, at set. For Cupid stepped in, as he usually does.

And Cupid is old-fashioned yet! He "hummed" and he "lawed" and looked over his specs. And overlooked knowledge and plan—

He saw but the grace and the charms of her sex. And married her off to a man! —Buffalo News.

THE OLD BRIDGE

On the old, old bridge, with its crumbling stones. All covered with lichens red and gray. Two lovers were talking in sweet low tones: And we were they!

As he leaned to breathe in her willing ear The love that he vowed would never die. He called her his darling, his dove most dear: And he was I!

She covered her face from the pale moonlight With her trembling hands, but her eyes looked through. And listened and listened with long delight: And she was you!

On the old, old bridge, where the lichens rust. Two lovers are learning the same old lore: He tells his love, and she looks her trust: But we—no more! —Henry Van Dyke.

SUES COMPANY

BARRY SAYS THAT "AGENT" GOT HIS $800

BOSTON, June 23.—As a result of the action of an alleged agent of an insurance company William J. Barry is wondering if he will have to stand a loss of $800. He has brought action in the supreme court against the Mutual Life Insurance company, asking for the surrender of a policy for $500 and the cancellation of an application for a loan of $500 on the policy.
He applied to the company May 1 for the loan under the terms of the policy for nine months at 5 per cent, payable in advance. To secure the loan he gave up his policy as collateral to the company. Later a man representing himself to be an agent of the company is said to have handed him an instrument which he represented was a draft for $750, the amount due Barry after deducting the interest charge.
The agent told Barry to sign the draft, assuring him that he would return with the money, Barry says. Barry placed his signature on the paper. It turned out that the instrument was a check for the $750 and his signature was an endorsement.
Barry waited for the money from the insurance company, but it never came. Investigation disclosed, he avers, that the man who had Barry sign the check cashed it.
Barry asked the company to make good the amount, but it refused to do so. If the man was an agent of the company a question arises whether the company was liable for his act. The company claims Barry received his check and if he yielded to the sugges-

A GRAND PAGEANT

King and Queen Escorted Through Streets of London

LONDON, June 23.—King George and Queen Mary today showed themselves to the masses as distinct from the more favored classes who were able to obtain access to the circumscribed area of yesterday's pageant.

Today's procession was on an even grander scale than that of the coronation. The route was more extended, including a circuit of some of the most populous districts of the capital and the crowds that looked on were correspondingly greater. Then, too, their majesties were accompanied by larger escorts. The scenes along the route were to a great extent a repetition of those of yesterday with much greater crowds of spectators. The procession began to form in the yard of Buckingham palace and the adjacent streets at 9 o'clock and two hours later it was under way. Between lines of cheering thousands the royal party made stately progress from Buckingham palace by way of Constitution hill, Piccadilly, Trafalgar square, through the city, over London bridge by Borough road and Westminster bridge, thus making a complete circuit.

The pageant included four full squadrons of cavalry, representing all branches of that arm of the service, light guards, dragoons, hussars, and hussars, each accompanied by its own band and a section of horse artillery.

These were followed by all the naval and military aides de camp on duty on the war office staff, deputations of foreign officers, the royal suite, the members of the royal family and the foreign princes and the colonial and Indian escorts who immediately preceded the state carriage.

In the royal equipage with the king and queen rode Field Marshal Kitchener and the bearer of the royal standard.

A Grand Welcome

The royal escort brought up the rear. Seats for many thousands had been erected along the route and the progress of the king and queen was indeed a royal one. Everywhere they received an unreserved welcome from the visitors in the hotels, from the stands of Piccadilly, Trafalgar square and the Strand, the business men of London proper who had brought their families to the city for this day, and again from their majesties' humble subjects south of the river. The decorations of yesterday remained in Piccadilly and those in the other streets traversed were not less spectacular. In the Strand there were rows of masts each bearing a red lion and underneath a red velvet canopy with the lion rampant in the center. Colored festoons ran from mast to mast. Down Fleet street to Ludgate church there were alternately Venetian masts and crossbars and pillar masts, the Venetian masts surmounted by an angel or a figure of flame with her trumpet, and the pillar masts supported the British lion and unicorn. The masts were connected by festoons of greenery.

Somewhat similar decorations had been made in the other streets of the city, while across the entrance to the London bridge a triumphal arch had been erected. South of the river every house had a piece of bunting flying.

Brilliant Cavalcade

Except for the absence of the gold coach the cavalcade was more brilliant than that of yesterday and the stands along the route certainly made a brighter appearance. These of Constitution hill overlooking the palace garden were filled with uniformed officers from every part of the world who had come to London to honor Britain's king with their daintily dressed ladies.

On one stand were royal and other representatives of foreign states. In another were military officers attached to the suites of these foreign natives and in the front row of still another stand were naval officers from the international ships at Spithead, including Captain Dore of the American battleship Delaware and his officers. These naval visitors were attended by officers of the British navy and the naval attachés of the foreign missions and embassies.

St. George's hospital, opposite Constitution hill, and the hospitals around Hyde Park corner and Piccadilly, were hidden by stands occupied by a body of uniformed nurses side by side with men and women who had paid a day's leave from their service.

The windows of Stratton house and seats on the roof were occupied by guests of Special American Ambassador Hammond. These included the Duchess of Argyll, the special ambassador's staff in full uniform, members of the American embassy and many American women.

The only morning was none too pleasant so far as the weather was concerned. The sky was overcast and drizzling showers kept the spectators in doubt whether it would be necessary to raise their umbrellas.

However, there were no heavy showers as in the early hours yesterday and those taking part in the procession drove in open carriages, thus adding interest to the pageant.

Exactly at the appointed hour the colonial and Indian contingents which were to lead the way over the seven mile route formed on Victoria embankment and proceeded up the Mall, past Buckingham palace to Constitution hill and Hyde Park corner. It was a wonderful display of soldiery that preceded the carriages, exhibiting all the cavalry uniforms of the empire.

Escorted By Canadians

A contingent of Canadians escorted the first carriage, occupied by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, premier of Canada, and Premier Fisher of Australia. This was followed by other carriages carrying Premier Morris of New Zealand, Premier Botha of the Union of South Africa, Premier Ward of New Zealand, and governors and commissioners of smaller colonies, each escorted by troops from their respective countries.

They were followed by the ever-popular troopers—the Northwest mounted police and an African force organized on similar lines.

The Colonials, in royal carriages and wearing uniforms and decorations, came next and were cheered all along the line and with especial vigor when they passed the stands occupied by fellow colonials.

For picturesque the Indian section, next in line, could not be excelled anywhere in the world. The Indian cavalry, in the most gorgeous silken uniforms and turbans, wearing medals won on the field of battle, preceded the carriages in which were the ruling Indian princes and potentates. The latter were fairly weighed down with jewels of enormous value. Their costumes, including turbans and tunics, were of every imaginable hue. They received a hearty reception.

Although enjoying the spectacle as Londoners always do, the people were today to see their majesties and when a salute was fired by a battery in Hyde park announced that the king and queen had left the palace, there was a rush on the part of those who had not already obtained places to points from which they might get a glimpse of the Imperial ones.

The Royal Procession

The royal procession was made up much as on yesterday, though somewhat longer, as it included many who before were in attendance at Westminster abbey.

In advance was a long line of troops and other military forces, British and Indian, brilliantly uniformed, and drizzling rain fell as the royal carriages, drawn by eight cream colored steeds, slowly came up Constitution hill, but it did not dampen the enthusiasm of the crowds who were there to give the sovereigns their first welcome since coronation day.

The king wore a field marshal's uniform with a sash of the Order of the Garter.

The Queen's Gown

The queen was dressed in white and wore a blue sash of the Order of the Garter. Her hat was trimmed with ostrich feathers in two shades of blue. From end to end of the route their majesties received a notably spontaneous and loyal welcome.

Following the sovereigns was a carriage containing the Duke of Cornwall and his daughters, princesses, and officers of state, including the Earl of Granard, the Duke of Norfolk and military attaches, among them Major Slocum of the American embassy.

The procession stopped at Waterloo place to receive an address from the council of Westminster city and at other points to accept addresses from local civic bodies.

Winston Spencer Churchill, as home secretary, attended these ceremonies, accepting the address for the king and delivering to the people the reply which he was to make.

At Temple Bar the lord mayor of London, alderman and the lord mayor, on behalf of his majesty, received the royal party and upon their arrival, rendered to the king the city's pearl sword. His majesty simply touched the hilt as a sign of his acceptance, the lord mayor then receiving back the sword, as lord mayors have done for many years. The lord mayor then remounted and with the sheriffs joined the procession, continuing with it until it reached the city boundary at London bridge.

As the sovereigns passed through the center of the city millions of lights arranged for illuminations simultaneously were turned on and the great crowd about the royal exchange redoubled their cheers.

On the other side of London bridge the king was in one of his many home districts or rather his former home, for here is the Duke of Cornwall, he was the largest ground landlord.

In their address the southern boroughs referred to the improvements which the king had made in the buildings of the estate, which is occupied by the poorer classes.

USED A BLACKJACK

Robber Attacked Aged Man at Saco, Maine

SACO, Me., June 23.—While Bennett S. Lougee, aged about 72, proprietor of a boot and shoe store and cobbling shop at 123 Main street, was working at his bench in the rear of his shop late yesterday afternoon a man crept into the place and struck Mr. Lougee two blows over the back of his head, probably with a blackjack.

The blows brought Mr. Lougee to his knees, but he recovered himself and started toward his assailant, who turned and fled. As he jumped from the door and started in the direction of Biddeford he slipped, and his weapon struck the big plate glass window in the front of the store, shattering it.

The man ran around the corner and disappeared down York hill before Mr. Lougee could give the alarm, though the store is in the busiest part of the city and many shoppers were passing at the time. Though they saw the man running, they made no attempt to stop him.

The police of both cities were notified and a posse of officers started in pursuit. Marshal Coughlin and several armed men went down the river late this afternoon in a power boat, it having been reported that shortly after the attempted robbery two men were seen pulling down the river in a dory. One of the men answered the description given by Mr. Lougee, who says his assailant was tall and slim. Mr. Lougee said that he never saw him before.

Mr. Lougee's head was cut open by the blows and he was dazed for some minutes after the attack. It is supposed the man intended to knock Mr. Lougee down and then go through his pockets and rifle the cash drawer.

The assault on one of the oldest business men in the city in broad daylight in the heart of the business section caused considerable excitement and a number of citizens joined the officers in the search for the bandit.

The two masked men who held up E. H. Colthart a week ago have not been captured and some think that Mr. Lougee's assailant was one of these.

BOSTON MAN ELECTED

BOSTON, June 23.—Advises received today at the office of the chairman of the executive committee of the International Sunday School association, in this city, telling of the election of William H. Harnish of Boston to the presidency of the association, showed that the action of the Sunday school convention was unanimous. Mr. Harnish, in addition to being elected president, was also honored by being made a life member of the international executive committee of the association.

MORIARTY WON

THE RECIPROCITY BILL

Democrats and Insurgents Think That Measure Will Pass

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Chairman Perce of the senate committee on finance said today that the Canadian reciprocity bill would not fail by reason of the coalition between insurgent republicans and democrats which placed the regular republicans in the minority. Speaking of that coalition, he said:

"It is a rope of sand and it will not hold. The performance of the insurgents and democrats on Wednesday was effective for the time, but the difference between the two elements are so radical that the combination will not continue and if the purpose of it was to defeat Canadian reciprocity it will fail."

"With the tariff question dumped into the senate in connection with reciprocity delay is to be expected but in the end reciprocity will go through and it then will remain to be seen what shall be done with the tariff bills now before the senate and those yet to be presented."

The outlook in the senate is for a long and somewhat dreary period of debate. Under present conditions, with no party in control and no leadership recognized can say in advance what is going to happen. Even democrats and insurgents agree that the probabilities are heavily in favor of the passage of the bill and a majority of the democrats are now unquestionably opposed to any amendment of it. There is a possibility of agreeing upon the Lodge-Bristow-Columbus tariff amendments but in the face of the certainty that the president will take a positive position against all amendments it is extremely doubtful whether any rider can be placed upon the bill.

The success of Senator Gore's motion directing an early report on the tariff bills has had the effect of putting the senate on its guard against surprises and while senators are prepared for any similar motion at any time it is not probable that another question of the kind would be so readily disposed of. Still the senate would almost welcome any change from the dull level of the ordinary reciprocity debate. Under present conditions, with

BOSTON, June 23.—The Standard Cordage Co., a combination of rope plants in Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey and elsewhere, which has been in the hands of receivers for some time, will not be reorganized. This announcement was made today in the supreme court by counsel for the Equitable Trust Co. of New York, which, as trustee under a mortgage given by the Standard company, applied for authority to reduce the insurance on the Sewell Day mills to $300,000 and on the Pearson mills to $150,000. Both plants are closed. The court will give its decision later.

TO PURCHASE LIBRARY

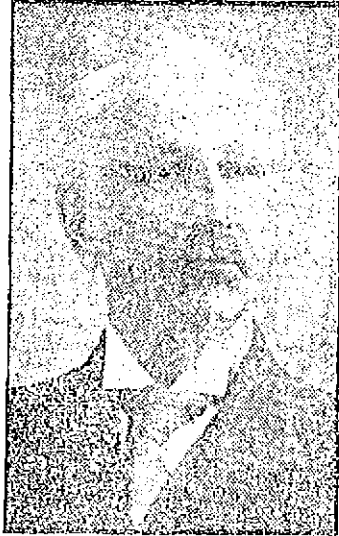

Big Lawn Fete Held by Union St. Jean Baptiste

The lawn party held last night under the auspices of J. N. Jacques, council, U. S. J. B. C. A., on the grounds adjoining the residence of Mr. Pierre A. Brousseau in Exeter street, proved to be a real success in every way. The affair was given to raise funds for the purchase of the Mallet library at Woonsocket, R. I. This library was purchased some time ago by the Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amérique, but as the money was taken from the funds of the union, the insurance commissioners advised the officers of the society to sell the said library and return the money in the funds. The different councils of the union have decided to hold socials and with the proceeds, buy the said library and then return the latter to the union.

J. N. Jacques council took the initiative and held its first social last night. A large and select crowd was in attendance and a pleasant evening was spent despite the fact that the atmosphere was rather damp. Mr. Pierre A. Brousseau, president of District Council No. 5 presided over the festivities and the following speakers were heard with great interest: Mr. J. Ad

Caron, editor of "Le Tribune" of Woonsocket, R. I. J. A. Maquin, president of the district council of Manchester, N. H., Achille Proulx of Lawrence, Arthur Beauchamp of Lowell, and the Rev. Mrs. Barrette, O. M. I., of Notre Dame de Lourdes parish, J. N. Jacques and R. A. Fortier, pastor and curate of St. Louis church respectively.

A delightful musical and literary program was also in order, among those taking part being Mr. George Lebrun and Master J. Pilote, the former making a hit with his comic songs, while the latter greatly pleased the audience with his recitations. Refreshments were served and the affair came to a close with the singing of "O Canada" by the entire attendance. The lawn was illuminated with Chinese lanterns and red lights, and the house was beautifully decorated with flags and bunting of the national colors.

Mrs. Brousseau and daughter, Miss Della, assisted in receiving. The committee in charge was composed of the following: Albert Marcotte, Adolphe Beaudet, Elphège J. Beaudette, A. Desmarais, Henri Polier, Théodore Harland, D. Brousseau, A. Pilote, Amédée Caron and G. Rheault.

HAULING RAILROAD TIES FOR BIG BONFIRE ON STACKPOLE ST.

WE'LL HAVE THE BIGGEST ONE IN THE CITY

YOUNG AMERICA GATHERING MATERIAL FOR BIG BONFIRE ON STACKPOLE STREET ON THE NIGHT BEFORE

The big bonfire in Belvidere the night before the Fourth promises to be the greatest in the city. For a week past present and former members of the O. M. I. Cadets have been busy collecting material for the great blaze. The bonfire will be built on the bank of the Merrimack river in Stackpole street where thousands of people will be able to see it. Barrels, boxes, timbers and all kinds of fuel have been gathered up and carted to the scene by the boys, and the great blaze will be visible from any of the elevated sections of the city. It will be touched off at midnight and will be a feature in connection with the great out-door fete and midway to be held in Columbus park on that night. A feature will be the band concert to be given by the two bands that will be attractions at the fete and there will be singing by the boys who compose the sanctuary choir of the Immaculate Conception church, and also by the O. M. I. Cadets quartet. The idea of having a bonfire in Belvidere was originated by Rev. D. A. Sullivan several years ago and each night before the Fourth people from all sections crowd to the scene of the celebration.

MURDER CHARGED

Two Men Accused of Crime Committed Four Years Ago

BIDDEFORD, Me., June 22.—An important development which promised to clear up the mystery of the disappearance of Charles Weymouth, the brother of Charles Weymouth, who was last seen alive nearly four years ago, was the arrest of Joel Buzzel of Dayton and Olney Merrill of Gardiner and their arraignment here today on the charge of murder.

Mrs. Maude Snow, wife of Dr. Fred B. Snow, who at the May term of court pleaded guilty to committing a large number of burglaries in houses for several miles around Dayton, a large amount of house furnishings and other plunder being recovered from their home in Dayton, also was arrested on the charge of being an accessory to the alleged murder.

The arrests were made on the strength of very important information obtained from two persons whose names at first were withheld and who it was claimed were in the Snow home when Weymouth was beaten to death on Sept. 1, 1907, but were powerless to interfere.

Merrill was arrested at Pittsboro, near Gardiner, on a telephone request to the sheriff of Kennebec county from Sheriff Emery. Buzzel and Mrs. Snow were arrested by Sheriff Emery and Deputy McKoon and Watson. The victim was last seen at the Snow home about September of 1908, but while there were rumors of foul play the officers never have been able to obtain any definite clue until they curled the story from the two witnesses.

According to these witnesses, Weymouth was knocked over a desk with such force that the desk was broken and he was beaten so badly that he died before his assailants realized the extent of their assault. Then his body was placed in a box and when it was found to be too short his feet were doubled over and the body was jumped on until it had been crowded into the box. Then the box was carried down toward a brook, the location of which was described, and buried.

"Doctor" Snow was not present at any time, it was understood.

The witnesses, according to the officers, said that Weymouth was "sweet" on Mrs. Snow. He was calling at the house on the morning of his disappearance and Mrs. Snow was washing dishes when Weymouth saw Buzzel and Merrill approaching the house and exclaimed: "For God's sake, don't tell those men I am here. Where can I hide?" He found a hiding place in a room, but the men, who had entered the house, suspected he was there and searched him out, dragging him into the kitchen.

It was then that he was given an unmerciful beating, it is alleged.

The officers were so confident of recovering the body, which is necessary before a conviction can be secured, that they at once swore warrants for the arrests. The three were to be arraigned at Alfred this afternoon before Trial Justice Knight of Waterboro. Merrill was employed as a driver of an ice wagon at Gardiner. Buzzel is a farmer.

THE DRUGGISTS MEET

A Lowell Man Was Elected to Office

The 36th annual convention of the Massachusetts Pharmaceutical Association was held at the Hotel Pemberton at Pemberton June 20, 21, 22, and the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, Wm. A. Briley of Melrose; first vice president, Wm. Curran of Boston; second vice president, Frank J. Campbell of Lowell; third vice president, Wm. Harper of Great Barrington; secretary, James F. Guerin of Worcester; treasurer, Thos. B. Nichols of Salem; endorsed for board of pharmacy, Charles F. Ripley of Taunton, Wm. Martin of Springfield, and J. Dalton of Cambridge.

FRANK J. CAMPBELL

THE TRAIN SERVICE

Between Lowell and New York Excellent

The new train which starts in next week will be a great convenience for Lowell people who wish to go to New York, as it brings this city much nearer the metropolis, and the service is scheduled in a most convenient way. It will be possible to take a train at the Middlesex street station at 26 minutes past 11 in the forenoon, and go through without change to New York, reaching the Grand Central station at 5:35 in the evening. This train will be equipped with parlor cars and a dining car, which is taken on at South Lawrence, being in full operation when it reaches Lowell. The train arrives at Ayer at 11:54, at Worcester at 12:50, at Springfield at 2:10 and at New York, as before mentioned, at 5:35.

The schedule for returning to Lowell is also very convenient. One can leave the Grand Central station at 3 minutes past 9 in the forenoon, and reach Lowell without change at 3:23 in the afternoon. A dining car is taken on at Springfield at 12:25, and runs through to South Lawrence, so that Lowell people, during the summer season at least, will have an excellent train service with first class equipment between this city and New York.

Lowell travellers taking this train will avoid the bother of going to Boston, crossing the city and waiting for an express train from the south station, and what is more, it is not possible by any combination of trains to leave this city and get to New York by way of the south station in Boston as quickly as it can be done by using the new through train from Lowell to New York direct. The actual time between the two cities will be less than six and one-half hours, and it is believed when summer tourists and business men get well acquainted with the train it will be largely patronized. Indeed it may make a showing that will warrant the company in making it throughout the year. This train will also be a great accommodation for Lowell people who wish to go to Old Orchard, Portland or any of the other Maine resorts, as it will be possible to leave Lowell at 3:23 in the afternoon and arrive at Old Orchard 12 mins. past 3 in the evening, or any of the intervening stations like Wells, Kennebunkport, or Old Orchard, at a much earlier hour. It will also be possible to leave Portland at 3:35 in the morning and reach Lowell at 11:25 the same forenoon, touching at all the summer resorts at seasonable hours along the entire route. The service between this city and the seaside resorts of Maine and New Hampshire has heretofore been a very inferior, but this train should serve to stimulate travel to these popular resorts during the vacation season.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

WILLIAM PENN A PROMOTER

JUNE 23.—You have seen the picture of William Penn standing with a group of smiling Indians. It is a picture of William Penn making his celebrated treaty on which Mr. Red Eklid placed his "saw buck" and will soon complete the same by writing in "this mark." This was on June 23, 1682, and Penn thought the Indians were foolish. He had acquired the land covered by the treaty through a debt of $80,000 that Charles II. owed Penn's father. Penn inherited the claim and when he asked Charles to "cash" the latter said he was short on coin, but long on land in America. Penn took a deed of the land which was supposed to cover three degrees in latitude and five in longitude. He was also made governor of the land and could do about as he pleased without making any questions. But Penn wasn't that sort of a promoter so he went in from the start to make things pleasant. While a strict Quaker himself he made the laws which gave freedom of belief to all. But disputes arose about the boundary lines, his deputies were incapable or dishonest and Penn's vast fortune was almost wiped out in trying to pay claims that were incurred by faithless officials. He was contemplating selling all his rights in Pennsylvania to the crown when he was overtaken by death on July 30, 1718. He died in his 74th year.

GRAFT IS CHARGED

The Cry is Raised by the Mexican People

MEXICO CITY, June 23.—Far-reaching army scandals, involving former Minister of War Manuel Gonzalez Cosio and the purchasing agents of the Diaz government in Europe, together with practically every military officer in the federal army, were unearthed here yesterday by a petition signed by thousands of names asking immediate investigation of the condition of artillery and ammunition supply of the nation.

The charges claim that powder in rapid-fire cartridges and in cannon at Juarez, Torreon, Casas Grandes and Ojinaga was sawdust, colored black; that boxes supposed to contain cartridges contained sand, and that guns of one caliber with ammunition of another were sent to the field.

It is alleged that officials of the army from Cosio down knew all about the fraud and that gigantic fraud was behind all of it.

It also is charged that defective munitions came from Europe, particularly from Drummark, and that purchasing agents there participated in the graft.

Cosio, alleged mainly responsible, and close to Diaz, trusted minister of war, now is in Europe, but most other officers are here. Gen. Juan J. Navarro, who commanded at Juarez, substantiates the statements above given and has asked repeatedly to be allowed to testify at the court martial of himself at the investigation into the artillery fraud, but the Mexican government has ignored the requests of the people here.

DIDN'T KILL GIRL

Dying Man Says That He is Sorry

NEW YORK, June 23.—A man with bullet wounds in the chest and head regained consciousness yesterday afternoon as he lay on a cot in Fordham hospital.

"How am I?" he murmured. "Do I die?"

"It's pretty bad; you may," said the doctor.

"How is Agnes?" asked the patient. "Agnes is going to get well."

"I am sorry," said the man. A few minutes later he relapsed into unconsciousness. In an hour he was dead.

The man was Giorgio Londo, 32 years old, of 317 East 121st street. At 6:30 o'clock in the morning he had shot down Agnes Miele in front of her father's grocery at Prospect avenue and Jennings street, the Bronx. Then he had shot himself.

The formerly worked in the grocery and was in love with Miss Miele, who, however, did not return his affection. When he persisted in his attentions her father disapproved him. Since then, according to Mr. Miele, he has received several threatening letters from Londo. Agnes, a youthful clerk, was in the store yesterday, when Londo rushed in, seized her and begged her to marry him. She tried to free herself, but he dragged her to the sidewalk and shot her in the shoulder and at the base of the skull. He then fired a bullet into his chest. Realizing he placed the pistol to his temple and fired again.

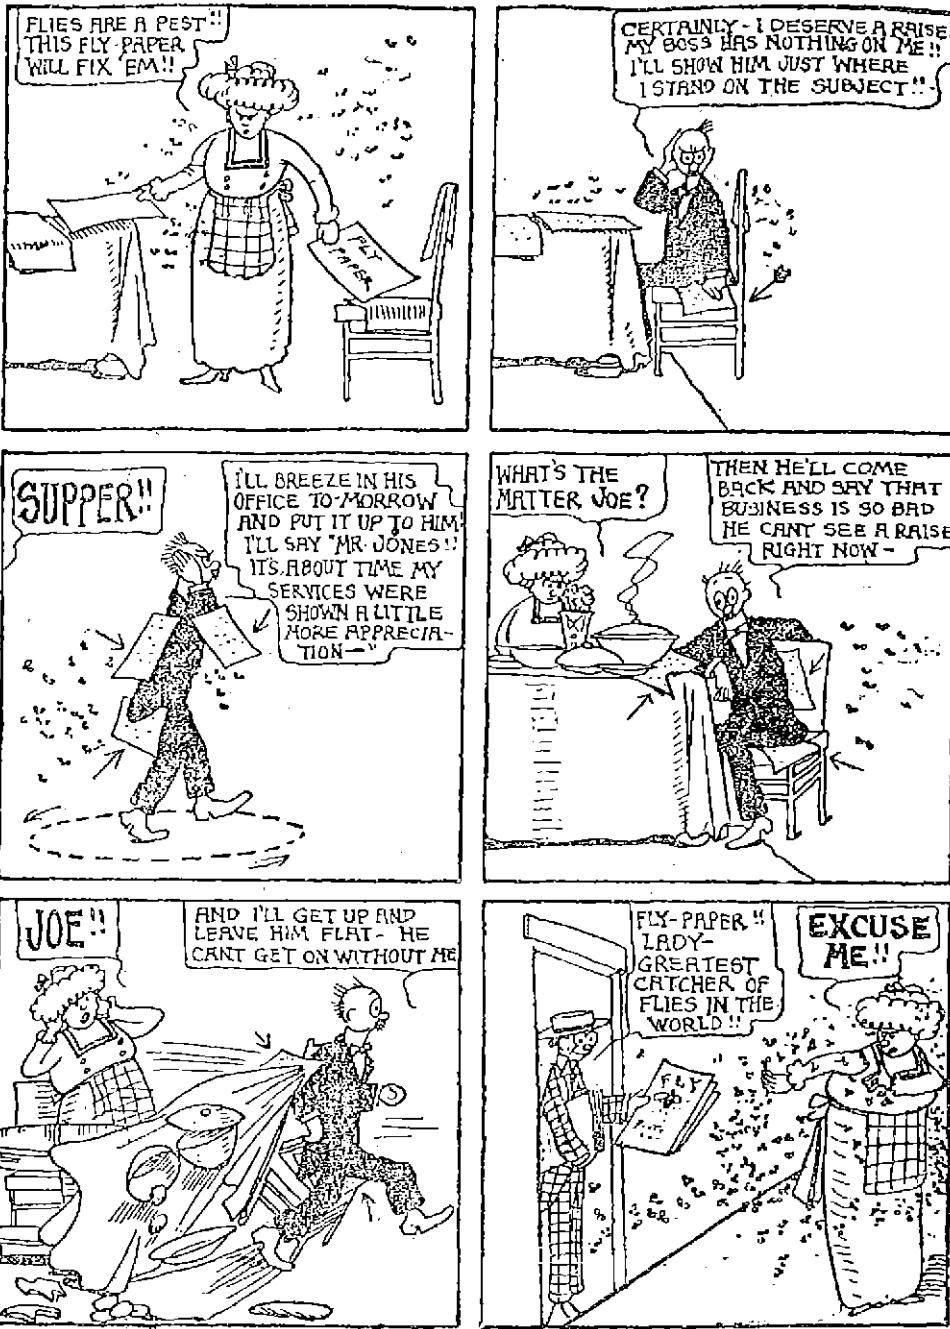

AT LAKEVIEW PARK

The Marriott Twins Co. will open the season of big, free acts at Lakeview park with performances every afternoon and evening. The act which is presented by this troupe is one of the greatest novelties on the stage. It is original and utterly unlike anything else.

The troupe is made up of one woman and four men, including Dick Ford, Barnum & Bailey's greatest clown, who is probably the best known of any of the prominent clowns of the sawdust ring. At Lakeview park, at the Hippodrome, at Pittsburgh and other big show houses the act has made a tremendous hit. It has been presented in this country but a short time, having come from France.

A very laughable absurdity that is irresistible is happily combined with tricks that cause a sensation. Thrill autos, bicycles, carriages and all sorts of wheeled vehicles are introduced and made use of in acrobatic and balancing work in a way that shows wonderful originality of conception as well as infinite skill.—Adv.

EXCUSE ME!

YOUNG MAN IS HELD

Police Say He is Head of Forgers

NEW YORK, June 23.—A young Italian high school graduate who, according to his father, was an engineering student for a while at Columbia university, was held in the Yorkville court yesterday for the grand jury accused of forging checks and passing a group of Italians who used the checks to get about $5,000 from New York banks in the last year.

The student is George Porazzo, son of an ex-convict who had risen in the world until he now possesses a wine store at 400 East Eleventh street.

The son was arrested in September, 1910, charged with swindling the Astor place branch of the Corn Exchange bank, was bailed and has not yet been tried. It is charged that he resumed check forging.

In February last one of his alleged band was arrested while presenting a forged check in the Fourteenth Street bank and was sent to Elmira. A few days later Annie Goldman, alias Jeanette Brown, was captured in the Twenty-eighth street branch of the Corn Exchange bank while presenting a check that Porazzo is supposed to have forged. She said she was not the real culprit and the grand jury did not indict her.

Porazzo was followed by Pinkerton detectives. Usually, they say, he handed the checks to a go-between, but at last they saw him give a forged check to Chas. Mubler and Stephen Maggi, two of his alleged agents, and on Saturday last Mubler and Maggi were arrested just after they had robbed private letter boxes near Greene and Bleeker streets and taken checks from some of the letters they had pocketed. They were held for the grand jury.

On Wednesday, Porazzo was arrested in an Italian club at 402 East Twelfth street. The police and the Pinkertons say they have found his handwriting on many forged checks. So far as they know he never took a check to a bank himself, but through a go-between hired his comrades to do it by the job.

With Porazzo were held for the grand jury yesterday Nicholas Filinger, alias Flying Jerry, or Philip Stanley, Frank Williams, alias Billy O'Neil, and Antonio Carnivale, all charged with swindling banks with Porazzo's checks.

Small accounts solicited and appreciated. The Old Lowell National Bank.

POLICE USED CLUBS

To Prevent Panic at Fire in New York

NEW YORK, June 23.—A pair of night sticks, judiciously wielded, probably saved several lives last night in a fire in the four-story tenement house, No. 49 Oliver street. Patrolmen Meyer and Hickey, of the Oak street station, were the men behind the clubs.

Soon after 7 o'clock a blaze sprung up in the flat of Rafael Albano on the second floor. The Albano and their children started for the street simultaneously with forty other families, many of the men and women trying to save their possessions.

A terrible jam resulted at the head of the last flight of stairs. When the two policemen got there several hundred persons were struggling toward the ground, and it looked as though many might be trampled to death or smothered.

Patrolmen Meyer and Hickey got out their clubs and beat into submission the men who were trying to get down the steps first. Then they led the women and children out. Several over-excited foreigners were cut and bruised, but they were served right. The fire, the cause of which is not known, did about $5,000 damage to the tenement. Several families were rendered homeless, but got sleeping quarters with neighbors.

Small accounts solicited and appreciated. The Old Lowell National Bank.

THE BAR CLOSED

IT WAS THE ONLY ONE IN SANDWICH

SANDWICH, June 23.—Justice Swift of the district court at Barnstable has made a ruling which may be far reaching in the prosecution of the illegal sale of intoxicating liquor. A few days ago an injunction was asked against Proprietor Conney of the Central House of this town, on the ground that his application for license was not properly advertised.

Sandwich voted for license at the last election and the selectmen voted to grant the license to Mr. Conney. The anti-license men claimed that the notice was not properly advertised. The statutes say that an applicant for license must advertise for three consecutive weeks in a paper published and printed in the town from which the license is to be granted, or by posting such notice in some conspicuous place in said town. Though Mr. Conney advertised in a local paper it was really printed in Boston.

Justice Swift granted the injunction yesterday, and as a result the only open bar on Cape Cod is closed.

TESTED BY JURORS

They Sampled Bottle Seized at a Hotel

NEWBURY, June 23.—Andrew Houston of Warwick, who runs a hotel, was on trial before a jury here yesterday. One of the witnesses claimed to have bought beer on Sunday and had taken the bottle to his room and later delivered it to the Rev. Mr. Knox, a reform minister, who had employed the minister to seal the bottle and marked his statement on a label.

When the case came to trial counsel for the prisoner raised the point that there was no proof it was beer. Assistant District Attorney Wilson consented to the suggestion of the attorney for the prisoner that the seal be broken, the bottle opened and the jury permitted to decide as to its contents. The bottle was seized in April and had not been on ice since.

The jury tested thoroughly, one taking a second pull at the bottle, for he was not certain whether it was plain lager or beer. The contents were pretty well gone when the twelve men were through the sampling. They
